The Colonials have been led this season by Lasan Kromah's 14.0 points. Damian Hollis is scoring 10.6 points per game. There are seven GW players scoring 6.0 points or more per game. On the year, the Colonials are shooting 44.5 percent from the field while holding the opposition to 36.2 percent shooting. They also are outrebounding teams 42-31 with seven players averaging 3.2 rebounds per game or more.

The Colonials opened the season with four straight wins, beating UNCW and BU wins on the road while taking home wins over UMBC and Princeton. GW lost at home on Saturday to Oregon State.

LAST TIME OUT: Tulane used a 14-3 run midway through the second half to turn a 40-35 Mason lead into a 49-43 Mason deficit. The Patriots rallied to tie the score at 64-64 before the Green Wave closed with a 12-7 run to hand Mason a 76-71 loss in its first road game of the season.

The team were even on the boards with 12 offensive rebounds and 33 total rebounds but Mason sent Tulane to the free throw line 29 times where the Green Wave converted 21. That helped offset Mason's 50 percent shooting from 3-point range and 78.6 percent shooting from the free throw line.

Cam Long tied a career high with 24 points while also handing out five assists and grabbing three steals. Luke Hancock set a career high with 14 points while Andre Cornelius had six rebounds and three steals, both career highs.

Mason is now 2-0 at home, 0-1 on the road and 1-2 at neutral sites.

CREAM OF THE CAA CROP: There have been several hallmarks to the Jim Larranaga era at George Mason. First and foremost among those is success in conference and postseason play.

Over the past 12-plus seasons, the Patriots have been the CAA's top team in terms of postseason wins, conference wins, CAA winning percentage and NCAA/NIT appearance and they are second in overall wins and winning percentage. The chart below shows the top three teams in the CAA over the past 12-plus seasons and how they stack up in the aforementioned categories.

SENIOR LEADER: This is the youngest Mason team since the 2004-05 season when the Patriots entered the year with no seniors on their roster. This season, Mason has just one senior, Louis Birdsong. The forward has played in 103 games and has been a consistent starter since 2007-08 when he was a sophomore.

Mason also has just two juniors on the team in Cam Long and Isaiah Tate. The other four returning players are sophomores meaning that seven of 14 players are in their first season on the court.

Birdsong's best game this year came in the season opener against Liberty when he had five points, four rebounds and a block.

Conference Breakdown

Over the past 12-plus seasons, the Patriots have faced teams from all across the United States. With 31 conferences participating in NCAA Division I basketball, Mason has certainly done its best to get around. The Patriots have played teams from 26 of the 31 conferences, as well as an independent school, since Jim Larranaga became head coach. Here is how Mason has fared against each conference under Larranaga:

GEORGE MASON GAME NOTES

GREAT EXPECTATIONS: Cam Long was named first-team preseason All-CAA this past October after being named third-team All-CAA last season.

The junior point guard led Mason in scoring, assists, steals and 3-point shooting percentage last season and during the summer, he participated at the Chris Paul Elite Guard Camp where he worked with some of the top collegiate and high school point guards in the nation.

In 2008-09, Long started all 33 games for the Patriots averaging 11.7 points, 4.8 rebounds, 3.2 assists and 1.1 steals while shooting 40.4 percent from 3-point range.

In the season opener against Liberty, Long had seven points, five assists and no turnovers in just 20 minutes of action as he left early in the second half with leg cramps. Leg cramps plagued him against Dartmouth and Villanova as well. He finally broke out against Indiana with 18 points, five rebounds, three assists and three steals including the game-winning 3-pointer. Against Tulane, he tied his career high with 24 points while also handing out five assists with two steals.

GETTING BETTER ALL THE TIME: Entering his third season, junior guard Isaiah Tate looks to continue the improvement he showed from his freshman to sophomore seasons.

