The 2008 ACC Baseball Media Guide is a publication of the Office of the Commissioner and the Media Relations Office of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Additional information is available upon request to accredited members of the media.

Edited by Kristie Le with assistance from Brian Morrison, Barb Dery, Heather Hirschman and Nick Clarke. Special thanks to the 12 baseball sports information directors and previous league contacts for their valuable research and contribution in this publication. Cover design by Emily Watkins. Printing by Walnut Circle Press in Greensboro, N.C.

A special recognition and thanks to Dr. Harold Vigodsky, who unexpectedly passed away December 27, 2007. Harold was not only a longtime statistician at Clemson, he was also an ACC volunteer who dedicated his time and provided valuable assistance at numerous league events. This year's ACC Baseball Championship will not be the same without Harold.

Fans may obtain copies of this guide, priced at $13.00 (includes shipping) through the ACC Office.

Tradition of Excellence

The Tradition

Consistency. It is the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 55th year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 106 national championships, including 56 in women's competition and 50 in men's (through fall 2007). In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 139 times in men's competition and 86 times in women's action.

The Wake Forest Demon Deacons captured the league's first baseball national title in 1954, the inaugural season of ACC baseball. The Miami Hurricanes, who joined the ACC for the 2004-05 campaign, has claimed four national hardball titles (1982, 1985, 1999, 2001) over the past 25 years.

In 2007, the ACC produced another record season as it led all conferences and tied the league record for the second year in a row and third all-time with seven teams participating in the NCAA Tournament. Six of the seven teams (Clemson, Florida State, Miami, North Carolina, NC State and Virginia) returned to the national postseason event, while Wake Forest made an NCAA appearance for the first time since 2003. It marked the fifth time in ACC history that at least six teams received a bid into the national tournament. In addition, the ACC was one of two conferences to have a pair of teams garner a national seed as North Carolina earned the No. 3 overall seed and Florida State was No. 6. Over the last 11 years, the current 12 ACC schools have combined for 72 NCAA Tournament appearances, winning 61 percent of their games (236-152) and taking 17 trips to the College World Series.

The league also received unprecedented coverage in 2007, as a total of 53 ACC games were televised by various markets including all 13 contests in the ACC Baseball Tournament for the first time in league history. This year's coverage of the ACC Championship on a collection of six different television networks showcased the tournament being played in a round-robin format for the first time ever. North Carolina captured its first championship crown in 18 years and fifth overall, while Wake Forest became only the second No. 8 seeded team to advance to the title game, and individual session attendance was shattered three times.

After sending an ACC-record four teams to the College World Series in 2006, North Carolina returned to the CWS as the league's lone representative in 2007. The Tar Heels battled their way back to the CWS championship series for the second-straight year, a feat accomplished only twice in school history, but later succumbed to the defending national champion Oregon State Beavers. In the 61 years of the CWS, the battle between UNC and Oregon State marked only the second back-to-back national championship match-up in the event's history. UNC became the fifth team to post consecutive runner-up finishes in the CWS and was one of three teams to have made a pair of appearances in the CWS finals since the NCAA went to its current championship format in 2003. The Tar Heels finished the 2007 season with an NCAA-best 57 victories and ranked second in the nation with a combined 111 wins from the past two years. (Rice led with 113.)

For the 16th straight season, the ACC posted a non-conference winning percentage over 60 percent, winning 73 percent of the games played against non-conference opponents in 2007. The ACC recorded 244 wins last season, pushing the conference's record to 3,913-1,560-20 (.714) in non-league play since 1990.

2007 marked just the second year of division play for the ACC, as Florida State won its first Atlantic title and North Carolina repeated as the Coastal winner. The 2007 championship, which was held at The Baseball Grounds of Jacksonville in Jacksonville, Fla., for third straight year, featured a new look as the tournament changed to a round-robin format. North Carolina captured its first championship crown in 18 years and fifth all-time after defeating Wake Forest, only the second No. 8 seeded team to advance to the title game, by a score of 3-2. The individual session attendance mark for the ACC Baseball Championship in 2007 was broken three times and produced the third-best showing in its 34 year history as 59,325 fans attended the five-day affair.

