AN OLD TRADITION RETURNS

The 2003 Hoyas restarted an old Hilltop tradition by singing the Georgetown fight song after every victory. It was the idea of Georgetown President John J. DeGioia and Head Coach Bob Benson. The squad learns the song during preseason by having each position group sing off against another group with the loser earning extra conditioning the next day. Georgetown's first rendition of the song came at Lafayette on October 5, 2003. The Hoyas have continued the revived tradition ever since.

GEORGETOWN FIGHT SONG

"It's been so long since last we met
Lie down forever, lie down
Oh, have you any money to bet
Lie down forever, lie down!"
"There goes old... Georgetown
Straight for a... touchdown
See how they... gain ground
Lie down forever, lie down
Lie down forever, lie down!"

"Rah! Rah! Rah!
Hurrah for Georgetown
Cheer for victory today
'Ere the sun has sunk
to rest,
In the cradle of the west

In the clouds will proudly float the Blue and Gray."

"We've heard those loyal fellows up at Yale
Brag and boast about their 'Boola-Boola'
We've heard the Navy yell, we've listened to Cornell
We've heard the sons of Harvard tell
How Crimson lines could hold them
'Choo! Choo! Rah! Rah!', dear to Holy Cross
The proud old Princeton tiger is never at a loss
But the yell of all the yells, the yell that wins the day
Is the 'HOYA, HOYA SAXA!' of the dear
Old Blue and Gray."

BY RORY F. QUIRK C'65, L'80

(PARTIALLY EXCERPTED FROM, "HOYA-SAXA: GEORGETOWN FOOTBALL 1874-1978," PRINTED 1978, REVISED BY GU'S SPORTS INFORMATION DEPARTMENT IN 1993 AND 2003)

Georgetown's football past is rich with upsets, stellar teams and bowl bids. Georgetown can rightfully boast of outstanding individuals whose names dotted the weekend sports pages and who propelled the Hoyas to national prominence: Al Exendine, the Carlisle All-American who brought the Pop Warner system and winning football to the Hilltop as head coach from 1914 to 1922...Johnny Gilroy, perhaps the premier college running back of his day, who led the nation in rushing in 1916...Lou Little, the Penn All-American who brought Georgetown to Eastern prominence in the '20s before moving on to Columbia, where he won long-overdue acclaim as one of the finest coaches in the history of the college game...Jack Hagerty, All-East halfback and captain of Little's powerhouse, went on to star for the New York Giants before returning to his alma mater as head coach from 1931-1948...George Murtagh, another Georgetown and Giant standout, who returned as Hagerty's assistant...Al Blozis, standout tackle on the 1941 Orange Bowl team and NCAA shot put champion...Augie Lio, who played with Blozis, made All-American, and was named to the college Football Hall of Fame...Maurice "Mush" Dubofsky, longtime Hagerty aide, who starred in the '30s, then returned as head coach in 1968 and 1969 before his death in 1970.

Aside from outstanding individuals, Georgetown can point to outstanding teams: The 1916 squad, which crushed nine consecutive opponents after an opening-game loss to Navy...the 1925 team, arguably Georgetown's finest, which shut out seven opponents, smothered previously unbeaten Fordham before a stunned crowd at the Polo Grounds in New York and finished 9-1...the Hagerty powerhouses of 1938, 1939 and 1940. The 1938-39 teams won 15, tied one and held the opposition to 48 points over the two seasons. The 1940 team extended the unbeaten streak to 23 before losing to Boston College in a battle of unbeaten before a standing-room-only crowd at Boston's Fenway Park. BC edged the Hoyas 19-18 in a contest Grantland Rice characterized as one of the most exciting ever played.

Georgetown finished the 1940 season ranked 13th nationally and received a bid to the Orange Bowl to play unbeaten Mississippi State. The Hoyas outplayed the ninth-ranked Maroons on New Year's Day, but lost 14-7. The defeat marked the conclusion of George-town's finest hour as a college football power. The Hoyas finished unbeaten twice and lost just two of 26 games during that three-year period in which Grantland wrote:

"There can be no set system of ranking football coaches... However, in my opinion, Jack Hagerty of Georgetown belongs high up on this list among the very best that football knows."

Then the war came. Georgetown continued to field representative teams in the early '40s before suspending the program in 1943. With the resumption of football in 1946, Jack Hagerty and his staff tried to pick up the pieces and the promise of the pre-war years. While there were occasional upsets and a 1950 Sun Bowl appearance, crowds dwindled, expenses rose, and Georgetown discontinued football. An institution that had been born in a cornfield in 1887 and had risen to the heights of 1940, died abruptly in 1951.

Thirteen years later, Georgetown students petitioned for the resumption of intercollegiate football on a low-budget, non-scholarship level. Their efforts were successful, and sparked the "club football" movement of the late '60s, which saw some 50 colleges that had previously abandoned football follow Georgetown back to the game on a non-scholarship basis.

