2005 NCAA CHAMPIONSHIP PREVIEW

On Monday, Nov. 21, 10 conference squads and seven individuals will compete at the 2005 NCAA Men's and Women's Cross Country Championships, which will be held at the Lavern Gibson Championship Course at the Wabash Valley Family Sports Complex in Terre Haute, Ind. Indiana State University will serve as host.

The men's 10,000-meter race will take place at 12 p.m. ET, followed by the women's 6,000-meter race at 1:15 p.m. Of the 10 Big Ten teams and seven individuals that qualified for the NCAA Championships, 10 were automatic qualifiers, while the remaining seven received at-large bids. The Michigan women and Wisconsin men earned automatic bids by way of claiming NCAA Regional titles as the Wolverines and Badgers captured the Great Lakes Regional Championships. The Minnesota women also earned an automatic bid with a second-place finish at the Midwest Regional.

On the men's side, five Big Ten teams - Indiana (31st appearance), Iowa (12th), Minnesota (17th), Ohio State (10th) and Wisconsin (45th) - will vie for the nation's top prize. In 2004, the Badgers took home second place overall and were led by NCAA champion Simon Bairu. Competing as individuals will be Michigan's Mike Woods (4th place, Great Lakes), Penn State's Dan Mazzocco (7th, Mid-Atlantic) and Illinois' Dan Stock (19th, Midwest).

Five women's squads will also be competing. Illinois will make its second-ever appearance at NCAAs and will join Michigan (17th), Michigan State (7th), Minnesota (9th) and Wisconsin (20th) in Terre Haute on Monday. A pair of Indiana runners advanced individually as the Hoosiers will be represented by Jessica Gall (5th place, Great Lakes) and Lindsay Hattendorf (8th, Great Lakes). Also competing individually will be Purdue's Lindsay Zinn (11th, Great Lakes) and Iowa's Meghan Armstrong (9th, Midwest).

All 10 conference squads are ranked in their respective polls. Wisconsin is ranked first in the Men's MONDO Top 30 Poll, followed by No. 12 Ohio State, No. 18 Iowa, No. 23 Minnesota and No. 29 Indiana. On the women's side, Michigan is ranked third in the FinishLynx Top 30 Poll, while Minnesota (12th), Illinois (14th), Wisconsin (22nd) and Michigan State (30th) round out the conference contingent.

Gates open for spectators at 9 a.m. on Monday, with admission prices set at $5 for adults and students. Children two years and younger are free. Results can be found immediately following the races at www.ncaasports.com and www.indstate.edu/athletic.

Big Ten Championships record in bold

BIG TEN MEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP IN REVIEW

The Wisconsin men's team, led by senior Simon Bairu, added to its dynasty last Sunday as the Badgers captured their seventh-straight championship in record fashion, while Bairu claimed his third individual title in as many years. Bairu shaved 14 seconds off his winning time from last year, as he crossed the finish line in an 8,000-meter time of 23:31.73, which was 25 seconds ahead of the pack. That pack was made up of mostly Badgers as they claimed eight of the nine top spots overall, leading to a near-perfect and Big Ten-record score of 16 as well as a conference-best 85-point victory over Ohio State.

The 16-point total is one better than the previous record of 17 set by Michigan State in 1959. The Badgers also bettered their previous Big Ten record for largest winning margin of 81, set last year, when they totaled a margin of 85 on Sunday.

Wisconsin junior Chris Solinsky stayed with Bairu for much of the race, but finished at 23:56.38 for second. Right behind him was freshman Matt Withrow at 24:06.58, and a tenth of a second later, fellow freshman Stuart Eagon crossed the line for fourth. The Badgers also placed Antony Ford, Christian Wagner, Time Nelson and Ben Gregory at positions six through ninth.

Indiana's Sean Jefferson broke up the sweep, finishing fifth with a time of 24:13.58.

Leaping four spots from a fifth-place finish in 2004, Ohio State turned up 101 points for second, paced by senior Brian Olinger's 10th-place finish at 24:41.38.

Minnesota finished a mere point behind the Buckeyes at third. Iowa slipped a spot from last year, landing in fourth with 124 points. It was also a narrow distance to fifth with Michigan taking the No. 5 spot with 125 points. Indiana totalled 137 points for sixth, after a runner-up finish in 2004. Michigan State remained steady from their 2004 finish at seventh, Purdue counted 235 points for an eighth-place finish.

Rounding out the team finishes, Penn State solidified the ninth spot with 239 points, while Illinois was not far behind with 241 for 10th.

