GW HITS THE ROAD TO Face FSU

TIPPING OFF: The GW men’s basketball team heads out on the road for the first time this season as it takes on Florida State on Tuesday night in Tallahassee. It’s one of just two true road games in non-conference play for the Colonials, who also travel to Penn State on Dec. 9 and play two neutral site games Nov. 23-24 as part of the Las Vegas Invitational.

LAST TIME OUT: Sparked by the aerial theatrics of graduate student forward Bo Zeigler, and an all-around impressive outing from senior Yuta Watanabe, GW opened the season with an 84-75 win over Howard Friday night at the Smith Center. Zeigler accounted for six dunks on the evening including three alley-oops to finish with 16 points off the bench. Watanabe played all 40 minutes, had a team-high 19 points and 11 boards for his second career double-double, and added a career-high seven blocks.

STRONG SCHEDULE: GW has a strong non-conference schedule which includes seven of 13 games against teams in Ken Pomeroy’s top 100. After facing FSU (56th), the Colonials have dates with Xavier (21st), either K-State (34th) or Arizona State (98th), Temple (68th), Princeton (88th) Penn State (45th), and Miami (16th).

 SOPHOMORE START: GW’s two sophomore starters had impressive outings on Friday vs. Howard. Point guard Jair Bolden tallied a career-high 17 points, after he had gone for 21 in the exhibition win over Fairmont State. Arnaldo Toro approached a double-double in his 24 minutes of action vs. the Bison, tallying 11 points and eight rebounds, with five of those coming on the offensive end.

SERIES HISTORY: GW has lost all three meetings in the series, including a 67-48 setback last year in the BB&T Classic in Washington, when it was playing a back-to-back and was without Watanabe. This marks the Colonials’ first trip to Tallahassee.

WHO’S BACK: GW has a pair of returning starters in Watanabe and Toro, and six total lettermen from last season’s squad which went 20-15 and reached the second round of the College Basketball Invitational (CBI). The Colonials will look for Watanabe to carry a heavier scoring load in his second career high 17 points, after he had gone for 21 in the exhibition win over Fairmont State. Arnaldo Toro approached a double-double in his 24 minutes of action vs. the Bison, totaling 11 points and eight rebounds, with five of those coming on the offensive end.

GW QUICK FACTS

In addition to Watanabe and Toro, graduate student forward Patrick Steeves and sophomore guard Jair Bolden bring starting experience from a year ago. Steeves is a sixth-year collegiate player, and second-year graduate student, entering his final season of collegiate eligibility. The graduate of Harvard, who was limited to just one playing season with the Crimson due to a range of injury, averaged 6.6 points and 2.9 rebounds in 27 games, 10 of them starts, last year. He played his best stretch down the stretch, reaching double figures in scoring eight times in the last couple months. He'll look to find his shooting touch of old which saw him connect on 46% of his three-point attempts as a senior at Harvard. Bolden, meanwhile, played in all 35 games his rookie season, ranking fourth on the team with 66 assists. He earned a starting position in 16 of GW's final 17 games and scored in double figures four times during that stretch.

WHO'S NOT: GW will be tasked with replacing 62 percent of its scoring from a season ago. Cavanaugh also led the team in rebounding (8.4 pg) and free throws (173-204, .848) while connecting at a .409 clip from three-point range.

NEW FACES: The Colonials welcome nine newcomers to the program this season, including four freshmen, one grad transfer, two sit-out transfers and two walk-ons. Among GW’s newcomers, graduate transfer Bo Zeigler brings the most experience. The 6-foot-6 forward completed his undergraduate studies at South Florida where he played in 91 games over three seasons after redshirting as a freshman. In his final season for the Bulls, Zeigler made 14 starts while averaging 4.7 points and 3.5 rebounds, also chipping in 40 assists and 21 steals and 19 blocks.

Of GW’s four freshmen, three are guards. Justin Mazzulla was the Rhode Island Gatorade Player of the Year for Bishop Hendricken and helped lead the school to two straight state titles. Terry Nolan Jr. earned first-team Baltimore Sun All-Metro honors after guiding Mount Carmel to a 29-11 season as a senior, when he averaged 17 points, six rebounds and five assists per game. Maceo Jack spent a postgrad season at St. Thomas More School following a standout prep career at Williamsville North in Buffalo, N.Y., where he averaged 24 points and seven rebounds as a senior.
INTERNATIONAL ROOTS: The Colonials have four international players on this year’s roster, including three with international playing experience. Watanabe is a member of the Japan National Team, having played in Olympic qualifying games in the summer of 2016. Steeves and Toro have played for their youth national teams, with Steeves playing for the Canadian Cadet Men’s National Team in 2012 at the FIBA U17 World Championships, and Toro representing Puerto Rico as the Youth National Team competed in the 17U World Cup in 2014. GW’s newest international addition is freshman forward Javier Langarica, who hails from Bilbao, Spain.

