

Consensus All-America

The following players were listed on the most first team All-America teams competing against players at that position only. To be selected a player has to be named first team on at least two of the five selected All-American teams. Second and third teams were used to break ties. Seven players were unanimous choices by the five organizations used in the consensus chart — American Football Coaches Association, Associated Press, Football Writers Association of America, The Sporting News and Walter Camp Foundation. Note: Each of the five teams has a different way of listing the returner or all-purpose player. For the purpose of the Consensus All-America team those categories were treated as one position.

* Indicates unanimous first team selection; Bold indicates consensus repeater from 2010

Note: Three wide receivers are named because of a tie for the second spot. Both Broyles and Woods made two first teams and one second team each. At defensive back, only three are named instead of four. Two players were unanimous first team while Mathieu was named first team on four. Six other players were named to only one first team as defensive backs.
