

Marquette University

Marquette University is a Catholic, Jesuit university dedicated to serving God by serving our students and contributing to the advancement of knowledge. Our mission, therefore, is the search for truth, the discovery and sharing of knowledge, the fostering of personal and professional excellence, the promotion of a life of faith, and the development of leadership expressed in service to others.

Excellence

Our students, whether traditional or non-traditional, undergraduate, graduate or professional, come to Marquette University to share our commitment to the pursuit of excellence in all things as a life-long endeavor. They come to join a community whose members -- faculty, staff, students, trustees, alumni and friends alike -- believe that education must encompass the whole person: spiritual and moral as well as intellectual, the heart as well as the mind. And they come seeking the educational, professional and cultural advantages of a university located in the heart of the city. We, in turn, take seriously our responsibility to foster and support excellence in teaching and research, to keep a Marquette education accessible to a diverse population of students, and to offer personal attention and care to each member of the Marquette community.

Faith

As a Catholic university, we are committed to the unfettered pursuit of truth under the mutually illuminating powers of human intelligence and Christian faith. Our Catholic identity is expressed in our choices of curricula, our sponsorship of programs and activities devoted to the cultivation of our religious character, our ecumenical outlook, and our support of Catholic beliefs and values. Precisely because Catholicism at its best seeks to be inclusive, we are open to all who share our mission and seek the truth about God and the world, and we are firmly committed to academic freedom as the necessary precondition for that search. We welcome and benefit enormously from the diversity of seekers within our ranks, even as we freely choose and celebrate our own Catholic identity.

Leadership

As a Jesuit university, Marquette embodies the intellectual and religious traditions of the Society of Jesus. Through an academically-rigorous, values-centered curriculum, our students receive a firm grounding in the liberal arts, preparation for work in a world of increasing complexity and diversity, and formation for life as ethical and informed leaders in their religious, cultural, professional and civic communities. They work with and learn from faculty who are true teacher scholars, whose research not only advances the sum of human knowledge, but also informs their teaching, and whose commitment to students is fundamental to their intellectual and professional lives.

Service

Through both our academic and co-curricular programs, Marquette strives to develop men and women who will dedicate their lives to the service of others, actively entering into the struggle for a more just society. We expect all members of the Marquette community, whatever their faith tradition, to give concrete expression to their beliefs by giving of themselves in service to those in need.

All this we pursue for the greater glory of God and the common benefit of the human community.

Whether it's preparing students for their first job or putting graduate and professional students on the road to even greater professional success and achievement, Marquette's academic programs have what it takes. They're delivered by faculty scholars at the tops of their fields and respected for funded research in areas ranging from the humanities to the sciences.

Consider these Marquette measures of academic excellence:

- U.S. News & World Report ranked Marquette No. 91 among national universities granting doctoral degrees for 2004.
- Graduate school rankings from U.S. News & World Report have given Marquette top scores. The Law School ranked in the top 100 for 2004 and 2005 and the dispute resolution program was 13th (2005); the College of Nursing's graduate programs scored 53rd (placing the college in the top 20 percent of programs around the country) and nursing-midwifery was 13th (2004); the part-time master's in business administration was ranked 16th (2005); the biomedical engineering program was ranked 31st (2005); the physician assistant program was ranked 33rd (2004); the School of Education was ranked 68th (2005); speech-language pathology was ranked 72nd; and, clinical psychology (doctorate) was ranked 113th (2005).
- Marquette was ranked in the top 100 of Entrepreneur magazine's list of the top entrepreneurial university and college programs in the nation for 2003 and 2004.
- The Princeton Review named Marquette one of the best universities in the Midwest and among the top 20 schools "where students never stop studying."
- The American Psychological Association of Graduate Students named Marquette's Department of Counseling and Educational Psychology the department of the year in 2002 for its outstanding commitment to graduate students and faculty/student relations.
- The College of Nursing offers one of only five Ph.D. programs with a teacher/scholar focus.
- Our medical school-acceptance rate surpasses the national average.
- Alumni serve in senior leadership positions at major U.S. companies including Kimberly-Clark Corp., CDW Computer, Manpower Inc., the American Cancer Society, Fox Sports Network, the San Francisco Giants, Teen People magazine, Ebony magazine and the e-magazine Salon.com (that's just a few).
- Multiple alumni have won the venerated Pulitzer Prize for journalism.

Milwaukee, Wis.

WELCOME TO SOUTHEASTERN WISCONSIN, the home of beautiful scenery and friendly people.