After playing 22 games as a freshman, Tate played in 28 games last year and nearly doubled his numbers in every category. That included more than nine minutes of action per game. Tate scored a career-high 10 points last season against Delaware while grabbing a career-high six rebounds in the CAA Tournament against Towson.

Against Liberty in the season opener,

STEPPING UP: After seeing action in all 33 games as a fresman, including three starts, Andre Cornelius moves into the starting lineup this season.

The sophomore averaged 5.5 points in fewer than 19 minutes of action. He drained 22 3-pointers and handed out 48 assists with 18 steals. He scored a career-high 19 points against East Carolina last season in his first trip to his home state.

HOME IS WHERE THE WINS ARE

Over the past 12 seasons, the Patriots have been very difficult to beat at Patriot Center. Prior to the 2006-07 season, Mason had a streak of eight straight seasons with 10 or more home wins. Over that same stretch, Mason has had two winning road records, 2001-02 and 2005-06. The following is Mason's home and road records, both overall and in Colonial Athletic Association action, over the past 12 seasons.

GEORGE MASON GAME NOTES

In Mason's lone exhibition this season, against Virginia State, he scored a game-high 22 points on 9 of 11 shooting while going 4 of 6 from 3-point range. He showed that his production in that game was no flash in the pan as he led the Patriots in scoring against Liberty. Cornelius had 17 points on 4 of 6 shooting from 3-point range and he had four assists and two rebounds. His assist to Louis Birdsong with a little more than two minutes to play helped Mason stop a Liberty run and he followed it with three free throws in the final 25 seconds helped ice the game.

Against Dartmouth, he was held scoreless but played strong defense and handed out two assists. He rebounded with 13 points and no turnovers against Villanova, 11 points against Georgia Tech and nine points against Indiana. At Tulane, he had a career-high six rebounds and three steals. For the season, he is shooting 50 percent from 3-point range (11 of 22), tops in the CAA.

Cornelius will not be available for Wednesday's game at George Washington as he will be serving a one-game suspension for violating team rules.

STARTING HOW YOU FINISH: After seeing limited time early in his freshman season, Mike Morrison turned things on in a big way down the stretch. Over the final 10 games of the season, Morrison averaged 5.7 points, 3.5 assists and more than one block per game. He shot better than 50 percent over that stretch as well.

For the season, Morrison averaged 4.0 points, 2.5 rebounds and he blocked 21 shots, second-most on the team. He shot 55 of 101 from the field and appeared in 31 games, playing fewer than 11 minutes per game.

He picked up this season where he left off last year. Against Liberty, he had 12 points on 5 of 10 shooting with seven rebounds and a game-high three blocks. Against Dartmouth, he recorded his first career double-double, scoring 11 points with 10 boards, including six on the offensive glass. He did that damage in just 20 minutes of action. He had a career day against Indiana with 17 points, 13 rebounds and a single-game Puerto Rico Tip-Off Tournament record seven blocks, all career highs.

Morrison currently leads the team in rebounding and blocks with 7.3 boards and 2.0 blocks per game, both among the Colonial Athletic Association's leaders.

FAN FAVORITE: Jimmy Nolan has played in just seven games at Mason, but his fan club page on Facebook has nearly as many members as Cam Long's. Nolan, a walk-on, played in just six games as a freshman but his every appearance drew excitement from the student fans. This season, he played two minutes against Dartmouth missing his only shot.

QUICK IMPACT: Ryan Pearson played in 32 games as a freshman with one start and despite averaging just 17 minutes per game, he made a big impact on the floor. He was selected to the CAA All-Rookie Team, the first such honor for a Mason player since 2004-05 when the Patriots placed three on the All-Rookie Team.

Pearson averaged 7.0 points, 3.6 rebounds and shot 48.8 percent from the field. He was twice named CAA Rookie of the Week and he recorded a double-double. Pearson scored a career-high 18 points against ODU and had a career-high 13 rebounds vs. Tulane.