One of the most profound seasons for ACC baseball came in 2006 when the league established several records. It marked the first year of divisional play for the conference, as Clemson claimed the Atlantic Division title while North Carolina took home the Coastal Division crown. The league combined for a 255-86-1 record, setting an ACC mark for non-conference victories (255) in a single season. The previous record of 249 wins was set back in 2002. Not only did the ACC finish with the most wins (31) and the highest winning percentage (.674) among the 29 other conferences competing in the NCAA postseason in 2006, but the ACC also set a league record for the most teams (4) to make it to the CWS. With a 31-15 record, the ACC posted a winning percentage of .674, the third-best postseason showing in conference history. In addition, a new tournament attendance record was set at the 2006 ACC Championship as 73,251 fans attended the five-day event in Jacksonville.

The ACC has consistently infused Major League Baseball with talented players. The current 12 ACC schools have had 594 players selected in the MLB Draft since 1994, including 50 first-round picks. In 2007, the ACC set a new mark with 63 student-athletes selected in the Draft after sending a league-best 51 the previous year. The conference also had a trio of student-athletes chosen in the first round, extending the ACC's streak of at least one student-athlete selected in the first round to 16 consecutive years. Clemson led all schools for the second year in a row, as 11 Tigers were picked in the 2007 Draft. The ACC has produced four No. 1 overall picks in North Carolina's B.J. Surhoff in 1985, Florida State's Paul Wilson in 1994, Clemson's Kris Benson in 1996 and Miami's Pat Burrell in 1998.

2006-07 in Review

The 2006-07 academic year concluded with league teams capturing five national team titles and 24 individual NCAA crowns. In all, the ACC has won 39 national team titles over the last 11 years. The ACC has won two or more NCAA titles in 25 of the past 27 years.

A total of 137 ACC teams placed in NCAA post-season competition in 2006-07. League teams compiled a 109-70-7 (.605) mark against non-conference opponents in NCAA championship competition. In addition, the ACC had 181 student-athletes earn first team All-America honors this past year. Overall, the league had 250 first, second or third team All-Americans. In addition, the ACC produced nine national Player of the Year and six national Coach of the Year honorees.

The Championships

The conference will conduct championship competition in 24 sports during the 2007-08 academic year - 12 for men and 12 for women.

The first ACC championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954. The conference did not conduct championships in cross country, wrestling or tennis during the first year.

The 12 sports for men include football, cross country, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse. Fencing, which was started in 1971, was discontinued in 1981.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 with the first championship meet being held in tennis at Wake Forest University.

Championships for women are currently conducted in cross country, field hockey, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, golf, lacrosse, softball and rowing.

A History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C., with seven charter members - Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest - drawing up the conference by-laws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference's annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, N.C., where a set of bylaws was adopted and the name became officially the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Suggestions from fans for the name of the new conference appeared in the region's newspapers prior to the meeting in Raleigh. Some of the names suggested were: Dixie, Mid South, Mid Atlantic, East Coast, Seaboard, Colonial, Tobacco, Blue-Gray, Piedmont, Southern Seven and the Shoreline.

Duke's Eddie Cameron recommended that the name of the conference be the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the motion was passed unanimously. The meeting concluded with each member institution assessed $200.00 to pay for conference expenses.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted the University of Virginia as the league's eighth member. The first, and only, withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971, when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when the Georgia Institute of Technology was admitted. The Atlanta school had withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference in January of 1964.

The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State University.

The conference expanded to 11 members on July 1, 2004, with the addition of the University of Miami and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. On October 17, 2003, Boston College accepted an invitation to become the league's 12th member starting July 1, 2005.

