

LEADERSHIP SUPPORT

George D. Smith Society

The George D. Smith Society was created to recognize the most distinguished supporters of Bearcats Athletics. It is only fitting that the society for UC Athletics' greatest benefactors bears the name of one of UC's greatest legends, George Smith. Smith guided the University of Cincinnati men's basketball team to national prominence from 1952-1960 before serving the university as Athletics Director, and later Vice-President for Development. In 1978 he was inducted into UC's Athletic Hall of Fame.

Through their private support, George D. Smith Society members provide the necessary resources for sustained success. Founded in 1992, the George D. Smith Society has grown to over 150 members. This membership represents only 3% of total UCATS members, yet accounts for over 45% of the total dollars generated through the UCATS annual campaign. For this leadership support, George D. Smith Society members receive the ultimate in UC Athletics benefits.

George D. Smith Society members demonstrate their commitment to UC Athletics by contributing at or above the $13,500 level on an annual basis ($13,000 annually with a 5-year commitment).

Director's Society

Any George D. Smith Society member who donates annually at the $50,000 level or above is recognized as a member of the elite Director's Society. The generosity of the Director's Society enables the University of Cincinnati to compete at the highest level in the BIG EAST Conference and advances the UC Athletics vision of becoming one of the premiere intercollegiate athletics departments in the country.