In the season opener against Liberty, Pearson led the team with eight rebounds and two steals. He also scored 12 points and was a sterling 6 of 6 from the free throw line.

He was even better against Dartmouth, leading the team with a career-high 19 points and finishing with his second career double-double as he also had 10 rebounds, two assists, two blocks and two steals. Against Villanova he led the team in scoring and rebounding and at Tulane, he set a career high for assists.

Pearson will not be available for Wednesday's game at George Washington as he will be serving a one-game suspension for violating team rules.

FOSTERING CONFIDENCE: Kevin Foster is in his second season with the Patriots but the season opener against Liberty was the first time he took the court. He earned a redshirt and spent the year learning.

Against the Flames, he came off the bench to play 16 minutes and grab six rebounds while scoring five points. Against Dartmouth, he played 17 minutes with four rebounds, two points and two blocks. Facing Villanova, he had eight points and seven rebounds in 16 minutes. Against Georgia Tech, he led the team with 15 points and nine rebounds and in just 19 minutes against Indiana, he had eight points.

ROOM TO GROW: Paris Bennett made his Mason debut against Dartmouth, playing four minutes. Bennett was named the top small forward recruit in the CAA by Rivals.com and he was rated three stars by both Scout.com and Rivals.com. He was rated as the #65 small forward in the nation by ESPN.com.

COOL HAND LUKE: Luke Hancock may be a freshman, but he didn't play like one in the season opener against Liberty. Coming off the bench, Hancock played 23 minutes scoring 11 points, grabbing four rebounds with two assists, a block and a steal. He had a sensational dunk in traffic and made an off-balance shot-clocking beating basket in the final minute to help seal the win.

Against Dartmouth, Hancock played even better. He scored 12 points, including three reverse layups during a big second-half run that helped Mason put the game away. He also had four rebounds and two steals.

On Nov. 16, Hancock was named CAA Rookie of the Week. He repeated the honor on Nov. 23 earning Co-Rookie of the Week. That came after playing three straight BCS teams. Against Villanova, Hancock had nine points, five rebounds and two assists. Against Georgia Tech, he nearly had a triple-double with eight points, nine rebounds and seven assists. Against Indiana, he had nine points, eight rebounds and eight assists.

Hancock is top two on the team in scoring, rebounding and assists averaging 10.5 points, 5.7 rebounds and 3.3 assists. He is shooting 53.2 percent from the field, among the top five in the CAA.

MAKING THE MOST: Freshman Vertrail Vaughns played just three minutes for Mason in the season opener against Liberty, but the guard made the most of his time on the floor. In just three minutes of action, he scored three points, getting to the free throw line for four attempts of which he converted at a 75 percent clip.

Against Dartmouth, he played 10 minutes with a rebound but no points. Vaughns played at Mesquite High School and was rated #58 in the nation at his position by ESPN.com.

STILL LEARNING: Freshman Rashad Whack earned a start against Villanova after showing a dedication to defense in practice. He played 14 minutes, had two points and a steal. His free throw iced the game against Indiana.

Whack was named the top shooting guard prospect in the CAA by Rivals.com and ESPN.com rated him as the #59 shooting guard in the nation.

LITTLE ADJUSTMENT NEEDED: Freshman Johnny Williams took the floor for the first time as a collegiate player against Dartmouth and he showed that perhaps he won't need much time to get accustomed to the college game. He played just 11 minutes but scored seven points while grabbing four rebounds. He was 2 of 4 from the field and 3 of 4 from the free throw line. He had four boards in just four minutes against Indiana.

Williams was rated the top power forward prospect in the CAA by Rivals.com and he earned three stars from both Rivals.com and Scout.com. He is the second-highest rated recruit in the CAA according to ESPN.com and it rated him #36 in the nation at power forward.

