

The University of Kentucky campus will become completely tobacco-free on November 19, 2009. All members of the campus community, as well as visitors, will be asked to comply with this new policy, which prohibits the use of all tobacco products (cigarettes, chew, pipes, cigars, snuff, etc.) on all campus grounds and parking areas. This includes Commonwealth Stadium, which began operating as a smoke-free facility in 2008. This policy has been in effect at the UK Medical Center since Nov. 20, 2008 and will now apply to all areas of the contiguous UK campus in Lexington, indoors and out.
