The Kansas offensive line returns two starters in sophomore tackles Jeremiah Hatch and Jeff Spikes after losing three senior interior starters. Gone are All-Big 12 honorable mention selections Ryan Cantrell and Adrian Mayes, along with twoyear starter Chet Hartley. Hatch and Spikes started all season as redshirt freshmen in 2008 and both earned Freshman All-America recognition. They should anchor a line, which will need a facelift inside. Brad Thorson could take over the center position, while Sal Capra, Carl Wilson, John Williams and Trevor Marrongelli are candidates for the guard positions. Ian Wolfe and Ben Lueken have seen action as backups at tackle during their careers.