The Schools

Boston College was founded in 1863 by the Society of Jesus to serve the sons of Boston's Irish immigrants and was the first institution of higher education to be founded in the city of Boston. Originally located on Harrison Avenue in the South End of Boston, the College outgrew its urban setting toward the end of its first 50 years. A new location was selected in Chestnut Hill and ground for the new campus was broken on June 19, 1909. During the 1940s, new purchases doubled the size of the main campus. In 1974, Boston College acquired Newton College of the Sacred Heart, 1.5 miles away. With 15 buildings on 40 acres, it is now the site of the Law School and residence halls. In 2004, BC purchased 43 acres of land from the archdiocese of Boston; this now forms the Brighton campus.

Clemson University is nestled in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains near the Georgia border, and the tiger paws painted on the roads make the return to I-85 easier. The school is built around Fort Hill, the plantation home of John C. Calhoun, Vice President to Andrew Jackson. His son-in-law, Tom Clemson, left the land to be used as an agricultural school, and in 1893 Clemson opened its doors as a land-grant school, thanks to the efforts of Ben Tillman.

Duke University was founded in 1924 by tobacco magnate James B. Duke as a memorial to his father, Washington Duke. Originally the school was called Trinity College, a Methodist institution, started in 1859. In 1892, Trinity moved to west Durham where the east campus with its Georgian architecture now stands. Nearby are Sarah P. Duke gardens, and further west the Gothic spires of Duke chapel overlook the west campus.

Florida State University is one of 11 universities of the State University System of Florida. It was established as the Seminary West of the Suwannee by an act of the Florida Legislature in 1851, and first offered instruction at the post-secondary level in 1857. Its Tallahassee campus has been the site of an institution of higher education longer than any other site in the state. In 1905, the Buckman Act reorganized higher education in the state and designated the Tallahassee school as the Florida Female College. In 1909, it was renamed Florida State College for Women. In 1947, the school returned to a co-educational status, and the name was changed to Florida State University.

Next to I-85 in downtown Atlanta stands Georgia Institute of Technology, founded in 1885. Its first students came to pursue a degree in mechanical engineering, the only one offered at the time. Tech's strength is not only the red clay of Georgia, but a restored gold and white 1930 model A Ford Cabriolet, the official mascot. The old Ford was first used in 1961, but a Ramblin' Wreck had been around for over three decades. The Ramblin' Wreck fight song appeared almost as soon as the school opened, and it is not only American boys that grow up singing its rollicking tune, for Richard Nixon and Nikita Krushchev sang it when they met in Moscow in 1959.

The University of Maryland opened in 1856 as an agricultural school nine miles north of Washington, D.C., on land belonging to Charles Calvert, a descendant of Lord Baltimore, the state's founding father. The school colors are the same as the state flag: black and gold for George Calvert (Lord Baltimore) and red and white for his mother, Alice Crossland. Maryland has been called the school that Curley Byrd built, for he was its quarterback, then football coach, athletic director, assistant to the president, vice-president, and finally its president. Byrd also designed the football stadium and the campus layout, and suggested the nickname Terrapin, a local turtle known for its bite, when students wanted to replace the nickname Old Liners with a new one for the school.

The University of Miami was chartered in 1925 by a group of citizens who felt an institution of higher learning was needed for the development of their young and growing community. Since the first class of 560 students enrolled in the fall of 1926, the University has expanded to more than 15,000 undergraduate and graduate students from every state and more than 114 nations from around the world. The school's colors are a representative of the Florida orange tree, selected in 1926. Orange symbolizes the fruit of the tree, green represents the leaves and white, the blossoms.

The University of North Carolina, located in Chapel Hill, has been called "the perfect college town," making its tree-lined streets and balmy atmosphere what a college should look and feel like. Its inception in 1795 makes it one of the oldest schools in the nation, and its nickname of Tar Heels stems from the tar pitch and turpentine that were the state's principal industry. The nickname is as old as the school, for it was born during the Revolutionary War when tar was dumped into the streams to impede the advance of British forces.