WRIGHT STUFF: Freshman Sherrod Wright had an impact in Mason's season opening win over Liberty. The guard scored four points on a 3-pointer and a free throw. He also had a rebound in nine minutes of action off the bench. Against Dartmouth, he played 11 minutes with four rebounds and a steal but was 0 for 2 from the field. He had five points (all on free throws) against Villanova and six points against Georgia Tech.

Wright signed with the Patriots in April after earning Mr. Basketball honors in Section 1 by the Tri-County Basketball Coaches Association. Among shooting guards, he was ranked 32nd in the nation by ESPN.com and 35th by Scout.com.

SEVENTY = SUCCESS: There are several hallmarks to George Mason basketball under head coach Jim Larranaga. First and foremost is that the Patriots traditionally fare well in a high-scoring affair. In fact, the Patriots have only lost once in the past 12-plus seasons on an occasion when they scored 90 points or more. On November 21, 1998, Mason fell on the road at Fairfield, 93-91 in the AT&T Shootout. Since then, Mason has gone 14-0 when scoring 90-plus points. Here is a breakdown of Mason's record under Larranaga in terms of points scored:

	W	L	Win Pct.
100-plus	4	0	1.000
90-99	10	1	.909
80-89	43	8	.843
70-79	89	23	.795
60-69	65	45	.591
50-59	18	52	.257
Less than 50	2	16	.111

Mason is 146-32 (.820) when scoring 70 or more points, 19-69 (.216) when scoring 59 or fewer.

On the flip side of the team's record when scoring 70 or more is how the team fares when holding the opposition to fewer than 70. Mason enjoys nearly equal success when the defense limits the opposition to fewer than 70. Here is a breakdown of Mason's record under Larranaga in terms of points allowed:

	W	L	Win Pct.
100-plus	0	2	.000
90-99	1	3	.250
80-89	6	24	.200
70-79	32	51	.386
60-69	79	50	.612
50-59	83	15	.848
Less than 50	29	0	1.000

Mason is 191-65 (.746) when allowing fewer than 70 points, 7-29 (.194) when allowing 80 or more points.

ONE GAME AT A TIME: The George Mason men's basketball team has suffered 144 losses under head coach Jim Larranaga in his 12-plus seasons as head coach of the Patriots. One hallmark of a well-coached team is a group's ability to put a loss behind it and focus on the next challenge.

Very few teams finish the season with a win - the NCAA and NIT champions are traditionally the only ones that manage that feat. Over the past 12-plus seasons, Mason has suffered 131 losses in which the team retook the court that season. In those games, Mason has rattled off an 88-44 record, good for a .667 winning percentage. That winning percentage is significantly better than Mason's overall winning percentage under Larranaga (.615).

Not only are the Patriots more focused and harder to beat after they've suffered a loss, they're also particularly hard to beat after suffering a road loss. The Patriots are 63-29 after road losses, which translates into a .685 winning percentage.

Here's a look at Mason's performance after a loss under Larranaga:

Year	Rec. after loss	Rec. after road loss
97-98	6-11	4-6
98-99	5-5	4-4
99-00	7-3	5-3
00-01	8-3	7-2
01-02	6-3	5-1
02-03	6-5	4-4
03-04	8-1	6-1
04-05	7-5	4-4
05-06	6-1	4-1
06-07	11-3	6-1
07-08	10-0	7-0
08-09	7-3	7-2
09-10	1-1	0-0
Totals	88-44	63-29

Beginning with Larranaga's second season, Mason is 82-33 after a loss (.713) and 59-23 (.720) after a road loss.

SIGNED AND SEALED: The Patriots signed Jonathan Arledge to a National Letter-of-Intent on Nov. 11 as the Patriots signed the 6-foot-9, 230-pound forward from Washington D.C. Arledge will matriculate to the university in the fall of 2010 and begin playing for the Patriots in 2010-2011.

Arledge will come to Mason from KIMA (Kamit Institute for Magnificent Achievers) High School where he will be a senior this season. Last year as a junior, he averaged 11.9 points, 11.0 rebounds and 2.0 blocks.