Milwaukee has been nicknamed "A Great Place on a Great Lake," a name that really applies to the entire region, from Ozaukee County south to the Illinois state line and from Lake Michigan west to the glacial hills of Waukesha and Washington counties.

Nestled on the western shores of Lake Michigan, this region is the hidden jewel of the Upper Midwest. It blends small town ambiance and big city excitement into a way of living that quickly captures the hearts of newcomers, many of whom never want to move away. Southeastern Wisconsin offers a wealth of business and social opportunities. Its diversified economy is built on a firm foundation of industrial, high-tech and service jobs. The area's rich ethnic heritage has spawned a variety of colorful events and award-winning restaurants. But this is no news to people who live here. Southeastern Wisconsin has been a great home town since Native Americans arrived hundreds of years ago.

For festivals and fun, Milwaukee can't be beat. From May through September the city vibrates with a dizzying array of activities, including parades, music festivals, ethnic celebrations and church socials, bicycle races, sailing regattas, block parties and art fairs.

Sports fans can attend professional basketball, baseball, soccer and hockey games, or they can watch Marquette University teams battle NCAA opponents.

There are more than 15,000 acres of parkland in Milwaukee County alone, or about one acre for every 60 residents. This includes several miles of public lakefront along the eastern edge of the downtown.

And for those who are itching to drive, there are many nearby attractions, both man-made and natural. Chicago and Madison are less than 90 minutes away, while Wisconsin's North Woods, Michigan's Upper Peninsula and beautiful Door County can be reached in just a few hours.

The city of Milwaukee is located on the western shore of Lake Michigan, about 90 miles north of Chicago. With a population of 612,740, it is the largest city in Wisconsin and the 17th-largest city in the nation.

As defined by the federal government, the Milwaukee metropolitan area includes the four counties that surround the city — Milwaukee, Ozaukee, Washington and Waukesha. Nearly 1.5 million people live in the four-county region, which makes it the 36th-largest metropolitan area in the country. Although located just 20 minutes south of Milwaukee, Racine is classified as its own metropolitan area, with an estimated population of 85,000.

Southeast Wisconsin is ideally located. Nearly 64 million people, or one-fourth of the nation's population, live within 600 miles of Milwaukee. Yet nature is always close by — whether you want to sail on Lake Michigan or hike a bluff that was carved out by glaciers more than 11,000 years ago.

CLIMATE: Milwaukee is located on roughly the same latitude as Eugene, Ore.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Boston, Mass.; and Genoa, Italy. Because of the metropolitan area's northern location, its residents can truly enjoy the beauty found in each of the four seasons — whether it be the cherry and apple blossoms of spring, the refreshing lake breezes of summer, the brilliant colors of fall or the glistening, peaceful snows of winter.

Lake Michigan, one of the largest freshwater lakes in the world, moderates temperatures, taking the sizzle out of the summer sun and warming winter winds.

According to the National Weather Service, temperatures range from an average high of 53 degrees (Fahrenheit) in the spring, 78 degrees in the summer, 59 degrees in the fall and 29 degrees in the winter. Average precipitation is 33 inches. The area receives 47 inches of snowfall, which equals approximately six inches of rain.

QUALITY OF LIFE: There are many reasons why Milwaukee is such a good place to live.

Milwaukee is convenient. The area's average commute time is 20 minutes, among the lowest of the nation's 37 largest metropolitan areas.

The area's standard-of-living is one of the best in the country. Milwaukee's per capita income was $28,176 in 1997. That is 11.4 percent higher than the national per capita income and 12.0 percent higher than the Great Lakes Region, which also consists of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

Milwaukee is vibrant. Milwaukee's unemployment rate has been below 4 percent in the last five years and has outperformed the national unemployment rate in every year since the mid-1980s.

Milwaukee is safe. Of the nation's 37 largest metropolitan areas, Milwaukee had the 10th lowest violent crime rate in 1997 and had the 13th lowest overall crime rate, according to the FBI.

THE PEOPLE: Milwaukee is an ethnic melting pot and it celebrates that heritage every summer in a series of lakefront festivals. More than 500,000 people attend these weekend events, which include German Fest, Polish Fest, Asian Moon, Irish Fest, African World Festival, Indian Summer, Festa Italiana, Mexican Fiesta and Arabian Fest.

Though most Milwaukeeans are American by birth, they are proud of the cultural heritage their parents, grandparents and great-grandparents brought with them when they came looking for jobs in the city's rapidly expanding industrial economy. Forty-eight percent of Milwaukee residents report having some German ancestry. Other ethnic groups include: Polish (14.8 percent), African (13.8 percent), Irish (12.6 percent), English (10.4 percent), French (6.0 percent), Italian (3.6 percent), Hispanic (3.6 percent), Asian and Pacific Islander (1.3 percent) and Native American (0.6 percent).