North Carolina State University is located in the state capital of Raleigh. It opened in 1889 as a land-grant agricultural and mechanical school and was known as A&M or Aggies or Farmers for over a quarter-century. The school's colors of pink and blue were gone by 1895, brown and white were tried for a year, but the students finally chose red and white to represent the school. An unhappy fan in 1922 said State football players behaved like a pack of wolves, and the term that was coined in derision became a badge of honor.

The University of Virginia was founded in 1819 by Thomas Jefferson and is one of three things on his tombstone for which he wanted to be remembered. James Madison and James Monroe were on the board of governors in the early years. The Rotunda, a half-scale version of the Pantheon which faces the Lawn, is the focal point of the grounds as the campus is called. Jefferson wanted his school to educate leaders in practical affairs and public service, not just to train teachers.

Virginia Tech was established in 1872 as an all-male military school dedicated to the original land-grant mission of teaching agriculture and engineering. The University has grown from a small college of 132 students into the largest institution of higher education in the state during its 132-year history. Located in Southwest Virginia on a plateau between the Blue Ridge and Alleghany Mountains, the campus consists of 334 buildings and 20 miles of sidewalks over 2,600 acres. The official school colors - Chicago maroon and burnt orange - were selected in 1896 because they made a "unique combination" not worn elsewhere at the time.

Wake Forest University was started on Calvin Jones' plantation amid the stately pine forest of Wake County in 1834. The Baptist seminary is still there, but the school was moved to Winston-Salem in 1956 on a site donated by Charles H. and Mary Reynolds Babcock. President Harry S. Truman attended the ground-breaking ceremonies that brought a picturesque campus of Georgian architecture and painted roofs. Wake's colors have been black and gold since 1895, thanks to a badge designed by student John Heck who died before he graduated.

John D. Swofford

Now in his eleventh year as commissioner, John Swofford has made a dramatic impact on the Atlantic Coast Conference and college athletics and is regarded as one of the top administrators in the NCAA.

Swofford assumed his role as the fourth full-time commissioner in the 53-year history of the Atlantic Coast Conference in July of 1997. He follows James H. (Jim) Weaver, the league's first Commissioner from 1954-1970, Robert (Bob) James, who served from 1971-1987 and Eugene F. (Gene) Corrigan, who held the position from 1987 to 1997.

In addition to overseeing one of the nation's largest athletic conferences, Swofford has been pivotal in positioning the Atlantic Coast Conference for the future. In 2003, on behalf of the nine league institutions and the ACC Council of Presidents, he introduced Miami, Virginia Tech and Boston College as the newest members of the ACC.

Since becoming a 12-member conference for the 2005-06 academic year, the league has claimed 11 national titles including an all-time high six championships in 2005-06. During this time, the ACC has established new conference standards for excellence in the NFL draft, the Women's Basketball Final Four, the College World Series, television ratings and numerous Olympic Sport national successes.

With the expansion, Swofford's leadership and negotiating skills helped bring the conference extended and enhanced television contracts in both football and basketball. In May of 2004, the league extended its relationships with ABC, ESPN and Jefferson-Pilot (now Lincoln-Financial Sports) by renegotiating its football television agreements. Highlights include the rights to the Inaugural ACC Football Championship Game and significant increases in the number of televised games through 2010.

In May of 2000, Swofford negotiated one of the nation's most lucrative basketball television contracts with Raycom/Jefferson-Pilot Sports through the 2010-11 season. After the addition of the three new conference members, under Swofford's guidance, Raycom/Jefferson-Pilot increased its financial commitment to the ACC basketball package in May of 2004. During his tenure, the ACC has become the only conference to have television packages with two national cable networks - ESPN and Fox Sports Net. The results of these packages increased the television audience of ACC basketball by over 25 percent.

In order to reach the expanding audience of ACC fans, Swofford also negotiated an agreement with XM Satellite Radio, to broadcast the league's football, men's and women's basketball games nationally.

The North Wilkesboro, N.C., native was a prime mover in the creation of the ACC/Big Ten Basketball Challenge, a three-day series matching two of the nation's premiere college basketball conferences.

