KAREN FERGUSON-DAYES

Head Coach
12th Season
Connecticut, 1993

In her 11 seasons, Karen Ferguson-Dayes has taken a soccer program at the University of Louisville and molded it into a team that has finished near the top of the BIG EAST and advanced to the NCAA Tournament twice in the last five seasons.

Ferguson-Dayes, the winningest coach in Cardinal history, has improved the team's record nearly every season she has been at the helm and rewritten the record books.

During her tenure she has guided the Cardinals to not only its first NCAA Tournament berth, but consecutive trips to the dance.

Four of her teams have won more games during the season than the previous school record, including 13 twice.

She has coached a pair of All-Americans in Jamie Craft and Joanna Haig and a pair of Academic All-Americans in Haig and Amy Seng.

The superlatives are nearly too numerous to list completely. Needless to say Ferguson-Dayes has been the most successful coach in UofL women's soccer history and is one of the top coaches in the nation.

Chris Petrucelli, head coach of the University of Texas women's soccer team, is in the top 10 in NCAA history in career wins and winning percentage and recognizes Ferguson-Dayes' place in the coaching world.

"Karen is a rising star in the coaching world. Her passion for the game is unmatched and she has shown that she can win on a high level. She has proven to be a quality coach in both the international arena and the college game. I expect that we will be hearing great things about her accomplishments in the future."

In 2010, the Cardinals were led by freshman Christine Exeter, who was selected as the BIG EAST Rookie of the Year, and redshirt freshman Angelika Uremovich, who was named to the league's All-Rookie Team. U of L opened the season with a school record seven straight wins, which included victories over No. 13 South Carolina and rival Kentucky, and then closed the season by advancing to the BIG EAST Championship for the fifth time in six seasons.

Prior to a disappointing 2009 season where injuries limited the Cardinals' success on the field, the 2008 season served as a learning experience for a team that featured only three seniors. Even with the loss of All-American goalkeeper Joanna Haig and three other key starters, UofL advanced to the quarterfinals of the BIG EAST Tournament for the third straight season and won nine games overall against one of the toughest schedules in the nation.

Seniors Jessica Mello and Shannon Smyth earned Third Team All-BIG EAST honors and were joined by senior Mallory Lampson as NSCAA Academic All-Region selections.

In 2007 a trip to the BIG EAST semifinals was a new plateau of success for the program, as were the five players honored on All-BIG EAST teams. In tying the school record with 13 wins and advancing to the NCAA's for the second consecutive season, the team collectively posted a 3.416 GPA in the classroom.

Haig established five school records, and finished the season third in the nation in save% (0.893) and fifth in GAA playing in Ferguson-Dayes' defensive brand of soccer.

The 2006 squad became the first in school history to earn a national ranking, peaking at 15th in the nation. It was also the first team to advance to the coveted plateau that is the NCAA Tournament. Success was not limited to the field, as the team set marks in the classroom with the second-highest team GPA, a record number of Red and Black Scholars and members of the AD Honor Roll, as well as the first Academic All-American in school history (Amy Seng). Six players earned All-Region honors, three found their name on the All-BIG EAST squads and two players were named All-American (Jamie Craft and Joanna Haig), just the second and third such honored in Cardinal history. Craft moved on to a career in professional soccer, enjoying a solid season with the W-League Boston Renegades.

The fall of 2005 meant the first foray into the BIG EAST, a conference that Ferguson-Dayes had spent seven years in as a player and assistant coach. With the jump into one of the elite conferences, it was expected that the Cardinals might stumble in making the jump, but under the guidance of Ferguson-Dayes, the team notched double figure wins for the second consecutive season. Three team members were honored by the BIG EAST, led by junior Jamie Craft, a first-team selection who was also named to two difference All-Region teams.

Ferguson-Dayes' appointment and success here at Louisville has not gone unnoticed.

University of Louisville Director of Athletics Tom Jurich knew who he wanted to lead the then-struggling women's soccer team when Ferguson-Dayes was hired to be the eighth head coach of the U of L women's soccer team in 2000.

"Her name kept rising to the top during our national search and she came to us with incredible recommendations," noted Jurich.

Nobody believed the process of turning the Louisville women's soccer program into a winner is one that would occur overnight, as evidenced by the tough first season for Ferguson-Dayes and staff, but growth and success wasn't measured by wins and losses. Not initially.

Now the ante has been upped. Under the guidance of Jurich, the Cardinals opened a new era as members of the BIG EAST, and will now take the pitch for the seventh season as a member of the league.

"The University has provided us with the resources we feel are necessary to become an elite program, and that is our goal," said Ferguson-Dayes.