Tom Ford

Academic Services

Tom Ford is in 16th year as director of academic support and student programs for Marquette's student-athletes. Ford's office offers programs designed to meet the special needs of student-athletes, including an orientation program, tutoring, writing labs, study hall, computer lab, coordination of volunteer services, on-going drug and alcohol education program, career planning, job search assistance for seniors.

He served as advisor/mentor at Wis.-Parkside before coming to Marquette. Additionally, he was assistant director for the Educational Opportunity Program at the New Jersey Institute of Technology from 1982-87.

Ford has also worked in the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction as an education counselor.

A graduate of Wis.-Parkside, Ford earned a bachelor's degree in English in 1972. He earned a master's degree in education from Carthage College in 1998.

The Eagle Flight Plan

To prepare Student-Athletes for the challenges of life beyond the arena of competition, Marquette University has developed The Eagle Flight Plan. The plan was created to insure that athletes, who tend to be a segregated group on campus, have opportunities to develop as a "whole person." It is Marquette's version of the NCAA Life Skills program and is based on the premise that the same qualities and skills necessary for a student-athlete to be successful in athletics can be applied to academic and postgraduate situations. The Plan was developed by Tom Ford from the Department's Office of Academic Support and Student Programs.

The Eagle Flight Plan is designed to first help student-athletes bridge the gap between high school and college life. Programming in personal and academic development enhances student-athlete growth during their college years and helps them realize higher academic achievement along with a higher level of maturity and self-responsibility. The plan also is designed to connect college life to the world of work and to encourage students to make meaningful contributions to their communities.

The Eagle Flight Plan consists of four years of programming that include the following components:

1. Adaptation to college academics, social development and personal health (freshman year);
2. Leadership, social development and personal health and career development (sophomore and junior years);
3. Career development and social development (senior year).

Adaptation to college academics begins upon the student's arrival on campus. It involves students meeting daily with staff and student mentors to learn essential collegiate study skills. Those skills include: time management, note taking, test taking, group preparation and computer skills. Later during the semester the program focuses more on social development and personal health. The program includes student seminars on stress management, drug and alcohol education, sleep and nutrition. Seminars and workshops are combined with individual meetings with students by Ford, who direct the program. Students meet with them at least four times per semester. All study skills efforts are reinforced through tutoring and study group efforts offered at the Athletic Department's study hall.

The second year of the program focuses on the leadership, social development and personal health of the student-athlete. Continuing seminars are offered on stress management and drug and alcohol education. Seminars introducing volunteer activities and community service are offered. The Eagle Flight Plan also offers a summer jobs program to students during this period.

The third year of the program continues to focus on social development and personal health by offering drug and alcohol education, volunteer activities, community service projects and leadership workshops. The third year also begins to prepare students for life beyond college with its focus on career development. Seminars on resume writing, job search techniques and a summer jobs program are offered.

The fourth year of the program focuses on post-graduate concerns: career development and social development. The program aids students in their search for a job or plans for continuing education. The program also helps students begin the process of coping with retirement from athletics.

Rev. Robert A. Wild, S.J. University President

Robert A. Wild, S.J., is the 22nd president of Marquette University. He began his duties as chief executive on June 17, 1996.

Under his leadership, Marquette has improved academic quality, increased and stabilized enrollment, and enhanced partnerships with the city of Milwaukee and community groups. Father Wild is building on Marquette's core strengths: an academically rigorous, values-centered curriculum; solid, practical preparation for work in a world of increasing complexity and diversity; formation for life of students as ethical and informed leaders in their religious, cultural, professional and civic communities; and, graduating women and men who will dedicate their lives to the service of others.

Under his leadership, the university in 2000 embraced a statement of shared vision for the future:

"Our vision is to provide a Catholic, Jesuit education that is genuinely transformational so that our students graduate not simply better educated but better people, and to do so with such excellence that when asked to name the three or four best Catholic universities in America, people will include Marquette as a matter of course."

Marquette has established clear, measurable goals and specific strategies to achieve this long-term vision, including updating academic facilities for students in the 21st century: a new School of Dentistry opened in 2002, the John P. Raynor, S.J., Library was dedicated in 2003, and the Al McGuire Center, a practice facility for student-athletes, opened in 2004.

