2006 SEASON OUTLOOK

Coach Tommy West and his Tigers have their sights set on a Conference USA championship and a fourth-consecutive bowl appearance.

As we start this season's outlook, an obvious question abounds: "What will the Tigers do in a season that has been described by some media as 'A.D.' – After DeAngelo?"

But if you look back, last season's outlook began with a similar question, "What will the Tigers do without Danny Wimprine, who quarterbacked the Tigers for four years and threw for over 10,000 yards?"

As we begin the 2006 season, West certainly does not want to minimize the importance of either one of these two players who have certainly made their marks in Tiger history, but he does want to emphasize that what he and his staff have been building has been based on the entire team being successful. And when the likes of Williams and Wimprine leave the program, it is expected that other players in the system will step up and assume their increased roles in continuing the success of Tiger football.

And that brings us to 2006, where the true questions are: 1) Which players will emerge and continue the scoring strike for the Tigers?; 2) What impact will the players who are returning from injuries in 2005 have on the program?; and 3) What immediate impact can quarterback Martin Hankins have on a program that lost two starting quarterbacks last season and ended the year with only nine passing touchdowns?

THE OFFENSE

Because all of the above questions refer to the future of the Tiger offense, that is where we begin this outlook.

In 2005, Memphis scored 326 total points. Of those 326 points, Williams accounted for 114 points, record-setting kicker Stephen Gostkowski was responsible for 101 points and quarterback/receiver Maurice Avery scored 44 points.

West does not try to hide the fact that those numbers are staggering, and realizes that senior receiver Ryan Scott is the leading returning scorer for the Tigers, having scored 18 points in 2005. The next three highest returning scorers are junior tailback Joseph Doss, and sophomore receivers Earnest Williams and Maurice Jones, who all accounted for 12 points apiece in 2005.

"We all know the importance of DeAngelo Williams," said West. "But, it is unfair to the rest of the team for people to say that the only reason we went to three bowl games is because of DeAngelo. That makes it sound as if no one else in this program has done anything."

"We are not starting over," added West. "We have very capable people who are going to have to produce. We think we have some capable people who have not produced because they haven't been put in that role before. I think we are going to be solid because of the way we have recruited in this program, but this is a unique year because of the production loss in scoring when you take out Williams, Gostkowski and Avery."

Offensively in general, the Tigers are deep at nearly every position. The receiving corps is as deep as it has ever been. The offensive line is made up of veterans and has led Conference USA the last two seasons in its impressive sack denial numbers. The ground attack should be solid with Doss. And, the Tigers have a seasoned quarterback who previously threw for over 7,000 yards and 65 touchdowns in two seasons at Southeastern Louisiana.

QUARTERBACK

The Tigers were in one of the most unique situations in the country last season. Junior Patrick Byrne, who had kicked for the Tigers the previous two seasons, had worked hard in the spring and earned the starting job in the fall. Memphis opened the season with rival Ole Miss on Labor Day on ESPN, and no one would have expected what would happen in mere minutes of the starting of the game clock.

The Rebels controlled the ball for the first series, and after Ole Miss converted a 35-yard field goal, the Tigers took over the ball on the 20-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Patrick Byrne completed a four-yard pass to Doss. On the second play, Williams rushed for a two-yard gain. And it was on the third play that Byrne, who worked so hard to prove himself worthy of the starting job, suffered a season-ending broken leg when he was sacked for a loss of two yards by Kelvin Robinson. A dejected Byrne left the field and would be forced to watch from the sidelines. But, as fate would have it, he wouldn't be on the sidelines by himself for very long.

Redshirt freshman and hometown favorite Will Hudgens was pressed into action for the remainder of the Ole Miss game, and despite his best efforts, the Tigers dropped the opener, 10-6. Hudgens started the next game against Chattanooga and completed 10-of-15 passes for 139 yards and two touchdowns to lead Memphis to a 59-14 victory over the Mocs. By the third game of the season, Hudgens appeared more comfortable and started in the road contest with Tulsa – a team the Tigers were facing for the first time in the newly-structured C-USA. Hudgens threw for 129 yards and a score on eight completions before true freshman Billy Barefield was called on to start the fourth quarter with the Tigers down, 28-21. Barefield worked two series and was under center when the Tigers tied the score at 31. On Memphis' last series in the fourth quarter, Hudgens was called back to the field with the Tigers in a 2nd-and-18 situation from the Memphis 40-yard line. Hudgens attempted a pass to Taz Knockum, but was rushed on the play and dropped by Chadd Evans. It was on that one play in the fourth quarter that Hudgens would join Byrne as he too broke his leg and would be forced to miss the remainder of the season.