Highly respected by his peers, Swofford was a force in the development and growth of the Bowl Championship Series (BCS) to determine an annual national champion in Division I football. In addition to being involved with the BCS since its inception, he served as Coordinator of the BCS for the 2000 and 2001 college football seasons and is currently the chair of the Division I-A Collegiate Commissioners Association. He will once again assume the role of Coordinator for the BCS for a second two-year term in January, 2008.

Since becoming Commissioner in 1997, Swofford has been responsible for securing increased bowl opportunities for the ACC. In 2002, the conference set an NCAA record when seven of its nine teams (78%) participated in bowl play and in each of the past two years, a league-record eight teams earned bowl bids.

In January of 2001, the Triangle Chapter of the College Football Hall of Fame named Swofford the recipient of its "Outstanding American Award." In the fall of 2002, he was named to the North Carolina High School Athletic Association's Hall of Fame and in December of 2003 he was inducted into the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl Hall of Fame. In 2003, The Sporting News named Swofford the fifth most influential person in sports in the United States. The Atlanta Sports Council presented Swofford with the 2004 Horizon Award, recognizing him as the national Sports Business Executive of the Year.

During Swofford's first ten years as Commissioner, ACC teams have won 37 national titles while participating in 52 national championship games. In addition, 937 ACC teams have participated in various NCAA championships during his 10 years - an average of almost 94 NCAA teams per year.

A long-time advocate of the importance of academics and student-athlete welfare, Swofford stimulated the formation of the league's first-ever ACC Student-Athlete Advisory Committee. This group of current ACC student-athletes gives the conference direct feedback on their experiences participating at the highest level of college athletics.

In 2006, the prestigious ACC Men's Basketball Tournament was awarded out to 2015. Throughout Swofford's tenure, the iconic event will have traveled to many dynamic cities within the footprint of the league including Atlanta, Ga., Washington D.C. and Tampa, Fla., in addition to the traditional stops in Greensboro and Charlotte. The 2001 ACC Tournament in Atlanta set NCAA attendance records for single session (40,083), per session average (36,505) and total attendance (182,525).

Swofford placed an added emphasis on the development of women's basketball in the ACC with the hiring of an Associate Commissioner for Women's Basketball to oversee all aspects of the sport on both a conference and national level.

In addition to his influence and presence in the ACC, Swofford has been a prominent leader in intercollegiate athletics, serving as President of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) in 1993-94. In 2002, Swofford was appointed as a member of the NCAA Football Oversight Committee. In addition, he has served as a member of the prestigious NCAA Executive Committee. He was named chairman of the NCAA Football Television Committee in 1984 and was also chairman of the NCAA Communications and NCAA Special Events/Post-season Bowl Committees. Swofford is a past chairman of the NCAA Division

I Championship Committee and was appointed to the NCAA Special Committee to Study a Division I-A Football Championship.

During his 21 years as an athletics director and assistant athletics director in the league, Swofford chaired numerous ACC committees, including five terms as chair of the ACC Television Committee.

The Director of Athletics at the University of North Carolina from 1980 to 1997, Swofford was instrumental in building North Carolina's athletics department into one of the country's most respected programs. During his tenure, Tar Heel athletic teams claimed 123 ACC championships and 24 national collegiate titles, including two in men's basketball and one in women's basketball. During the 1993-94 year, the Tar Heels captured the inaugural Sears Directors' Cup, emblematic of the collegiate all-sports champion. North Carolina finished in the Top Six of the Sears Cup standings in each year of Swofford's tenure that the award was given. Four of Swofford's coaching hires at UNC went on to win national championships at the school.

Under his leadership, North Carolina enjoyed tremendous growth in its athletic facilities, including the construction of the Smith Center, a complex which includes a 21,572-seat basketball arena, the Koury Natatorium and the Frank H. Kenan Football Center. He initiated the idea and provided the impetus for the founding of North Carolina's trademark licensing program.