GEORGE MASON GAME NOTES

GEORGE MASON 76, LIBERTY 72

The George Mason men's basketball team played without its leader for nearly the entire second half and weathered a big Liberty onslaught, but in the closing two and a half minutes, the Patriots answered the challenge, beating the Flames 76-72 in front of a crowd of more than 6,000 at Patriot Center. It was the 2009-2010 season opener for both teams.

The victory was Mason's 17th straight at Patriot Center. That ties the school's Division I record for consecutive home wins.

Cam Long left the game with 18:05 to play with leg cramps and Mason ahead 47-34. The Patriots were able to go ahead by as many as 19 before Liberty used a 31-15 run to close to within three, 68-65, with 2:31 to play. But Andre Cornelius found Louis Birdsong inside for an easy basket and Mike Morrison added a free throw to make it a six-point game. After a Liberty free throw, freshman Luke Hancock scored a big basket as the shot clock expired to make it 73-66. A Kyle Ohman 3-pointer made it 73-69 but Mason made its free throws down the stretch to seal the victory.

GEORGE MASON 60, DARTMOUTH 44

The George Mason men's basketball team won its 18th straight home game and started the 2009-2010 season 2-0 after the Patriots used a big second-half run to put away the Dartmouth Big Green, 60-44 at Patriot Center. Ahead 32-30, with 13:43 to go, Mason used a 23-6 run to break the contest open.

Ryan Pearson had a career-high 19 points and his 10 rebounds gave him his second double-double. Mike Morrison had his first career double-double with 11 points and 10 rebounds. After scoring 11 in his collegiate debut, Luke Hancock scored 12 on Sunday. The Patriots outrebounded Dartmouth, 46-31 giving them 10 more shots. With turnovers and shooting percentage close to even, that turned out to be a big advantage.

Mason was finally able to get some separation midway through the second half. First Mike Morrison made a free throw to put the Patriots ahead, 33-30. Then Luke Hancock stole the ball at halfcourt, converted a reverse layup and drained a free throw to put Mason up by six. A Ryan Pearson 3-pointer followed off a Dartmouth miss and then another steal led to a Morrison basket in the lane to give the Patriots their first double-digit lead of the game.

VILLANOVA 69, GEORGE MASON 68

The George Mason men's basketball team led for nearly the entire game on Thursday afternoon against fifth-ranked Villanova, but the Wildcats made a pair of 3-pointers in the final minute and the Patriots were unable to get a shot off in the closing seconds as Villanova beat the Patriots, 69-68 in the Puerto Rico Tip-Off in San Juan.

After Luke Hancock's free throw with 47 seconds to play gave Mason a 67-63 lead, Maalik Wayns' trey made it 67-66. Sherrod Wright made a free throw on Mason's next possession, but Isaiah Armwood who played just four minutes and was on the floor after four Villanova players had fouled out, hoisted a 3-pointer that went in to make it 69-68 with 17 seconds to play. The Patriots called a timeout with 13 seconds to go but could not get a shot off on the ensuing possession.

The Patriots played down the stretch with a lineup that included Hancock and Wright, both freshmen, Ryan Pearson and Andre Cornelius, both sophomores, and alternately sophomore Mike Morrison and redshirt freshman Kevin Foster. They never backed down from Villanova, which returned four starters from last year's Final Four team and is ranked fifth in the nation by the Associated Press and sixth in the ESPN/USA Today Coaches Poll.

2009-10 BOX SCORES

GEORGIA TECH 70, GEORGE MASON 62

The George Mason men's basketball team held an early lead, fell behind big, and rallied down the stretch before coming up short against 19th-ranked Georgia Tech on Friday, losing to a ranked opponent for the second straight day. Mason fell to Georgia Tech, 70-62, in the Puerto Rico Tip-Off in San Juan.