And now, all eyes were on Barefield, who had just the previous spring and the months of August and September to learn Memphis' the win as Memphis was powered by the legs of Williams who rushed for 236 yards and two touchdowns.

Barefield got the starting nod a game later against UCF in Orlando, but struggled to generate offense again, throwing for just 71 yards on 13 pass completions. It was at that point that West made the decision to move then-leading receiver Maurice Avery to quarterback and also to rely more heavily on the ground game. Avery ultimately led the Tigers to wins in five of the last seven games, including a 38-31 victory over Akron in the Motor City Bowl, while the Tigers led C-USA and finished the season ranked fifth nationally in rushing offense.

In 2006, Byrne and Hudgens return from injury, and Barefield is in the mix as well. But, all eyes were on transfer Martin Hankins in the spring. At that point, Hudgens and Byrne were both limited to non-contact work, and it was Hankins who received a majority of the reps in the numerous scrimmages.

Hankins joined the Tigers last fall, but was only allowed to practice with the squad because he had transferred from Southeastern Louisiana, where he played for Hal Mumme. In his two seasons at SLU, Hankins threw for 7,777 yards and 65 touchdowns and held several NCAA 1-AA records. During the spring, Hankins was consistent and accurate, and West was pleased that he had grasped the system as quickly as he had. By the end of spring, Hankins was the leader on the depth chart and West expects there to be heavy competition in the fall.

"I don't think it's fair to pick the starting quarterback in the spring or the summer," said West. "I want all of our quarterbacks to have the chance to compete in August, especially the ones who weren't physically able to in the spring. Both Patrick and Will still have the chance to compete; and I expect in August for everyone to be competing for that spot."

In addition to the foursome mentioned above, the depth at quarterback is extended by signee Matt Malouf, who was considered the top quarterback prospect for Mississippi, and walk-on Brett Toney, who redshirted last season and worked with the offensive scout team.

RUNNING BACK

All eyes are expected to be on this position as outsiders continue to wonder about the absence of DeAngelo Williams. But those on the inside are well aware that veteran Joseph Doss has been waiting in the wings, and 2006 could be a break-out year for the shifty back. In 2005, Doss was third on the team in rushing yards with 465 yards on 85 attempts. He scored two touchdowns, both of which were his first collegiate scores and were against UCF.

"Joe has waited his turn and this is the natural progression of college football," West stated. "DeAngelo is gone and now Joe steps in. It is his time. That is the way it works. He has worked hard and prepared himself for this opportunity, and I expect that he will be even more productive this season."

Doss, a local favorite from Melrose High, has the same infectious personality and beaming smile that Williams won so many fans over with. He's fast. He's gutsy. He's considered one of the hardest working Tigers on the squad. So all this begs the question - what is the difference between Doss and Williams?

"Joe is a very disciplined runner and has a very good knack for making the first guy miss," said West. "He is consistent, has really good vision and is an outstanding inside runner. He's not a guy who loses yards very often, trying to reverse the field, which is probably the biggest difference between the two. Where DeAngelo could go anywhere, Joe stays pretty disciplined within the offense, keeping the ball where it should be."

In addition to Doss, the Tigers expect production out of junior Jamarcus Gaither and redshirt freshmen T.J. Pitts and Miguel Barnes. Pitts and Barnes were named the co-Offensive Scout Team MVPs last season. Also in the mix is junior Chris Barnett, a transfer who saw much of his action on special teams last season.

"I am not interested in a back running for 2,000 yards," added West. "What I am interested in is that our rushing totals stay where they are. We have been very good running the football and I want to continue that. We will do that with wide receivers and running backs."