The University chose to recognize his many accomplishments by establishing the John D. Swofford women's athletics scholarship and naming an auditorium in the school's football complex in his honor.

Swofford was a two-time all-state football player and three-sport MVP in football, basketball and track at Wilkes Central High School. He is a 1971 graduate of North Carolina and a recipient of the prestigious Morehead Scholarship. In 1973, Swofford received a MEd. degree with a major in Athletics Administration from Ohio University, which is often referred to as the Harvard of sports management programs. He received the Charles R. Higgins Distinguished Alumnus Award from Ohio University in 1984.

Athletically, Swofford followed in the footsteps of his older brother Jim, and played his collegiate football in the ACC. Whereas Jim played tackle for Duke from 1957 to 1959, John played quarterback and defensive back for North Carolina from 1969 to 1971. The 1970 team went to the Peach Bowl while the 1971 squad captured the school's first-ever outright ACC title and played in the Gator Bowl. Swofford was named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics.

Swofford began his administrative career when past ACC Commissioner and then University of Virginia Athletics Director Gene Corrigan hired him as the school's athletic ticket manager and assistant to the director of athletic facilities and finance in the fall of 1973.

He returned to Chapel Hill in May 1976 as assistant athletics director and business manager, handling all of the athletic department's business affairs. Swofford dropped the business manager title in January 1979, and was named assistant executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation.

Swofford became the school's athletic director on May 1, 1980. At the age of 31, he was the youngest major college Athletics Director in the nation at the time.

John and his wife Nora reside in Greensboro, N.C. Together they have three children, Autumn, who in July married Sherman Wooden, Chad Swofford and Nora's daughter, Amie, who is married to Keith Furr.

ACC Interview Policy

All postgame interviews with coaches will be conducted in a press interview area designated by the host sports information director. There will be a maximum 10-minute "cooling off" period, at which time the winning head coach must enter the interview area.

The losing head coach should enter the interview area not more than 10 minutes after the start of the interview of the winning head coach.

The host SID, per mutual agreement with the visiting sports information director, may adjust the order of the above postgame interview procedure as long as media access to coaches and players is guaranteed.

Player & Pitcher of the Week

Each week during the regular season, a panel of media representatives within the ACC region select an ACC Baseball Player and Pitcher of the Week. Honorees are announced Monday afternoon and appear in the weekly press release. Nominations for the awards are submitted by the leagues' 12 member institutions.

ACC Honors and Awards

The All-Atlantic Coast Conference first and second teams, as well as the Coach, Player, Pitcher and Freshman of the Year are selected by a vote of the 12 head coaches at the end of the regular season. The teams and individual award winners will be announced on Monday, May 19.

ACC Select

Raycom Sports and Turner Broadcasting System, in partnership with The Atlantic Coast Conference, will offer on-line video streaming of ACC conference sports during the 2007-2008 school year.

ACC Select offered exclusive online coverage of ACC baseball in 2007, marking the first time in ACC history that the conference provided online video streams of the sport's regular season games to a national fan base. More than 115 ACC baseball games were broadcast, delivering an unprecedented opportunity for fans to watch live and on-demand coverage of a college sport rarely available to watch on television.

The new broadband network called ACCSelect will primarily stream sports that are not available through traditional broadcast and cable television distribution. The entire conference package is available at www.ACCSelect.com to viewers with a broadband internet connection. Each of the 12 ACC schools will have events available on the new service.

Annual, monthly and single-game passes are available - visit www.ACCSelect.com to get started.

ACC All-Access is a weekly half-hour television show that is dedicated to showcasing the Atlantic Coast Conference. In the fall, ACC All-Access lends its attention to football along with updates from the Olympic sports. After the New Year, All-Access focuses its lens on men's and women's hoops action, and in the spring to baseball. It can be seen on FOX Sports Net South and FOX Sports Florida every Tuesday night. In addition, Comcast SportsNet and NESN will carry the show. Check your local listings for broadcast information.

