2005 NCAA REGIONAL PREVIEW

All 21 Big Ten men's and women's cross country squads will compete this weekend at their respective NCAA Regional sites for the chance to earn a coveted bid to the 2005 NCAA Championships. This Saturday, Nov. 12, six Big Ten men's and women's teams -- Indiana, Michigan, Michigan State, Ohio State, Purdue and Wisconsin -- will compete at the Great Lakes Regional in Bloomington, Ind. Penn State will travel to Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa., for the Mid-Atlantic Regional, while Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and the Northwestern women's team compete at the Midwest Regional in Iowa City, Iowa.

The men's 10,000-meter race will begin at 11 a.m., followed by the women's 6,000-meter race at 12:15 p.m., in each of the three regions.

The top two teams and the top four individuals, not on one of those teams (providing they finish in the top 25) will automatically qualify for the NCAA Championships held on Nov. 21, 2005, at the Wabash Valley Family Sports Center in Terre Haute, Ind. Indiana State University will serve as host. An NCAA committee will select 13 at-large teams and two at-large individuals from the NCAA's nine regions. Thirty-one teams and 38 individuals will qualify for the NCAA meet. The 2005 Championships will mark the 67th for the men's and the silver 25th anniversary of the women's race.

Last year, the Wisconsin men claimed the Great Lakes Regional title, while Michigan's Nate Brannen posted a first-place finish. His Wolverines finished fourth, followed by Indiana. At the Midwest Regional, Andrew Carlson took home first place and led the Golden Gophers to the regional crown. Iowa finished third and Illinois posted a fifth-place finish. Penn State took seventh in the Mid-Atlantic region.

On the women's side, several teams posted top-five finishes, including Michigan, which won the Great Lakes title. Michigan State finished third and Indiana was fourth. Illinois, led by Cassie Hunt's first-place finish, posted second in the Midwest and Minnesota was fourth. Penn State was fifth in the Mid-Atlantic region.

BIG TEN MEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP IN REVIEW

The Wisconsin men's team, led by senior Simon Bairu, added to its dynasty last Sunday as the Badgers captured their seventh-straight championship in record fashion, while Bairu claimed his third individual title in as many years. Bairu shaved 14 seconds off his winning time from last year, as he crossed the finish line in an 8,000-meter time of 23:31.73, which was 25 seconds ahead of the pack. That pack was made up of mostly Badgers as they claimed eight of the nine top spots overall, leading to a near-perfect and Big Ten-record score of 16 as well as a conference-best 85-point victory over Ohio State.

The 16-point total is one better than the previous record of 17 set by Michigan State in 1959. The Badgers also bettered their previous Big Ten record for largest winning margin of 81, set last year, when they totaled a margin of 85 on Sunday.

Wisconsin junior Chris Solinsky stayed with Bairu for much of the race, but finished at 23:56.38 for second. Right behind him was freshman Matt Withrow at 24:06.58, and a tenth of a second later, fellow freshman Stuart Eagon crossed the line for fourth. The Badgers also placed Antony Ford, Christian Wagner, Time Nelson and Ben Gregory at positions six through ninth.

Indiana's Sean Jefferson broke up the sweep, finishing fifth with a time of 24:13.58.

Leaping four spots from a fifth-place finish in 2004, Ohio State turned up 101 points for second, paced by senior Brian Olinger's 10th-place finish at 24:41.38.

Minnesota finished a mere point behind the Buckeyes at third. Iowa slipped a spot from last year, landing in fourth with 124 points. It was also a narrow distance to fifth with Michigan taking the No. 5 spot with 125 points. Indiana totalled 137 points for sixth, after a runner-up finish in 2004. Michigan State remained steady from their 2004 finish at seventh, Purdue counted 235 points for an eighth-place finish.

Rounding out the team finishes, Penn State solidified the ninth spot with 239 points, while Illinois was not far behind with 241 for 10th.

In postseason awards announced November 2, Wisconsin's Bairu became the first Big Ten runner since Michigan's Kevin Sullivan to win three consecutive Athlete of the Year honors. Only Sullivan (1993-95, 97) and Indiana's Bob Kennedy (1988-90, 92) have won the annual award more than Bairu. Wisconsin's Matt Withrow was tabbed Freshman of the Year after finishing third at the Big Ten Championships last Sunday. The Badgers' Jerry Schumacher earned his fifth consecutive Big Ten Coach of the Year award in 2005, which marks his sixth honor in seven seasons. His sixth award ties the conference record for overall honors with former Wisconsin coach Martin Smith (1989-91-92-94-95-96). This marks the first time since Wisconsin in 2003 and the fourth time in Big Ten history (1991-93-03-05) a school has swept all postseason honors.