WIDE RECEIVER

Once again, the receiving corps is one of the deepest spots for the Tigers. The only significant loss at that position is Avery, who by the fifth game last season had been converted to quarterback.

Leading receiver Ryan Scott returns for his senior season after leading the Tigers last year with 577 yards and three touchdowns on 37 receptions. He is a consistent long distance threat for the Tigers, and has the potential to have a break-out year with a seasoned quarterback at the helm. Additional returning threats for the Tigers are sophomores Earnest Williams, Maurice Jones, Antonio McCoy and Carlton Robinzine, as well as junior Taz Knockum. Jones was named to the C-USA All-Freshman Team last season after totaling 157 yards and two touchdowns on 15 catches. Williams and McCoy were consistent threats who can also run the ball well, while Robinzine returns after having his season cut short after severely burning his hand prior to the Southern Miss game. Knockum, who is a steady player and hard worker, has become a consistent receiving threat and will be looked to for leadership.

"I think we are a very talented group of wide receivers," said West. "Our challenge is to play that way. At times I feel like we don't play as talented as we are at that position. We have to play as good as we think we are."

"Some of the long runs and the big plays are going to have to come from that group," added West. "If they come through, we will be fine offensively."

The coaching staff also anxiously looks for the return this fall of senior Mario Pratcher, who missed all of the 2005 season after suffering a knee injury just prior to the season opener against Ole Miss. In addition to Pratcher, redshirt freshman Carlos Singleton could add another lucrative end-zone threat. Singleton poses a potential threat to opposing defensive backs as a 6-8 lanky receiver who spent the last year learning the Tiger offensive scheme.

Senior Brandon Hunt, sophomores Michael Grandberry and Brandon Feagans, redshirt freshmen Brian Hall, Alton Starr and Lucian Godwin, as well as newcomers Dave Thomas and Duke Calhoun should all add to the depth system. Barefield helped Memphis to perhaps one of its most memorable wins of the season over UTEP, which had arrived at Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium undefeated and the league favorite. Barefield was 12-of-19 for 79 yards in of the receiving corps. Thomas worked out with the squad in the spring after enrolling at Memphis in January. He was an early signee for the Tigers, but waited until January while he was rehabbing a knee injury he suffered in the final game of his high school career. Calhoun was a highly-publicized signee who joins the squad after a stellar prep career at Raleigh-Egypt High here in Memphis.

TIGHT END

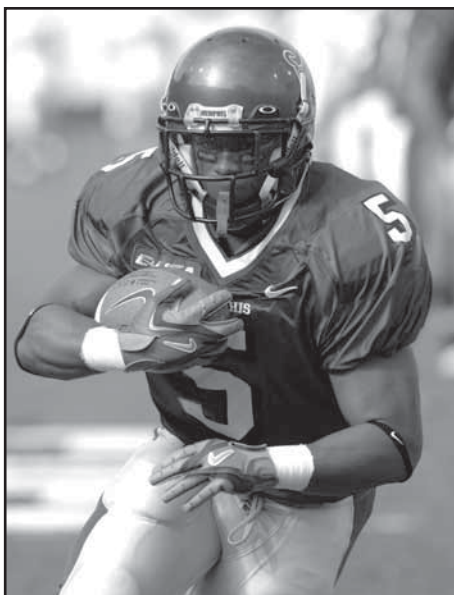

The Tigers take a hit at tight end this season with the loss of John Doucette, who was a strong player that blocked, ran well and could consistently catch passes. This season, the Tigers are young at tight end with sophomore Brett Russell as the leading challenger for that position. Russell played in all 12 games last season and started in five games, primarily in a two tight end set. Russell caught two passes last season for 26 yards and scored his first collegiate touchdown against Chattanooga.

"Brett Russell is young and hasn't been counted on as much as a tight end because we had John Doucette, but it is time for him to step up and take his role," West stated.

Russell will be joined by redshirt freshman Stacy Jones, who may also see work at fullback, and sophomore walk-on Devin Gardner. Newcomers Walter Andrews, Deven Onarheim and Charlie Bryant are expected to begin work at that position in the fall. Andrews practiced with the Tigers in the spring after transferring from Arkansas, where he walked on with the Razorbacks in 2003. Onarheim signed with the Tigers from Thompson High in Maylene, Ala., and Bryant played his prep ball locally at FACS.

