

May 28, 2010

STATEMENT FROM UNIVERSITY OF CONNECTICUT HEAD MEN'S BASKETBALL COACH JIM CALHOUN

During these past fifteen months, we have fully cooperated with the NCAA's inquiry into our recruitment of a particular student athlete and other matters generally related to the recruitment and conduct of our program. In this regard, we are steadfast in our belief that we operate a program deeply committed to complying with the NCAA's guidelines.

In my thirty-eight years as a collegiate head basketball coach, twenty-five of which I have spent at the University of Connecticut, I look with particular pride at our strong record of compliance and the impact that we have had on the young men in our program.

We look forward to working with the NCAA in the coming months and expect to fully respond to their concerns. While we may have made some mistakes in the recruiting process, UConn has never wavered in terms of its fostering and maintaining a strong culture of compliance and has always striven to meet the high standards expected of us.