All 8 teams will play a minimum of 3 games in a round-robin format within their division

Divisions for the Baseball Championship will be broken up as follows:

Division A - consists of seeds #1, 4, 5 and 8

Division B - consists of seeds #2, 3, 6 and 7

ACC Championships in the Sunshine State

- Since the ACC began conducting a baseball championship in 1973, the tournament has been played in the state of Florida a total of five times. Four different schools (Clemson, Florida State, Georgia Tech and North Carolina) each won the league crown, while Florida State collected a pair in 1997 and 2002.
- The 2008 ACC Baseball Championship returns to Jacksonville, Fla., for the fourth consecutive year. The league has produced three different champions at the Baseball Grounds of Jacksonville, as Georgia Tech captured the 2005 championship, followed by Clemson in 2006 and last year's champion North Carolina. All three teams were seeded No. 1.
- In 2007, the league tournament featured a new look as the format changed from double-elimination to round-robin. North Carolina captured its first ACC crown in 18 years and fifth all-time after securing a 3-2 win over Wake Forest, only the second eight-seeded team to advance to the championship title game in the tournament's history.
- For the first time in league tournament history, all 13 games were televised either live, tape delayed and/or both by a collection of six different networks which included FSN South, SportsSouth, FSN Florida, SUN Sports, Comcast Sports Mid-Atlantic and NESN.

ACC By the Numbers

In the 61 years of the College World Series, the championship battle between North Carolina and Oregon State marked only the second back-to-back national championship match-up in the event's history. UNC succumbed to the defending champion Beavers in the first two games of the series.

The ACC had two teams awarded a national seed in the 2007 NCAA Tournament as North Carolina was tabbed No. 3 and Florida State was No. 6. The ACC and SEC were the only two conferences to have a pair of teams garner a national seed in this year's national postseason tournament.

The ACC tied a league record for the second year in a row and third all-time, as seven teams received a bid to compete in the 2007 NCAA Baseball Tournament. The ACC led all conferences with the most representatives in the 2007 NCAA Tournament.

16

With three first-round selections in the 2007 Major League Baseball Draft, the ACC extended its streak with at least one student-athlete selected in the first round to 16 consecutive years. Clemson's Daniel Moskos, Georgia Tech's Matt Wieters and NC State's Andrew Brackman were all selected in the first round.

63

In 2007, the ACC set a new conference mark with 63 student-athletes selected in the MLB Draft after sending a league-best 51 the previous year.

244

The ACC recorded its third-best league record for non-conference victories in a single-season with 244 last year. The 2006 season was one for the record books, as the league established an all-time, single-season best 255 non-conference victories.

2007 College World Series

• For the second-straight year, the ACC was represented among the eight-team field in Omaha after a three-year hiatus from the College World Series. North Carolina started off 1-2 but rallied back to win the last two games in its bracket and advance to the championship series for the second time in school history.

• North Carolina was swept by defending champion Oregon State in the CWS championship series, making it the second year in a row the Tar Heels finished runner-up to the Beavers for the national title.

• The Tar Heels concluded the 2007 season with an NCAA-best 57 victories, posting an overall record of 57-16.

• UNC, Oregon State and Texas are the only three teams to have made two appearances in the CWS Finals since the NCAA went to its current championship format in 2003.

• UNC became the fifth team to post consecutive runner-up finishes in the CWS, joining Yale (1947-48), Arizona State (1972-73), Texas (1984-85) and Stanford (2000-01).

• The Tar Heels' 111 wins over the last two seasons are the second most in the nation behind Rice's 113.

• In 61 years of the NCAA Men's College World Series, the battle between North Carolina and Oregon State was only the second back-to-back national championship match-up in the event's history. Arizona State and USC met in the championship series in 1972 and 1973.

• Wake Forest remains the lone ACC team to have captured the NCAA championship crown, winning the title in 1955.

• The ACC tied the league record for the second year in a row and third all-time, as seven teams received the nod to compete in the 2007 NCAA Baseball Tournament.