THE OFFENSIVE LINE

The Tiger offensive line, which earned the nickname, Pit Crew, last season in regards to Williams' Heisman Trophy campaign, will once again be deep with veterans who know what is expected of them. In the last two seasons, the offensive line has given up just 14 sacks. Last year's total of nine was best in C-USA, and tied for third nationally. The line's biggest losses from last season are left guard Andrew Handy and left tackle Greg Billingslea. Senior Blake Butler, who started out at center last year and rotated at guard and tackle, is expected to once again be one of the anchors in the line. He will be joined by juniors Andy Smith and Michael Denning, as well as senior Jared McGowan and redshirt freshman Kenneth Turner on the inside. Smith started the first nine games of 2005 before suffering a knee injury that sidelined him for the remaining three games, and Denning played in nine games last season.

At tackle, senior Willie Henderson is the veteran of the group, and will be joined by sophomores Brandon Pearce and Philip Belles, junior Abraham Holloway and redshirt freshmen Eric Evans and Paul Edwards. Pearce started all 12 games last season and earned All-Freshman honors from Conference USA. Henderson started in five games at left tackle in 2005, while Holloway started three games at right tackle.

Senior Stephen Schuh, who started the final seven games of the season at center, is the projected starter at that position heading into the fall. Schuh, a walk-on candidate who earned a scholarship prior to the start of the 2005 season, had a consistent spring and was listed on the watch list for the Rimington Trophy this summer. Belles could give Schuh some relief at center after having worked in that position this spring.

"I feel good about our offensive line," said West. "We are very solid and we have to continue to try to improve daily. I am hoping that we will be able to go two-deep at that position this season."

This past spring, former defensive lineman Arron Bentley was converted to the offensive line, and will be joined this fall by newcomers Dominik Riley and Will Truitt. Riley played for Carver High in Montgomery, Ala., and Truitt is another local prospect who joins the squad from Briarcrest Christian.

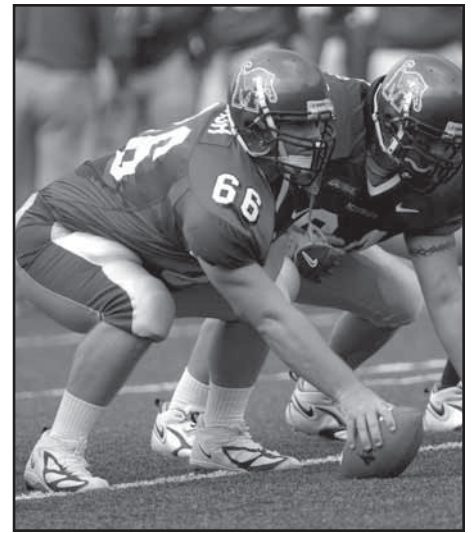

THE DEFENSE

West does not hide the fact that he feels the Tiger defense needs to be better than it was last season. But, he is quick to point out that they did improve late in the season.

"I was disappointed in our defense during the first part of last season," said West. "But I really was proud of how they finished the year. Really, they were a major part of us going to a bowl game by how they played down the stretch last year.

"We have to pick up where we left off, and we should," added West. "There is no doubt in my mind that we are more talented this year than what we have been. We have more people who are capable of making big plays. I am excited about our defense this year."

One key game defensively last season was also the contest in which the Tigers became bowl eligible—the season finale against Marshall at Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium. While the Tigers had allowed over 500 yards of total offense in four of the previous seven games leading up to the Marshall meeting, they proved that they were capable of stopping both the run and the pass at the same time versus the Thundering Herd.

The Tiger defense held the Herd to just 57 yards rushing and 97 yards passing in the 26-3 victory that had the Tigers awaiting their third bowl announcement in as many years. And while the Tigers had held four previous opponents to below 100 yards rushing prior to the Marshall meeting, it was the first time since the final game of the 2002 season against TCU that the Tiger defense had held an opponent to under 100 passing yards.

