Larry Coker

Presiding over what has been perhaps the most successful three year stretch in Miami football history, Larry Coker has quickly earned a reputation as one of college football's top coaches as he enters his fourth season as head football coach at the University of Miami. Coker has led the Hurricanes to one national championship, two Bowl Championship Series title game appearances, three consecutive BIG EAST Conference championships and a remarkable 35-3 record in three seasons as the head man in Coral Gables, one of the most successful starts of any coach in the history of college football. Miami notched its fifth football national title in 2001 and made it back to the championship game in 2002. In 2001, Coker not only took the Hurricanes all the way to an undefeated season and a national championship, he led the team to the most dominant season in Miami's rich football history. His 2002 team went unbeaten until a controversial and dramatic loss in the Fiesta Bowl. Coker's 2003 Hurricanes racked up a fourth straight Big East title and became college football's first team to make appearances in all four BCS bowl games in successive years. In 2001, Coker and Maryland's Ralph Friedgen were named the Paul "Bear" Bryant National Co-Coaches of the Year while in 2002 Coker was named National Coach of the Year by American Football Monthly. Prior to becoming Miami's head football coach, Coker served under Butch Davis as the Hurricanes' offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach since Davis' first season in 1995. Prior to his arrival in 1995, Coker spent two seasons at Ohio State (1993-94) coaching the defensive backfield. From 1990-92, Coker was offensive coordinator at Oklahoma, assisting the Sooners to two bowl victories. Before heading to Norman, Coker spent seven seasons as offensive coordinator at Oklahoma State in Stillwater. Coker first made the jump to Division I with Tulsa from 1979-82 as the offensive backfield coach.