Of GW’s nine newcomers, two must sit out this season as transfers and two are walk-ons. DJ Williams and Armel Potter will both have two years of eligibility remaining beginning in 2018-19 after transferring to GW from Illinois and Charleston Southern, respectively. Meanwhile, former manager Jack Granger was awarded with a walk-on spot and Luke Sasser joined the program as a walk-on after spending his freshman season at Charlotte.

PROTECTING HOME COURT: Since 2013-14, GW has been one of the best teams in the Atlantic 10 at protecting home court. The Colonials own a 57-9 record for a .864 winning percentage, which is third-best in the conference. Only VCU (58-7, .892) and Dayton (59-8, .881) have a better home winning percentage in that stretch. The Colonials had won 27 straight at home overall against non-conference competition before a loss to Penn State on 11/26. Prior to that, the last loss came at the hands of K-State on Dec. 8, 2012. GW is 56-9 (.861) at home overall since 2013-14.

MONUMENTAL HOME COURT ADVANTAGE: The Colonials have won 31 of their last 32 non-conference home games. They had won 27 straight at home overall against non-conference competition before a loss to Penn State on 11/26/16. Prior to that, the last loss came at the hands of K-State on Dec. 8, 2012.

MOVING ON UP: GW had a combined 94 wins in the past four seasons. That ranks as the most in a four-year span in the 103-year program history. The Colonials also have four straight postseason appearances (2014 NCAA, 2015 NIT 2nd Round, 2016 NIT Champs, 2017 CBI).

SUSTAINED SUCCESS: GW has found a winning formula in Foggy Bottom. In the past four seasons, the Colonials have gone 94-47 and reached the postseason four straight years. In addition to the men’s success, the women have gone 98-34 in that span, giving GW’s basketball programs a combined 192-81 (.703) record over the last four seasons with each making four postseason appearances. The Colonials are the only D.C. Metro-area NCAA Division I program to have both its men’s and women’s basketball teams win at least 20 games and advance to the postseason in 2014, 2015, 2016 and 2017.
LAST TIME OUT: GW 84, HOWARD 75 (11/10/17)

WASHINGTON -- Sparked by the aerial theatrics of Bo Zieger, who twice converted alley-oops straight from a baseline inbounds pass, the GW men’s basketball team outlasted crosstown foe Howard, 84-75, in both team’s season opener on Friday night in the Smith Center.

Zieger finished with 16 points on 8-of-9 shooting, including six dunks, and was one of five Colonials in double figures in an all-around offensive effort in which GW connected on 53.4 percent from the field. Senior Yuta Watanabe led the way for GW with 21.

Making his collegiate debut, Terry Nolan Jr. saw high 11 attempts.

WASHINGTON -- Playing its second game in as many days, the George Washington men’s basketball team fell to Florida State, 67-48, in the BB&T Classic on Sunday afternoon at the Verizon Center. GW dropped to 5-4 on the season after the game, ahead of a matchup on Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. at former A-10 foe Temple.

GW was led by Kevin Marfo’s season-high 18 points against a big Florida State frontcourt that held Tyler Cavanaugh under 10 points for the first time in his career as a Colonials. Marfo’s 18 came on a 6-of-10 effort from the floor, while the freshman also got to the free throw line 11 times and grabbed a game-high-tying nine rebounds.

The Colonials were able to out rebound the Seminoles, 52-42, including a 23-12 edge on the offensive glass, good for a 20-9 advantage in second-chance points. Marfo took seven of his rebounds off the boards on the offensive end, while fellow freshman Amir Markam Jr. pulled four of his six caroms of his own.

Combined with center Collin Smith (nine rebounds), GW got 24 rebounds from the three freshmen big men.

GW was also able to once again make more throws than the opposition attempted, with 16 makes in 24 attempts, as compared to Florida State’s 5-of-6 line.

Florida State was led by 11 apiece from CJ Walker and Xavier Rathan-Mayes, while Dwayne Bacon tossed in 10, and all 12 players that saw action scored. Though GW battled in the second half to stay within three of the Seminoles in the second stanza, the 35-19 halftime deficit proved to be too much for the Colonials to overcome.

GW was playing its fourth consecutive game without second-leading scorer Yuta Watanabe, who has a calf injury, and second straight without graduate student Patrick Steeves, who has a knee injury. Additionally, Jordan Roland came off the bench and was limited to 13 minutes after suffering an ankle injury vs. USF.