In 2006, West expects the defense to be more successful in stopping the passing game, but they also can't sacrifice the rush defense, an area the Tigers have been consistent in, for that to happen.

"The first thing we have to do is stop the run, and we led our league in run defense last season," said West. "And that is the reason we played in a bowl. Now, for us to win a championship, we must get better with pass coverage.

"We have been very average with rushing the passer and covering the receivers," added West. "And we have to improve in both places in order for us to go from winning seven or eight games to winning nine or 10 games and winning a championship."

THE DEFENSIVE LINE

The Tigers, which often shifted from a three-man front to a two-man front to a four-man front last season due to injuries, lost Marcus West and LaVale Washington on the front line, but will hopefully have added depth with the return of seniors Van Houston and Rubio Phillips. Houston missed all of 2005 with a knee injury and Phillips saw significant action against Ole Miss before suffering a season-ending knee injury in that game.

Two Ole Miss transfers are expected to make an immediate impact this fall as Jada Brown and Corey Mills will challenge for playing time at defensive end. Brown was able to practice with the Tigers last season, but Mills joined the Tigers on the field for the first time in the spring. Both worked consistently with the number one defense in the spring and played opposite sides with Houston working at nose guard.

Also adding depth to the line will be sophomores Brandon Douglas and Clinton McDonald and redshirt freshman Greg Terrell, who all worked extensively in the spring. Terrell was a pleasant surprise and was praised often by the coaching staff in the spring. The Tigers also hope to regain the services of Ryan Williams, who had shoulder surgery in the spring and is expected to return later in the season.

The Tigers also signed Steven Turner of Brownsville, Tenn., and Josh Weaver of Marietta, Ga., who are both expected to begin working with the line this fall.

"I think we are talented and we have some depth on the defensive line," said West. "We have some people who are capable of making some big plays for us up front."

LINEBACKER

The Tigers also enter 2006 having lost the top two tacklers from last season in linebackers Tim Goodwell and Carlton Baker, both of whom started nearly every game in 2005. But to counter the losses, the Tigers look to regain veteran linebacker Quinton McCrary, who had a promising junior season ahead of him last year before he was hampered by injuries. McCrary was an honors candidate heading into 2005, but missed the first two games of the season with an ankle sprain. He started the next two games before he was felled by a thigh injury that forced him off the field for the remainder of the year. He was granted an additional year through a medical redshirt and returns as a junior this fall.

Alongside of McCrary will be returning seniors Mike Snyder and Michael Spurlock, juniors Greg Hinds, Heath Grant and Donald Thornton, sophomores TiQuintin Morrell and Greg Jackson, and redshirt freshman Jeremy Rockette.

Snyder started 10 games in place of McCrary and totaled 44 tackles, one sack and a fumble recovery in 2005. Jackson saw most of his action as a true freshman with the special teams unit, and Thornton was redshirted in 2005 to add to the depth of 2006.

Spurlock is a consistent player who appeared in 11 games last season. In his first collegiate start against Tennessee, he logged 10 tackles. Hinds played in 10 games and tallied six tackles, while Morrell saw action in six games and totaled one tackle. Grant had one of his best spring sessions and is a key defensive threat who logged 32 tackles and two fumble recoveries last season.

Junior Rod Smith, who has lettered the last two seasons as a cat safety, is making the move to linebacker this season. Smith has speed and agility and worked with the linebackers this spring. He joins safety Wesley Smith as one of the top two returning tacklers from last season, having totaled 50 tackles. He also logged three and a half tackles for a loss of 10 yards and broke up two passes.

"Linebacker has been an Achilles' heel for us," said West. "I have not been pleased with our linebacker play the last couple of years. We have to rush the passer better and we have to play coverage better.

"Hopefully getting Quinton McCrary back will help," added West. "Heath Grant rose up and had a good spring. He has to have a good fall. We can be OK there. It looks like we are going to be playing some young guys there, but I feel like we can be OK."

The Tigers could also have depth at linebacker with the addition of freshmen Jeremy Longstreet, Corderick Govan and Winston Bowens. Longstreet prepped at nearby Olive Branch High School, while Govan joins the Tigers from Charleston High in Cascilla, Miss. Bowen signed with the Tigers after a stellar career at North Clayton High in College Park, Ga.

