2005 Outlook

The 2004 season went down as a record-setting year for the Memphis women's soccer program. The Lady Tigers tied a school record for victories with 11 and also set a school record for goals-against average in a season. Memphis and its individual players also garnered numerous awards over the season, the most in any one season in school history. Memphis compiled an overall record of 11-8-0 and a 5-5-0 mark in Conference USA, which included a 4-1 start to the conference schedule. The Tigers also started the season strong, putting up a 7-2 mark in the month of September.

However, for all of the good things that happened in early 2004, the season did not end as Memphis had hoped. The Tigers had to win their final game of the regular season in double overtime to assure themselves of a Conference USA Tournament berth. The Tigers then lost to eventual conference champion UAB in the quarterfinals.

The Tigers will be looking to use the 2005 season to continue building on the positive aspects of the 2004 campaign and to advance further in the postseason. To do so, they will need to replace five of their top six point producers, a goalkeeper that started 15 of 19 games, and two starting defenders. Memphis returns 10 players from last year's team as well as a former all-conference player that redshirted last year. The Tigers add 15 newcomers to the team, including 14 freshmen and a sophomore transfer that was an NAIA All-American last year as a freshman. The talented recruiting class of 2005 was ranked the 27th best in the country by Soccer Buzz.

Memphis will also be faced with the challenge of playing in a much-improved Conference USA, which welcomes six new members for the 2005-06 school year. Three of those new members qualified for the NCAA Tournament last year, giving the conference four NCAA participants from 2004 in its ranks.

Forwards

Although the Tigers lost five of their top six point scorers and four of their five top goal scorers, scoring goals might not be as much of a problem as might be expected from a team that was hit with such heavy losses on the offensive end. This is because of the expected contributions from both veterans and newcomers. Junior Shoko Mikami, who transferred to Memphis last year after leading Division II in goals, goals per game, and points per game in 2003 at Christian Brothers University, injured her knee in spring workouts last year and was forced to miss the first eight games last fall. She returned in time for the conference season, but never was able to play at 100 percent and recorded just one goal and one assist while starting just three games. After having a tremendous spring this year (nine goals in nine exhibition games), Mikami looks to have a full healthy season and recapture her 2003 form.

"We have high expectations for Shoko this year," said head coach Brooks Monaghan. "It was not that realistic to have high expectations for her last year with her coming off her injury. However, she had a great spring and proved to be the type of player we thought we were getting when she came here. She will only get better, and we expect her to contribute a lot more and be a big factor in our offense."

Another native of Japan that put up lofty offensive numbers in her previous collegiate stop should also figure heavily into the Tiger offensive attack. Asuka Kubota, a sophomore transfer from NAIA Martin Methodist College in Pulaski, Tenn., was an NAIA All-American last year after scoring 18 goals and recording 22 assists in just 15 games. She will also figure to play a major role in the offense.

"Asuka is an all-around talented player who we expect to contribute immediately," said Monaghan. "She can play forward or midfield, and she brings international experience with her. She has a knack for scoring goals and we expect her to be a big part of our offense."

Another player that had a strong spring exhibition season and will be looking to extend that play to the fall is sophomore Candace Halvorson, who is in her third year in the program. She saw her first season of action last year after redshirting with a knee injury in 2003 and played in 11 games, starting six and scoring one goal. This spring, she recorded three goals and a pair of assists. She will be looked upon to increase her production and will likely see much more playing time than last season.

Candace Halvorson

“Candace is a very versatile player in that she can play anywhere up front or in the midfield so we feel comfortable putting her anywhere” Monaghan explained. “If she plays with confidence she can be a fantastic player.”

Sophomore Caroline Barrett, who rotated between the forward and midfield positions last year, is the lone returnee from last season that scored more than one goal. She also figures to see time at both forward and midfield this year. She played in 18 games and started 13 last year, but did not record a point after Memphis’ fifth game of the year. The Tigers will look to her to increase her production as she returns from an injury that kept her sidelined for much of the spring season.

“We expect bigger and better things from Caroline this year. She was nursing a knee injury for most of the year last season and we are yet to see her play at 100 percent,” Monaghan remarked. “Her main goal in the offseason was to get back to 100 percent and we expect a different, more consistent player in Caroline now that she is back to full strength.”

Also figuring to see some action up front will be freshman Kylie Hayes, who comes to Memphis with some extraordinary high school credentials. The Piqua, Ohio, native scored 141 goals and recorded 37 assists in her scholastic career, which included a state-leading 47 goals as a senior. Her 141 goals rank third all-time in Ohio State High School Athletic Association history. The Tiger coaching staff is counting on her to bring some of that scoring prowess with her to Memphis.

“Kylie is very athletic and extremely fast. She has scored a lot of goals in her prep career and we expect her to come in and score goals here as well,” Monaghan commented. “We recruited her as a goal scorer.”