Kevin Foster led Mason with 15 points and nine rebounds. Andre Cornelius had 11 points and Luke Hancock had eight points, nine rebounds and seven assists. Mason shot just 35.8 percent from the field while Georgia Tech shot 46.9 percent. Mason was outrebounded by 10 and sent Georgia Tech to the free throw line 37 times.

But there was no quit in Mason. Down 57-36, the Patriots made a 24-9 run to pull to within six in the final minute. Kevin Foster, Cam Long and Sherrod Wright were instrumental in the run that saw the Patriots force Georgia Tech to make foul shots. Despite shooting less than 60 percent from the line in the game, Georgia Tech made five in the final 32 seconds to seal the win. The Yellow Jackets did not score from the field over the final 8:48.

GEORGE MASON 69, INDIANA 66

Cam Long and Luke Hancock made clutch 3-pointers in the final 1:33 and the George Mason men's basketball team held Indiana without a field goal over the final 2:57 as the Patriots topped the Hoosiers, 69-66 in the Puerto Rico Tip-Off in San Juan.

Andre Cornelius' jumper with 2:19 to play tied the game at 62-62 and after an Indiana turnover, Hancock made a 3-pointer from the wing to put Mason ahead 65-62. The Hoosiers tied the score again going 3 of 4 from the free throw line, but Long stepped up as the shot clock and game clock were winding down and banked in a trey with 5.4 seconds to play. The Patriots fouled Indiana before it got a shot off and the Hoosiers made one free throw before intentionally missing the second. Rashad Whack got the rebound and made a free throw with 0.6 seconds to play to ice the game.

Mike Morrison set a new Puerto Rico Tip-Off Tournament record with seven blocks. He finished with 17 points and 13 rebounds, both career highs. Cam Long had 18 points, five rebounds, three assists and three steals and Luke Hancock again flirted with a triple double with nine points, eight rebounds and eight assists.

TULANE 76, GEORGE MASON 71

The George Mason men's basketball team rallied from an eight-point deficit to tie the game at 64-64 but Tulane outscored Mason 12-7 down the stretch to beat the Patriots, 76-71 in New Orleans. The Patriots sent Tulane to the line 29 times and the Green Wave made 21 of those as they avenged a loss suffered at Patriot Center last season.

Tulane led 58-50 with a little more than six minutes to play when Mason rallied. Cam Long made two free throws, Johnny Williams and Luke Hancock scored inside and Long made two more free throws to make it 60-58. After a Tulane 3-pointer from Kevin Sims, Long drained a trey to make it 63-61. A Sims free throw made it a three-point game, but Long stepped up and made another 3-pointer to tie the score.

Tulane led 74-71 with 15.4 seconds to play, but Long missed a 3-pointer and the Green Wave made a pair of free throws to close out the win. Long tied his career high with 24 points and he also had five assists and two steals. Luke Hancock had 14 points and four rebounds while no other Mason player finished in double figures. Sims had 22 points, including 12 of 13 from the line while Asim McQueen had 16 points and Aaron Holmes had 10.

HEAD COACH JIM LARRANAGA

JIM LARRANAGA HEAD COACH, 13TH SEASON

Jim Larranaga enters his 13th season as the head coach of the George Mason men's basketball team and as the school and conference's all-time leader in wins. Under his leadership, the Patriots have more wins in March than any other CAA school and he has led the Patriots to heights barely imagined before his arrival.

When the 2005-06 men's basketball season began, Jim Larranaga was entering his ninth season at the helm of the George Mason Patriots. Already the school's all-time leader in wins, there were a few more milestones on the horizon for Larranaga, some expected, some unexpected.

In his 22nd season as a collegiate head coach, Larranaga enjoyed a magical carpet ride as he became the Colonial Athletic Association's all-time leader in wins and the first coach at a mid-major school to take his team to the Final Four in 27 years.

When the season wrapped up, Larranaga led Mason to a school record in wins, the school's first-ever national ranking, George Mason's first-ever appearance in the top 10, and the school's first-ever wins over top 10 teams.

