Demon Deacons Sweep Stanford, Reach Quarterfinals

Wake Forest reaches the NCAA Quarterfinals for the first time in school history.

ATHENS, Ga. — Wake Forest reached the NCAA Quarterfinals for the first time in school history, using a 4-0 sweep over Stanford to punch its ticket to the round of eight.

After dropping the first doubles match, 6-4 on court two, Wake Forest answered with wins on courts three and one to seal the doubles point and take a 1-0 lead in the match. Victories came courtesy of the pairs of Petros Chrysochos and Dennis Uspensky (court three; 6-3) and No. 4 Skander Mansouri and Christian Seraphim (court one; 7-5), respectively.

The Demon Deacons then rolled through singles with wins on courts one, four and three, respectively, to finish off the 4-0 sweep. Fifth-ranked Chrysochos blew by No. 11 Tom Fawcett, 6-2, 6-0, to extend the team's lead to 2-0. That effort was followed by No. 84 Christian Seraphim's 6-2, 6-2 win on the fourth court before Skander Mansouri, ranked 13th, clinched the match for the Demon Deacons.

Wake Forest will face the winner of California and North Carolina on Saturday to lock up a spot in the national semifinals.