In 1970, under the guidance of former Duke All-American Scotty Glacken, Georgetown rejoined the intercollegiate ranks as an NCAA Division III member. Since that time, the Hoyas have finished 10th (1974) and seventh (1978) in balloting for the Lambert Bowl, awarded annually to the best small-college team in the East. The 1978 team finished 7-1, the best showing by a Georgetown team since 1939.

In 1993, Georgetown opened a new chapter in its football history, as the Hoyas made the transition to the NCAA Division I-AA level as a member of the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference. GU won two straight MAAC titles in 1997 and 1998 and tied for the league crown in 1999. Then in 2001 Georgetown University played its inaugural season in the prestigious Patriot League, marking the transformation from playing regional powers to facing foes that are in contention for the NCAA Division I-AA Championship year in and year out.

Georgetown football, in its second century of play, has added immeasurably to the rich heritage of a university in its third century.

On September 11, 2001 the Georgetown community lost former Hoya football standout Joe Eacobacci. A 1996 graduate of the College of Arts and Sciences he was an energy trader for the investment firm Cantor Fitzgerald on the 105th floor of the north tower of the World Trade Tower.

Joe was a football student-athlete for Head Coach Bob Benson between 1993 and 1995 and was the team tri-captain his senior season. Benson believes that Eacobacci's mark on Georgetown was inked not only on the gridiron but also on the entire Georgetown campus.

"He had more friends than anybody, and that was what made him a beautiful person," stated Coach Benson in an interview with GU's student newspaper the Hoya. "He would light up a room, he really could make people smile and bring enjoyment and pleasure to a room."

Joe is survived by his parents, Ann and Mitch Eacobacci, his older brother Tom, a 1993 graduate of the McDonough School of Business and former football player, his younger sister Michelle, and by his girlfriend of many years Denise Mauro. The Eacobacci family and Georgetown University have set up a need based scholarship fund in Joe's name.

Beginning in the 2003 season Georgetown's athletic department and football program began honoring Joe every year by having a football student-athlete wear his former playing jersey #35.

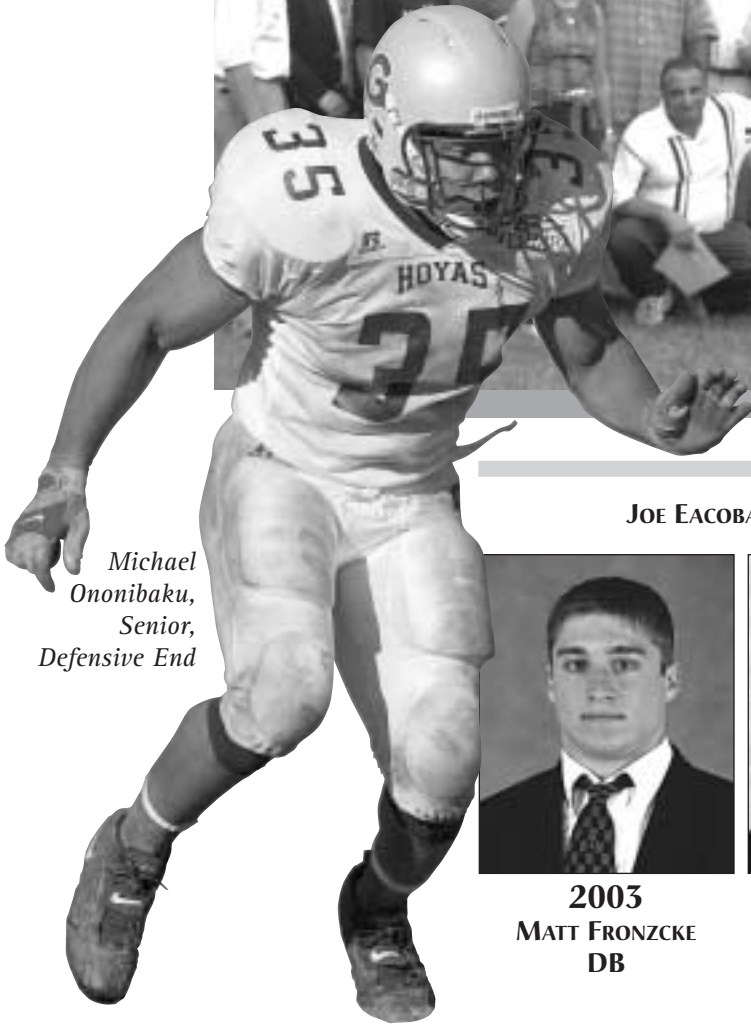

The 2005 #35 Joe Eacobacci Memorial Jersey is bestowed upon senior defensive end Michael