The Patriots finished the year with a 27-8 record and ranked eighth in the final USA Today/ESPN Coaches Poll. Mason had appeared in the poll for one week earlier in the season, standing at No. 25, but NCAA tournament wins over Michigan State, No. 10 North Carolina, Wichita State and No. 2 Connecticut vaulted Mason up the poll, into the national conscience and made Larranaga a household name.

The at-large berth was the first in 20 years for a team from the CAA. Mason also became the first CAA team to make the Final Four and the No. 8 spot in the poll was the highest-ever for a CAA club.

At the end of that amazing run, Larranaga received one immense personal accolade as he received the Clair Bee Coach of the Year Award.

Now in his 26th season, Larranaga owns a 232-145 record in 12-plus years at George Mason, including a 223-127 mark over the past 11-plus years. He became the Patriots all-time leader in men's basketball victories with his 131st win on January 22, 2005, when the Patriots won 77-58 at arch-rival James Madison. He became the CAA's all-time leader in wins on February 4, 2006 when the Patriots defeated UNC Wilmington. His CAA record is 154-80.

Larranaga, 60, accomplished many of the same things in his 11 years at Bowling Green State University from 1986-97 and in two years at American International College from 1977-79. In 25 years as a head coach, he has a career record of 429-315, earning his 400th coaching victory in Mason's 70-58 win over Delaware on February 20, 2008.

The remarkable run at George Mason began just two years into Larranaga's tenure. A 9-18 record in his first year with the Patriots in 1997-98 drew plaudits from knowledgeable basketball people who realized the program was headed in the right direction.

George Mason was 19-11 overall and a school-best 13-3 in the CAA in 1998-99, making a 10-game improvement over the previous season. The Patriots won their first-ever conference regular season championship and their second CAA Tournament title to advance to the NCAA Tournament.

The performance by the Patriots earned numerous honors for Larranaga as he was named Coach of the Year by the CAA and the NABC District 4 Coach of the Year. He also was selected state Coach of the Year by the Virginia Sports Information Directors (VaSID) and the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

George Mason followed up with another 19-11 overall mark in 1999-2000, tying James Madison for first place in the CAA at 12-4 and earning the top seed in the conference tournament. In 2000-01, the Patriots finished 18-12 overall and 11-5 in the CAA, good for a tie for second place, and they won the CAA Tournament title and advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the second time in three years. The Patriots produced another solid campaign with a 19-10 overall record (13-5 in the CAA) and a NIT berth in 2001-02. Mason's 2002-03 roster was hampered by injuries, but managed to pull together a 16-12 record (11-7 in the CAA), and a fourth-place CAA finish.

The 2003-04 George Mason season was one for the record books. Larranaga led the Patriots to a 7-2 non-conference record and to a then-school-record 23-win season, as Mason finished 23-10 on the year, its first 20-or-more win campaign in 14 years. Gaining an NIT berth (the Patriots fourth postseason appearance in six years), Larranaga led Mason to two consecutive postseason victories for the first time in school history, and in the process, earned his first postseason.

Three years ago, a young Mason squad with three junior starters and nine sophomores and freshmen battled to a 16-13 overall record and 10-8 mark in league play. Finishing above .500 and with 16 wins, the Patriots won 15 or more games overall and 10 or more games in league play for the seventh consecutive year - a streak unmatched by any other CAA team.

Two years ago, Mason tied for the second-most wins in school history with a 23-11 record. The Patriots also won the CAA Championship for the fourth time in school history, third under Larranaga and first since 2001. Last year, Mason was 22-11 with a bid to the NIT where they lost in overtime at Penn State, the eventual NIT champions. It was the second time Mason made back-to-back trips to the postseason in school history and the second time they had back-to-back 20-win seasons.