The conference office also announced honorees from each of the league's 10 cross country squads for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award. The student-athletes chosen are individuals who have distinguished themselves through sportsmanship and ethical behavior. In addition, the student-athletes must be in good academic standing and have demonstrated good citizenship outside of the sports-competition setting.

Honorees for men's cross country are Illinois' Dan Stock, Indiana's Stephen Haas, Iowa's Adam Roche, Michigan's Rondell Ruff, Michigan State's Nick Oertel, Minnesota's Trent Riter, Ohio State's Matt Penza, Penn State's Chris Nirschel, Purdue's Justin Stadt, Wisconsin's Ben Gregory.

These 10 student-athletes are now candidates for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award, as the conference office will honor one male and one female student-athlete from each institution at the end of the school year.

BIG TEN WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP IN REVIEW

Despite rainy conditions, the Big Ten Cross Country Championships came down to the final stretch of the 6,000-meter course at the Les Bolstad Golf Course hosted by the University of Minnesota. In the race to the finish, Illinois junior Cassie Hunt broke away from the pack to claim her first individual title with a race time of exactly 21 minutes. Three-time defending Big Ten champion Michigan won its fourth-straight title with three top-10 finishers.

The Wolverines claimed their fourth straight team title, a string that ranks third in championships history for consecutive titles won. Sophomore Alyson Kohlmeier paced the Wolverines, crossing the finish line second with a time of 21:02.74. Kohlmeier, who finished seventh at the meet last year, also earned All-Big Ten honors. Sophomore Erin Webster joined her on the All-Big Ten Team with a seventh-place finish at 21:22.04. Nicole Edwards was close behind, finishing eighth at 21:24.79. Wolverine senior Rebecca Walter, who won the individual title in 2003, came back from an early season injury to take eleventh place overall with a time of 21:32.79.

While Hunt claimed the individual championship, the Illini took second with 60 points, 18 behind Michigan's total of 42. Also finishing in the top five for the Illini, junior Stephanie Simms crossed the finish line at 21:11.84 for fourth place. Minnesota surged to third in the team standings with three finishers in the top six, including junior Emily Brown in third place at 21:11.74.

Indiana finished fourth with 128 points, climbing one spot from their fifth-place finish in 2004. Michigan State, last year's co-runner-up, fell three spots in the team standings to fifth on the heels of three top-30 individual finishers and 145 points. Wisconsin jumped two spots and earned sixth with 146 points, while Iowa double its seventh-place performance from last year, again earning 170 points.

The eighth-place team was Purdue, which moved up a spot from 2004 with its 180-point showing. Ohio State finished ninth with 257 points, Penn State was 10th at 258 and Northwestern rounded out the standings with 294.

In postseason awards announced November 2, Illinois' Hunt captured both the Athlete of the Championships and of the Year awards. She is the first Illini runner in school history to be tabbed as the season's top runner in the conference. Hunt's teammate, Katie Engel, was selected Freshman of the Year, marking just the second time in school history an Illini harrier earned the award. Hunt was named the league's top newcomer in 2003.

Michigan's Mike McGuire earned his fourth-straight Coach of the Year selection and his seventh overall, which ranks second in the league behind the nine annual awards of former Wisconsin coach Peter Tegen. The Wolverines have now finished in the top two at the championships 13 times in 14 seasons under McGuire's tutelage.

The conference office also announced honorees from each of the league's 11 cross country squads for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award. The student-athletes chosen are individuals who have distinguished themselves through sportsmanship and ethical behavior. In addition, the student-athletes must be in good academic standing and have demonstrated good citizenship outside of the sports-competition setting.

Honorees for women's cross country are Illinois' Hunt, Indiana's Lindsay Hattendorf, Iowa's Racheal Marchand, Michigan's Alyson Kohlmeier, Michigan State's Brittany Ballard, Minnesota's Lauren Williams, Northwestern's Celia Franklin, Ohio State's Sarah Cass, Penn State's Kate Curran, Purdue's Kaleena Cappel and Wisconsin's Maggie Grabow.

These 11 student-athletes are now candidates for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award, as the conference office will honor one male and one female student-athlete from each institution at the end of the school year.