Maurice Joseph is in his second season at the helm of the George Washington men’s basketball program in 2017-18.

“I am honored and grateful for the faith that Patrick Nero and the university has placed in me to continue to lead this program onward,” said Joseph.

“There is a proud tradition at GW driven by decades of successful student-athletes both on and off the court, and it is a privilege to be tasked with the responsibility of mentoring our team moving forward.”

Joseph served at the helm of a program that won 20 games in 2016-17 and qualified for postseason play with a roster that included eight newcomers.

“Maurice has demonstrated that he is the right individual to lead our men’s basketball program,” stated Director of Athletics and Recreation Patrick Nero. “Our student-athletes respond well to his energy, passion and vision. I want to congratulate Maurice on this hard-earned opportunity. We’re confident that he will continue to recruit and retain the next generation of men’s basketball student-athletes and help their talents shine.”

The youngest Head Coach in a Top 10 RPI conference, Joseph engineered a 23-15 record in his inaugural season, with a roster that included eight newcomers.

The Colonials finished sixth in 2016-17 with a win over regular season champion Dayton in the regular season finale. In all, three GW freshmen combined to make 50 starts on the year.

An elite shooter in his playing days at Michigan State and Vermont, Joseph was instrumental in the Colonials being the most accurate three-point shooting team in the Atlantic 10 this season.

Joseph, who played under Hall of Fame Coach Tom Izzo at Michigan State before transferring to Vermont where he served as a two-year captain, has been on the GW staff for six seasons, the last four of which saw the program advance to one NCAA Tournament, two NIT berths, and a CBI appearance, including the 2016 NIT Championship.

Joseph has played a key role in the development of GW’s perimeter players, notably Olympian and current NBA player Patricio Garino who earned All-Atlantic 10 honors in 2015-16 after averaging career bests in scoring (14.1 ppg) and three-point field goal percentage (.371), ranking second in the America East in free throw percentage (.848) and three-point shooting (.430), leading the league in the latter category during the regular season.

“It brings me great excitement and pride to hear that Maurice Joseph will lead the Colonials to the Postseason NIT as Holm also chipped in 10.6 points per game. Meanwhile, Cavanaugh and GW’s guards helped the Colonials become one of the best shooting teams in the Atlantic 10, ranking second in three-point field goal percentage (.371).”

Carmen Maciariello completed his third season as an assistant coach for the George Washington men’s basketball team in 2016-17. Maciariello has been a part of an impressive three-year run that has seen the Colonials win 70 games, including three straight postseason appearances. In 2015-16, GW won a school-record 28 games while capturing its first ever postseason title by winning the NIT.

Prior to joining GW in 2011, Turner spent the previous six seasons at the University of Vermont, including the position of Associate Head Coach for the 2010-11 season. He joined the UVM staff in May of 2005.

Haji Turner completed his sixth year on the men’s basketball staff at the George Washington University in 2016-17. Turner has helped the Colonials to 94 wins the past four seasons which is the most in a four-year stretch in school history. In 2015-16, GW won a school-record 28 games while capturing its first ever postseason title by winning the NIT.

The former Division I forward helps mentor the Colonials’ post players and his tutelage was reflected in the growth of big men Isaiah Armwood and Kevin Larsen. Armwood earned Second Team All-Atlantic 10 and A-10 All-Defensive Team honors and Larsen was the Chris Daniels A-10 Most Improved Player during a 2013-14 season in which GW matched the second-most wins in program history and earned a trip to the NCAA Tournament. Larsen also earned Second Team All-Atlantic 10 honors in 2014-15.

At Vermont, Turner repeated as a Second Team All-A-10 selection while seeing his production increase to 18.3 points and 8.4 rebounds per game. Meanwhile, Cavanaugh and GW’s guards helped the Colonials become one of the best shooting teams in the Atlantic 10, ranking second in three-point field goal percentage (.371).”

Chris Holm, who starred on the men’s basketball team at the University of Vermont before enjoying a successful eight-year professional playing career, completed his second season at George Washington, and first as an assistant coach, in 2016-17.

Holm spent his first season as the assistant director of operations, assisting in all facets of the day-to-day operations of the basketball program. He also served as the team’s video coordinator, spearheaded the program’s community outreach and assisted with on-campus official visits.

At Vermont, Holm enjoyed his best collegiate season in 2006-07. That season, the 6-foot-10 Holm ranked second in the country with 12.2 rebounds per game and his 401 total boards stand as a single-season school record. The Colonials, who led the nation in rebounding that season, went 25-8 and advanced to the Postseason NIT as Holm also chipped in 10.6 points per game.

Following his collegiate playing career, Holm received a camp invite from the Charlotte Hornets before heading overseas to begin an eight-year professional career.