• ACC champion North Carolina and Florida State were one of eight schools from the 64-team field to earn a national seed with the Tar Heels tabbed No. 3 and the Seminoles at No. 6.

• The ACC and SEC were the only two conferences to have a pair of teams garner a national seed in this year's national postseason tournament.

• The ACC led all conferences with the most representatives in the 2007 NCAA Tournament. The Big 12 was second with six selections, followed by the SEC's five nods. The Big West, Conference USA and Pacific-10 placed four teams each.

2007 All-ACC Academic Team

A trio of All-Americans, nine Major League Baseball draft picks and seven All-Atlantic Coast Conference honorees, including ACC Pitcher of the Year Bryan Henry of Florida State, highlighted the 2007 All-ACC Academic Baseball Team.

Florida State secured seven selections to lead all ACC schools, followed by five nods each from Virginia Tech and Wake Forest. Duke, Georgia Tech, Maryland and Virginia landed four picks, while Clemson and NC State each received three. Rounding out the 41-member academic contingent with one student-athlete apiece was Boston College and Miami.

To be eligible for consideration, a student-athlete must have earned a 3.00 grade point average for the previous semester and maintained a 3.00 cumulative average during his academic career.

ACC Player of the Year Tony Thomas, Jr., Florida State

In becoming the first Florida State player to earn ACC Player of the Year honors since 2001 and the fourth overall, Thomas led the league in six statistical categories - runs scored (91), doubles (33), triples (6), batting average (.430), on-base percentage (.522) and slugging percentage (.733). The second baseman from Valrico, Fla., also garnered National Player of the Year honors by Collegiate Baseball and Rivals.com in 2007 and was tabbed first team All-American by ABCA, Baseball America, Collegiate Baseball, NCBWA and Rivals.com. In addition, Thomas was named a finalist for the Dick Howser Trophy and the Brooks Wallace and Golden Spikes Awards.

ACC Pitcher of the Year Bryan Henry, Florida State

Florida State's Bryan Henry was named ACC Pitcher of the Year in 2007, becoming the first Seminole to garner the league accolade. He finished the season fourth in the league with a 2.60 earned run average and posted a 14-2 record. The senior from Tallahassee, Fla., recorded his 14 wins in all 18 starts last season and along with Thomas, was named as a semifinalist for the Dick Howser Trophy and the Golden Spikes Award. In addition to the NCAA-best 14 wins, including nine in conference play, Henry led the ACC in strikeouts (117), innings pitched (117.2) and was fourth in opponents' batting average (.238). The right-handed pitcher garnered All-America distinction from several national organizations in 2007.

ACC Freshman of the Year Dustin Ackley, North Carolina

North Carolina's Dustin Ackley was the coaches' choice as the ACC Freshman of the Year. A first-team All-ACC pick at first base, Ackley recorded the second-best batting average (.402) in the league in 2007 with 10 home runs and 74 runs batted in. The All-American rookie from Walnut Cove, N.C., was instrumental in helping the Tar Heels finish runner-up at the College World Series for the second year in a row, post an NCAA-best 57 victories and claim their fifth all-time ACC Championship title. In becoming only the fourth Tar Heel to garner the league's top rookie accolade, Ackley was one of only two players in 2007 to be named ACC Player of the Week at least twice.

ACC Coach of the Year Mike Martin, Florida State

Florida State's Mike Martin was voted by his peers as ACC Coach of the Year for the fifth time after leading the Seminoles to the Atlantic Division title and the No. 1 seed in the 2007 ACC Baseball Championship. Florida State went 49-13 overall and, with its 24-6 record in league play, tied the ACC single-season conference game win mark of 24 set by Clemson a year earlier. Martin guided the Seminoles to their 16th consecutive trip to the NCAA Tournament, as the Seminoles not only earned an at-large bid but were awarded a national seed (No. 6). In addition, FSU hosted a regional finishing with a 2-2 record.