Immediately prior to assuming the Marquette presidency, from 1992 to 1996, Father Wild served as president of the Weston Jesuit School of Theology in Cambridge, Mass., a graduate school which trains clergy and laity for leadership roles in the Catholic Church. From 1985 to 1991, he served as provincial of the Chicago Province of the Society of Jesus, directing the activities of Jesuits in northern Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and southwestern Ohio. A biblical scholar and author of two books and numerous scholarly articles, Father Wild taught theology at Marquette from 1975 to 1984. He has been a member of the university's Board of Trustees since 1990.

Father Wild, 65, is a native of Chicago. He holds a doctoral degree in New Testament and Christian origins from Harvard University, a master's degree in classical languages, a bachelor's degree in Latin from Loyola University Chicago, and a licentiate in theology from the Jesuit School of Theology in Chicago. He has held visiting professorships at Loyola University Chicago and the Pontifical Biblical Institute in Rome. Father Wild began his teaching career at Xavier High School in Cincinnati, where he taught Latin, Greek and speech and debate from 1964 to 1967. He entered the Society of Jesus in 1957 and was ordained to the priesthood in 1970.

Father Wild is chair of the Wisconsin Association of Independent Colleges and Universities and a member of the boards of Saint Joseph's University, the Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities, the Big East Conference, the President's Advisory Council for Opportunity in Education, the Greater Milwaukee Committee and the Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

Bill Cords Athletic Director

Bill Cords is in his 19th year at Marquette University. The native of Butte, Mont. enjoyed a seven-year high school teaching and coaching career in Montana before leaving in 1971 for Washington State University. During his 11 years at WSU he served as head freshman football coach, assistant varsity football coach, director of intramurals, academic advisor, assistant athletics director and associate athletics director while earning a master's degree and completing doctoral work in education administration.

In 1982, he became the athletics director at the UTEP. During that five-year tenure, a strong broad-based program was developed with a rapidly improving football program, development of a women's athletic conference, a very successful men's basketball program, and highlighted by the elimination of a previous $1 million deficit.

In 1987, Cords accepted the position of director of athletics at Marquette. From that time Marquette moved from independent status to the Midwestern Collegiate Conference (MCC) in 1988-89, a charter membership in the very successful and widely-respected Great Midwest Conference from 1990-95, to charter membership in the nationally prominent and prestigious Conference USA in July 1995.

The mission of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and Recreational Sports is to strive for excellence in academics, athletics, leadership and service to others. Marquette student-athletes, teams and coaches across the broad spectrum of the program continue to achieve academic, athletic, personal and professional prominence at the conference, regional and national levels.

"We are very proud of our students and coaches. They take great pride in representing Marquette and do so striving to be the very best they can be as people, students and athletes," remarked Cords.

Attendance at men's basketball games continues to rank nationally. Women's basketball attendance continues to improve along with that of volleyball and men's and women's soccer.

Marquette has hosted conference championships in men's and women's basketball, cross country, men's soccer, men's and women's tennis and men's and women's outdoor track and field. Marquette has hosted very successful NCAA Men's Basketball Championship First and Second Rounds in 1992, 1996, 1999, and 2004. Marquette also hosted the NCAA Women's Basketball Midwest Regional in 2002.

"This steady and positive growth is a direct result of solid support from our administration, staff, supporters of the program and fans, combined with the hard work, commitment and dedication of our students, coaches and staff," stated Cords.

Rev. Robert A. Wild, S.J.

Bill Cords

Beginning July 1, 1993, he assumed responsibility as director of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and Recreational Sports which combined the activities of intercollegiate athletics, intramurals, club sports and open recreation. This allowed the department to provide more services to the community, in particular the inauguration of the summertime National Youth Sports Program (NYSP) designed to benefit underprivileged youth in the Milwaukee area, while encouraging community use of Marquette facilities such as the Valley Fields Complex, Rec Plex, Helfaer Tennis Stadium, Helfaer Recreation Center and Marquette Gym.

Cords was honored nationally by his peers as the 1999 NACDA/Continental Regional (Central) I-AA/I-AAA Athletic Director of the Year.

"This award is not about one individual," said Cords. "It is a recognition, at the national level, of the support, hard work and dedication of students, coaches, staff, fans and administration over the past 12 years. It is an individual honor, but more importantly it is a very positive recognition of Marquette University and all of the people who have and continue to make our program better and stronger."

He and his wife, Gwen, reside in Brookfield. Their daughter, Lisa, graduated from Marquette in May, 1998 with a bachelor's degree in liberal arts and son, Aaron, is a May 2005 graduate of Marquette's electrical engineering program.