HEAD COACH JIM LARRANAGA

At his previous stop on the coaching circuit, Larranaga made an immediate impact upon his arrival at Bowling Green in 1986-87. The Falcons were the nation's most improved team under a first-year head coach that took over a program with a losing record, posting a 15-14 record for an eight-game improvement over the previous season.

Larranaga went on to record a 170-144 mark in 11 years at Bowling Green. He was the 1997 Mid-American Conference Coach of the Year after leading Bowling Green to a 22-10 record, a conference regular season co-championship and a berth in the National Invitation Tournament. The 22 victories were the most by a Bowling Green team in 47 years and the 13 conference wins were the second-highest total in Falcon history.

Larranaga's 170 victories at Bowling Green ranked second all-time on the Falcons' coaching list and he was only the second coach to record consecutive postseason appearances. Larranaga led his squad to NIT berths in 1990 (18-11) and again in 1991 (17-13), the first time the Falcons enjoyed back-to-back postseason appearances since the early '60s. Bowling Green won better than 61 percent of its games in Larranaga's last four years, recording a 70-44 mark during that stretch. The Falcons finished fourth or better in the MAC in five of Larranaga's 11 seasons and he is among the winningest coaches in MAC history.

Larranaga received his first head coaching position in 1977 when he was named to the post at American International, a Division II program in Springfield, Mass. Taking over a team that had suffered through five consecutive losing seasons prior to his arrival, Larranaga turned AIC into a winning program in his first year and compiled a 27-26 mark in two seasons.

Larranaga's teams are known for their offensive efficiency and a frenetic defense dubbed the "Scramble." In 2000-01, the Patriots led the CAA (in conference games) in scoring for the third straight year at 72.8 points per game and were second in scoring margin, outscoring opponents by 7.9 points per contest. George Mason also led the conference in field goal percentage (.460) and turnover margin (+2.97) for the third consecutive season, led the CAA in steals (8.4) and was second in assists (13.7), and it also ranked second in assist/turnover ratio (0.96). In 2002-03, George Mason ranked second overall and 16th nationally in scoring defense, holding opponents to a school record 60.5 points per game. The Patriots also listed second in the conference and 27th nationally in rebound margin (+5.2). Mason's 2003-04 squad led the league in steals at 8.52 per game.

A native of Bronx, N.Y., Larranaga is a 1971 graduate of Providence College with a degree in economics. A four-year letterman for the Friars, he was the team captain as a senior, leading Providence to a 20-8 record and an NIT appearance. He graduated as the school's fifth all-time leading scorer with 1,258 points and was selected in the sixth round of the draft by the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association. He was the team's top scorer as a sophomore and junior and was named New England's Division I Sophomore of the Year in 1969. His outstanding career was rewarded when he was inducted into the Providence College Hall of Fame in 1991.

His first coaching opportunity came at Davidson College, where he served as an assistant coach to Terry Holland. Davidson captured three Southern Conference regular-season championships and an NIT berth in his five years there, and he compiled a 47-12 record doubling as the freshman team coach. In 1976, he left Davidson and spent one season as player-coach for the Geronimo Basketball Club in Belgium.

After his two-year stint at American International, Larranaga was reunited with Holland at the University of Virginia in April 1979. An assistant coach under Holland for seven seasons from 1979-86, he helped the Cavaliers reach the NCAA Final Four on two occasions (1981 and 1984), finish in the top five of the AP and UPI polls and average more than 24 victories per season. The Cavaliers were 169-62, won three regular season Atlantic Coast Conference championships and made four NCAA Tournament appearances. Virginia also made a pair of NIT appearances, winning the NIT Championship in 1980. Larranaga was on the staff during the careers of three-time National Player of the Year Ralph Sampson and NBA first-round draft choice Olden Polynice.

Larranaga and his wife, Liz, have two children. Jay, plays professional basketball in Italy and coaches Ireland's National Team, while Jon was a member of his father's George Mason teams from 1999-00 to 2002-03. Larranaga also has two grandchildren, Tia and James.