THE SECONDARY

One of the key defensive threats for the Tigers returns this season as starting free safety Wesley Smith opens the year having already received publicity from national media this summer. He has been named to preseason All-C-USA teams by The Sporting News and Blue Ribbon College Football Yearbook. Smith has started all 37 of his career games and has been listed as a first teamer on the All-Conference USA squad the last three-straight seasons. He is Memphis' leading returning tackler, totaling 82 stops last season, and also recorded a sack and two forced fumbles.

Smith is backed up at free safety by sophomore Brandon Patterson and redshirt freshman Chris Huffman. Patterson played in 11 games last season and logged 13 tackles, while Huffman redshirted last year. Huffman was named the MVP of the Blue-Gray Game in the spring after totaling five tackles and returning a fumble 62 yards for a touchdown.

At cat safety, the Tigers return seniors Derek Clenin and Sam Brewer, junior Jake Kasser and sophomore Tyler Griffin. Clenin, Kasser and Brewer all started games last season and should challenge each other for playing time this fall. Clenin had one of his best career games in the win over UTEP last year when he recovered a fumble deep in Tiger territory to stop a potential Miner score. He also intercepted a pass and returned it to the UTEP 9-yard line to set up a Tiger score. He was named a C-USA Defensive Player of the Week for his efforts, and had one of his proudest moments this past spring when he was informed that he had earned a scholarship.

The Tigers have depth on the corners as well, with seniors Brandon McDonald, Jamaal Rufus and Dustin Lopez all starting several games last year. McDonald led the defense with three interceptions and 11 pass breakups in 2005. Lopez totaled 14 tackles and seven pass breakups, while Rufus started the last seven games of the season at corner and logged 41 tackles and seven breakups.

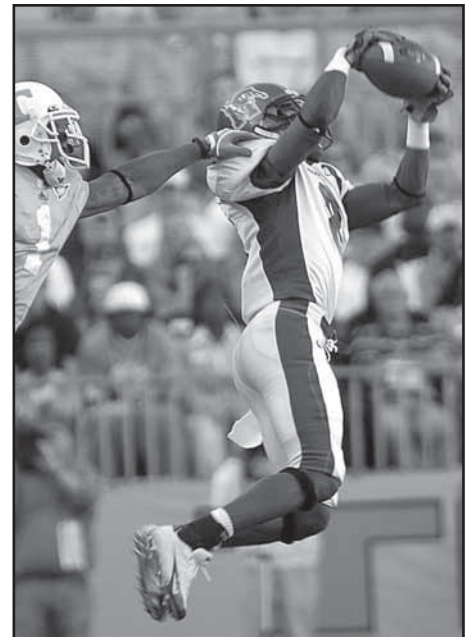

Senior Jermaine Chambers, junior LaKeitharun Ford and redshirt freshmen Bernard Key and Deante' Lamar will also provide depth on the corners. Chambers has seen increased playing time as a member of the special team unit, while Key, Lamar and Ford gained valuable experience while redshirting in 2005.

The Tigers could have some additional depth in the secondary with the addition of Malcolm Jones, Bryan Wright, Jon Cook and Turner West. Cook and West are local products, as Cook played at nearby Olive Branch High and West, the son of Coach Tommy West, prepped at Briarcrest Christian. Jones lettered at Straughn High in Gant, Ala., and Wright is a product of Northwestern High in Miami.

"The secondary is another position where we have to be stronger," said West. "We have a lot of talent there, but we have to be more consistent in defending receivers."

SPECIAL TEAMS

The Tigers will no doubt need to fill the shoes of kicker Stephen Gostkowski, who scored 101 points for the Tigers last season and leaves Memphis as the school's all-time leading scorer and kicker. Gostkowski was so consistent and powerful the last two years that it was a given that he could be relied on even beyond 50 yards. That is one thing that will be missing at least early on this season – the comfort of the coaches knowing that they have someone to count on for points in clutch times.