In postseason awards announced November 2, Wisconsin's Bairu became the first Big Ten runner since Michigan's Kevin Sullivan to win three consecutive Athlete of the Year honors. Only Sullivan (1993-95, 97) and Indiana's Bob Kennedy (1988-90, 92) have won the annual award more than Bairu. Wisconsin's Matt Withrow was tabbed Freshman of the Year after finishing third at the Big Ten Championships last Sunday. The Badgers' Jerry Schumacher earned his fifth consecutive Big Ten Coach of the Year award in 2005, which marks his sixth honor in seven seasons. His sixth award ties the conference record for overall honors with former Wisconsin coach Martin Smith (1989-91-92-94-95-96). This marks the first time since Wisconsin in 2003 and the fourth time in Big Ten history (1991-93-03-05) a school has swept all postseason honors.

The conference office also announced honorees from each of the league's 10 cross country squads for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award. The student-athletes chosen are individuals who have distinguished themselves through sportsmanship and ethical behavior. In addition, the student-athletes must be in good academic standing and have demonstrated good citizenship outside of the sports-competition setting.

Honorees for men's cross country are Illinois' Dan Stock, Indiana's Stephen Haas, Iowa's Adam Roche, Michigan's Rondell Ruff, Michigan State's Nick Oertel, Minnesota's Trent Riter, Ohio State's Matt Penza, Penn State's Chris Nirschel, Purdue's Justin Stadt, Wisconsin's Ben Gregory.

These 10 student-athletes are now candidates for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award, as the conference office will honor one male and one female student-athlete from each institution at the end of the school year.

BIG TEN WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP IN REVIEW

Despite rainy conditions, the Big Ten Cross Country Championships came down to the final stretch of the 6,000-meter course at the Les Bolstad Golf Course hosted by the University of Minnesota. In the race to the finish, Illinois junior Cassie Hunt broke away from the pack to claim her first individual title with a race time of exactly 21 minutes. Three-time defending Big Ten champion Michigan won its fourth-straight title with three top-10 finishers.

The Wolverines claimed their fourth straight team title, a string that ranks third in championships history for consecutive titles won. Sophomore Alyson Kohlmeier paced the Wolverines, crossing the finish line second with a time of 21:02.74. Kohlmeier, who finished seventh at the meet last year, also earned All-Big Ten honors. Sophomore Erin Webster joined her on the All-Big Ten Team with a seventh-place finish at 21:22.04. Nicole Edwards was close behind, finishing eighth at 21:24.79. Wolverine senior Rebecca Walter, who won the individual title in 2003, came back from an early season injury to take eleventh place overall with a time of 21:32.79.

While Hunt claimed the individual championship, the Illini took second with 60 points, 18 behind Michigan's total of 42. Also finishing in the top five for the Illini, junior Stephanie Simms crossed the finish line at 21:11.84 for fourth place. Minnesota surged to third in the team standings with three finishers in the top six, including junior Emily Brown in third place at 21:11.74.

Indiana finished fourth with 128 points, climbing one spot from their fifth-place finish in 2004. Michigan State, last year's co-runner-up, fell three spots in the team standings to fifth on the heels of three top-30 individual finishers and 145 points. Wisconsin jumped two spots and earned sixth with 146 points, while Iowa double its seventh-place performance from last year, again earning 170 points.

The eighth-place team was Purdue, which moved up a spot from 2004 with its 180-point showing. Ohio State finished ninth with 257 points, Penn State was 10th at 258 and Northwestern rounded out the standings with 294.

In postseason awards announced November 2, Illinois' Hunt captured both the Athlete of the Championships and of the Year awards. She is the first Illini runner in school history to be tabbed as the season's top runner in the conference. Hunt's teammate, Katie Engel, was selected Freshman of the Year, marking just the second time in school history an Illini harrier earned the award. Hunt was named the league's top newcomer in 2003.

Michigan's Mike McGuire earned his fourth-straight Coach of the Year selection and his seventh overall, which ranks second in the league behind the nine annual awards of former Wisconsin coach Peter Tegen. The Wolverines have now finished in the top two at the championships 13 times in 14 seasons under McGuire's tutelage.

The conference office also announced honorees from each of the league's 11 cross country squads for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award. The student-athletes chosen are individuals who have distinguished themselves through sportsmanship and ethical behavior. In addition, the student-athletes must be in good academic standing and have demonstrated good citizenship outside of the sports-competition setting.

Honorees for women's cross country are Illinois' Hunt, Indiana's Lindsay Hattendorf, Iowa's Racheal Marchand, Michigan's Alyson Kohlmeier, Michigan State's Brittany Ballard, Minnesota's Lauren Williams, Northwestern's Celia Franklin, Ohio State's Sarah Cass, Penn State's Kate Curran, Purdue's Kaleena Cappel and Wisconsin's Maggie Grabow.

These 11 student-athletes are now candidates for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award, as the conference office will honor one male and one female student-athlete from each institution at the end of the school year.
