Bucknell University Women's Rowing

Academically, Bucknell is unique. With 3,400 students and a student-faculty ratio of 11-to-1, Bucknell combines the personal feel and attention of a small college, but has the academic and athletic resources of a large university. In addition to a broad liberal arts college curriculum with 50 majors and 60 minors, we also offer strong professional programs in engineering, business, education, and music performance. To top it off, Bucknell has one of the safest and most beautiful campuses in the country.

Athletically, our women's rowing program provides one of the most balanced and exciting opportunities available in college athletics. We do quite a bit of sculling during the fall season and during the spring our 60-70 woman team focuses on openweight and lightweight eights and fours. Our fall schedule is unique in regards to its flexibility, designed to encourage a balanced lifestyle uncommon in Division I athletics. In the classroom, we are always one of the top 2 teams in the Athletic Department for the highest GPA. In 2006-2007, our first year rowers and coxswains achieved a 3.67 GPA, the best of all 27 varsity sports at Bucknell, a remarkable feat!

Bucknell Women's Rowing is a program on the rise. We are competing against top notch programs such as Princeton, Radcliffe, UVA, Michigan, Ohio State, Tennessee, Cornell and Penn. The highlight of the 2008 season was a stroke for stroke race with Dartmouth at the Eastern Sprints. Our varsity lightweight athletes are the 2007 IRA National Champions and in 2008 they placed 4th ahead of Radcliffe and Princeton. This year we brought home our 3rd consecutive Patriot League Team Championship and our 2nd consecutive ECAC/Metro Team Championship. We compete every 4 years in the Royal Henley Regatta, and this year we came back from England with some great racing experience. Bucknell alumni rowers have also gone on to compete at the World Championships and the Olympics.

Come visit our beautiful campus. We look forward to meeting you.