Her tenure is the longest in the program's history. She has already watched assistant coaches Jen Mead and Carmelina Moscato move on to pursue a career in professional soccer, former assistant Carole Dutchka is now the athletic director at Louisville's Presentation Academy, and former assistant Tim Nowak departed for a head coaching opportunity at Eastern Illinois.

Achieving at a high level is not something new for Ferguson-Dayes. She is currently the ODP Girls 1993 age group head coach. She previously worked as the Region II liaison for the US Soccer National Teams, in charge of tracking and following the progress of members of the US Soccer Youth National Team system.

She served as an assistant coach of the USA U-21 team for their 2004 season.

The team had three different training sessions at the US Soccer's National Training Center in Carson, California, where they had the opportunity to scrimmage the US National Team. Training preceded trips to China in March, Brazil in May and Iceland in July to complete the Nordic Cup. It was there that the team won its sixth consecutive Nordic Cup title with a 3-0 win over Sweden.

During the summer of 2003 she served as an assistant coach for the U-19 Adidas Youth Team.

Three years ago she served as the head coach of the Region II 87 girl's team which competed in the Adidas ESP event and the November Interregional event in Boca Raton, Florida.

In 2003 she worked with the Region II girls U-15 team, and accompanied the team to numerous interregional events.

Prior to accepting her position at U of L, she was the assistant coach at the University of Connecticut for three seasons. The Huskies were 60-12-2 during the three years she spent as an assistant, advanced to the final eight twice (1998 and '99), and were national runner-up in 1997.

A 1993 graduate of UConn, Ferguson-Dayes coached under and played for legendary soccer coach Len Tsantiris who has not missed the NCAA Division I soccer tournament during his tenure.

Before coaching at UConn, Ferguson-Dayes served as an assistant at Boston University during its first two seasons of soccer where the team was an astonishing 24-7-2 overall.

In her playing career at UConn as a midfielder, she was named first team All-America in '91, '92 and '93. The Huskies were 63-24-3 during her four-year career and she tallied 53 points (18 goals and 17 assists.)

In 1990 as a freshman, the Huskies competed in the national semifinal where she was named to the NCAA All-Tournament team. Soccer America Magazine selected her as a Team MVP in 1992, an award given to 11 players nationally.

Ferguson-Dayes' playing career was not limited to the collegiate level. She played for the U.S. National Team in 1992 and 1993.

While at UConn, she was involved in the Connecticut Olympic Development Program and served as staff coach in Region One. Ferguson-Dayes holds an NSCAA Advanced National Soccer license, as well as a USSF B license.

A native of Holbrook, N.Y., and a graduate of Sachem High School, Ferguson-Dayes is married to Hylton Dayes and the couple has one son, Brandon, who was born in December, 2008.

KYLE SINGER

Associate Head Coach

5th Season

Virginia, 2002 • Boston College 2003

Kyle Singer enters his second season as associate head coach and his fifth season overall with the University of Louisville women's soccer team.

A former member of the New England Revolution and BIG EAST Goalkeeper of the Year, Singer was hired as an assistant during the summer of 2007 and had an immediate impact.

Under the tutelage of Singer, senior goalkeeper Joanna Haig was named Third-Team All-American by Soccer Buzz, and established school records for single season minutes (2,110), goals against average (0.47) and shutouts (12), as well as career GAA (0.48) and shutouts (20) in 2007. She finished the season third in the nation in save% (0.893) and fifth in GAA.

While working with Singer, Haig was selected to the NSCAA/adidas NCAA Division I All-Great Lakes Region Second Team, Soccer Buzz First Team All-Region, All BIG EAST second team, was a ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America® women's soccer First Team member and was a member of the US Under 23 National Team.

Prior to his arrival in The Ville, Singer spent the previous season as an assistant coach at the University of Minnesota after spending time at Boston College and Northeastern.

"Kyle was a wonderful hire for the University of Louisville women's soccer program," stated Head Coach Karen Ferguson-Dayes, the winningest coach in Cardinal history.

"He has exceptional playing experiences at the collegiate, national and professional levels and will without question be able to challenge our student-athletes both academically and athletically."

"He is a great young coach who has the passion and drive to be successful and he will absolutely help us to achieve our goals of remaining in the top 25 and establishing a tradition of excellence," Ferguson-Dayes added.

Under Singer in his only season in the Twin Cities, first-year keeper Lindsay Dare ranked 6th in the nation in save percentage in 2006.

The previous season, the Plymouth, Minnesota native spent one season working at Boston College with both men's and women's teams. The Eagles women's team recorded a school record 13 shutouts and an 0.79 goals against average and finished the season ranked #10 in the nation. Goalkeeper Arianna Criscione earned All-Region honors from two different publications and is currently playing professional soccer in Italy.