Three young players who have little or no game experience are expected to challenge for the spot this fall. Sophomores Trey Adams and Kittrell Smith both worked with the team last season and were competitive in the spring. Adams was called into action last season in the win over Chattanooga and converted his only PAT. Matt Reagan, who just completed his prep career at Bearden High in Knoxville, is one true freshman who is expected to challenge for playing time early this fall.

The Tigers do have a veteran who has kicked in game situations for two seasons in senior Patrick Byrne. Though Byrne will also challenge for the quarterback slot in the fall, it would not be surprising to see him also booting kicks. In 2004, Byrne handled 87 kickoffs and sailed 39 of those kicks into the end zone. He averaged a depth to the 3-yard line in 2003 and 2004. Byrne is the only potential kicker with field experience heading into 2006.

One special teams position where there are no doubts is punter. Memphis returns one of the nation's top punters in senior Michael Gibson, who ended the year ranked 11th nationally with an average of 44.6 yards per kick. A second team selection on the 2005 All-C-USA team, Gibson should make a serious run for the Ray Guy Award in 2006 after having totaled 18 punts over 50 yards last season. He was instrumental in Memphis ranking third nationally as a team in net punting, and has received preseason All-C-USA recognition by The Sporting News and Blue Ribbon College Football Yearbook early this summer.

"Though we need to find a kicker, we have a great punter returning in Michael Gibson," said West. "He is great. I don't say that much, but I was really impressed with how well Michael did last season."

Gibson is aided by veteran Rusty Clayton, who has started the last three seasons as the Tigers' deep snapper. Clayton is highly consistent, and has not muffed a single snap in his career for the kicking and punting teams, which includes 128 PATs, 78 field goals and 147 punts. Joe Burgan, a local walk-on from Germantown, has worked with Clayton the past season at deep snapper and will continue to do so in the fall.

"Rusty is another steady player for our special teams," said West. "He is very consistent and does his job each and every time he goes out on that field."

West sees that the special teams unit has improved over the last couple of years and admits that the one place he would like to see additional improvement is in kick returns. In 2005, newcomer Brandon McDonald handled all 32 of the Tigers' punt returns, but averaged just 4.8 yards. His longest return last season was 15 yards as Memphis ranked 12th in the league in punt returns.

The Tigers did somewhat better in kickoff returns as Joseph Doss handled a majority of the returns. Doss averaged 22.3 yards on 19 returns, with a season-long return of 35 yards. The Tigers ranked sixth in C-USA with an average of 20.2 yards per return.

"We were very solid in kick coverage last year," West stated. "Now we need to take it another step and get our return teams better."

THE SCHEDULE

Last season there was a lot of curiosity about the schedule because the Tigers had not previously faced four of the C-USA teams on the schedule as the league restructured in 2005. Now in 2006, the schedule is the same, with the exception of non-conference foe Arkansas State, which was added because of a 12-game schedule.

West feels more comfortable now that his team has played UTEP, UCF, Marshall and Tulsa, and is even more excited about this season because the Tigers host four of the five other teams in the league that were bowl eligible in 2005. Memphis hosts Tulsa and UCF, which played for the league championship, as well as Houston and Southern Miss. The only bowl team from last year that Memphis will face on the road is UTEP, which the Tigers stunned with an upset win last season. In 2005, Memphis and Houston were the only two teams in C-USA to play all five of the other bowl eligible teams in the league. Memphis boasted a 3-2 record over those foes and finished the league ranked second in the East Division.

At press time, the Tigers are scheduled to appear on national television five times in 2006. ESPN announced that it was picking up the season opener with Ole Miss, the Sept. 30 meeting with Tennessee and the early November contest with Southern Miss. Both the Ole Miss (Sept. 3) and Southern Miss (Nov. 5) games were moved to Sunday to accommodate the ESPN broadcast. CSTV, which Memphis appeared on seven times last season, has picked the Oct. 21 meeting with Tulsa and the Nov. 11 meeting with UCF for its national schedule.

In early August, the Tigers will gather once again in hopes of capitalizing on their talent and working towards a fourth-straight bowl game and a goal that West has set for his squad – a conference championship. West will challenge his Tigers to rise to the occasion and realize that there is no turning back for the program that has enjoyed increased success in each of the last three years.