Singer spent two seasons at Northeastern, with the women's team recording the highest win total in school history in 2004. The men's team battled to the America East Championship game in 2003, and under his tutelage Sergio Saccoccio earned all region and all-tournament honors.

While spending time in Massachusetts and Minnesota, Singer has coached both club and ODP teams. He has worked for Region II ODP for a numerous years and is currently helping to oversee the Region's goalkeeping program.

Singer was drafted by the New England Revolution 29th overall in the 2002 MLS SuperDraft and spent three seasons with the Revolution. He competed for two seasons with the New Hampshire Phantoms where he was Player of the Week once and Goalkeeper of the Week three times.

Singer began his collegiate career as a player at Virginia, where after redshirting he took the field for 30 matches for the Cavaliers in three seasons. Upon transferring to Boston College he stepped into the starting lineup and helped the Eagles to the Elite Eight - the best finish in school history, winning a school record 17 games and earning honorable mention All-America, First Team All-BIG EAST, First Team All-Region and BIG EAST Goalkeeper of the Year.

Prior to his collegiate career, Singer was a member of the US National Team, competing with the U-17 squad in the World Cup in Egypt and guiding the US to a shutout win over Austria.

He received a bachelor's degree in foreign affairs from Virginia and completed his master's degree in higher education administration while at Boston College.

Singer holds a US Soccer "A" coaching license, and he has participated as a coach with the US Soccer Market Training identification program.

Singer is married to the former Cristen Redeker, who is a Nurse Practitioner working in Labor and Delivery in Louisville, and the couple has a son, Owen, who was born in May 2011.

NATALIE COCCHI

Assistant Coach

3rd Season

West Virginia, 2008

Natalie Cocchi enters her third season as an assistant coach with the University of Louisville women's soccer program.

On June 5, 2009, University of Louisville women's soccer head coach Karen Ferguson-Dayes announced the hiring of the former Duquesne assistant and West Virginia player.

Cocchi joined the Cardinals' coaching staff after serving one season as an assistant coach at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Prior to moving into the coaching ranks, Cocchi had a stellar playing career for the Mountaineers from 2004-07, where she scored 15 goals, 5 assists and 35 points. She was captain of the 2007 Mountaineer team that was BIG EAST Champions, made it to the Elite Eight of the NCAA Tournament and finished ranked No. 1 in the NSCAA Mid-Atlantic Regional.

"We are thrilled to add Natalie Cocchi to our coaching staff," said Ferguson-Dayes. "She is a passionate young coach whose personality and work ethic will have an immediate impact on our program. She brings a wealth of experience having captained a West Virginia team that won a BIG EAST Championship and made its best ever run in the NCAA Tournament reaching the Elite Eight. Growing up in New Jersey and now living in Pittsburgh, she has developed connections that will help us continue to recruit top student-athletes from the east coast and will surely help in our goal of competing for BIG EAST Championships."

One of the most decorated players in WVU's history, Cocchi was named BIG EAST Player of the Week a total of six times as well as voted Most Valuable Defensive player by teammates and coaches her senior season. She was also voted hardest working player during 2007 season three times. She is a 2008 graduate of WVU with a degree in health and physical education.

She was also a key member of WVU's back-to-back BIG EAST regular season champions in 2006 and 2007 and Mountaineers' 2007 BIG EAST Tournament title. Overall, she was a four-year starter for WVU as a midfielder and defender.

"Natalie is a winner," said her former coach and current West Virginia head coach Nikki Izzo-Brown. "She is a tireless worker and is motivated to be the very best in everything she does. Her passion and energy as a coach make her a great addition to the Louisville women's soccer staff."

During her four seasons as a player, WVU was named Soccer Buzz Elite team of the week five times and Soccer America team of the week five times while sporting impressive 59-21-8 record. The Mountaineers qualified for the NCAA Tournament each of her four years as a player. Cocchi was also invited to the United States U-20 Inter Regionals at the Home Depot Center in Carson City, Calif.

Cocchi owns the NSCAA National Diploma and a USSF "C" coaching license. She currently serves as a Region 2 ODP coach and is the head coach of the Mockingbird Valley Soccer Club U17 Girls squad.

She has coached at several levels over the past nine years, including head coaching stints with the FC Pittsburgh Flash U16G team, USP Soccer Academy U12 girls Select Team and WVUSC U11 Girls Jaguars soccer team.

A native of Ocean Township, N.J., Cocchi is on track to earn her master's degree in sports leadership and administration from Duquesne University in August 2011.