Midfielders

Although the midfield will probably have the most amount of newcomers seeing playing time, it still has a chance to be one of the strongest areas for the Tigers this year as two former all-conference picks are expected to start and provide solid leadership from the middle of the field.

Perhaps the most significant addition to the Tigers for 2005 is entering her fourth year in the Lady Tiger soccer program. Redshirt junior Nicky McLeod returns to Tiger lineup for 2005 after missing the entire 2004 season with a knee injury. A 2003 All-Conference USA first team selection, McLeod recorded two goals and four assists in 2003 as a sophomore and was the only Memphis player to start all 18 games while anchoring the U of M midfield.

“Nicky proved this past spring that she is back to the all-conference form she played at in 2003 and adding a proven player like her to the mix may be our biggest addition of the year,” said Monaghan.

Also returning is another All-C-USA honoree in junior Melissa Savage, who played center-midfield last year and was named third team All-C-USA. She played in all 19 games last year, starting 17. Although she recorded just one goal on the year, her importance to the team goes beyond the scoring column, as her aggressive style of play and challenging of every ball can be counted on to give the Tigers a lift.

“Melissa was a big contributor to the midfield last year and we expect the same from her this year,” said Monaghan. “We also expect her to take on more of a leadership role this year as a junior and to continue being a general in the middle of the field.”

The remainder of the playing time in the Tiger midfield will be divided up among a slew of newcomers, all of whom have the potential to see lots of time on the field. Also figuring into the midfield picture are freshmen Laura Pfeffer, Katy Booth, Emiko Schwab, Lindsey Joseph, Sarah MacGregor, Lauren Everhart and Aika Young. Additionally, forwards Halvorson, Hayes, Barrett and Kubota could also see time in the midfield. With the amount of players that have the ability to play in the midfield but also elsewhere, not only does it look to be the deepest position on the team, but the midfielders are also versatile. Booth, Everhart, Joseph, Schwab and Young also have the ability to play forward. Young also brings international experience with her to Memphis as the Guam native is a member of the Guam National Team and has played in several international competitions.

Defenders

Though it usually cannot be measured in numbers aside from the team's goals-against average, the Tigers heaviest losses may have come in the defensive backfield as starters Leanne McGee, Jocelyn Raine and Mary Shelton all graduated. All three helped the Tigers set a school record for goals-against average last year, and McGee was named first team All-C-USA.

Luckily for the Tigers, their two most experienced players on the team reside on defense in their two lone seniors, Courtnee Melton and Robyn Smart. Melton is another of the aforementioned additions from within. She played in the first 11 games last year, starting nine at right defensive back before sustaining a season-ending knee injury. Memphis had a 0.63 goals-against average before Melton was injured and a 1.96 GAA after her injury, which shows the importance of experienced defenders. Smart, who was moved to defense from midfield last year, tallied a goal and four assists. She was second on the team in assists, and is the leading returning point scorer for the Tigers. She was one of just four players that played in every game last season. In addition to Melton's and Smart's exploits and leadership on the field, both are also leaders in the classroom, as both received academic accolades last season as well.

"Courtnee was somewhat limited in the spring as she continued her recovery from her injury, but she is one of our most consistent defenders and we expect from her what she has given us in each of her first three years," Monaghan explained. "We will also look to her to increase her leadership role both on and off the field as a senior.

"Robyn officially found her position on the team last year as a defender after playing both forward and midfield in her first two years," Monaghan continued. "She was a consistent defender last year and we expect her to step up her leadership role this year as well. She has matured and established herself as someone we look to for leadership."

Elaine Sedgewick

The only other returnee on defense that also played in the backfield last year is sophomore Elaine Sedgewick.

One of two natives of England on the team, she spent last year behind veterans McGee, Raine and Shelton but still played in 14 games, starting three and recording a pair of assists. Her role will almost certainly increase this year.

"We have high expectations for Elaine this year," Monaghan said. "It was no secret that she was going to be learning last year, and now that she has begun the transition to playing to our style and the way we want her to play, she is going to be one of the people that is going to try to help fill Leanne McGee's shoes."

A pair of returnees that saw playing time mostly in the midfield last year will be shifted to defense this year. Junior Beth Keating and sophomore Halley Jo Sullivan will move to the backfield. Keating saw action in 12 games last year, starting three, and scored one goal, while Sullivan played in nine games, starting two.

"Beth had a good spring and did well at back and was very effective," Monaghan observed. "She has showed us consistency from that position and we are comfortable having her there."

"Halley has also made the transition to the backfield and was fantastic over the spring, proving to be someone that can be a consistent contributor," Monaghan continued. "She will only get better as she gets more comfortable playing on defense."

The remainder of the defense will be made up of newcomers. Kate Murphy, the second member from Alaska to come to the Tigers in the last two seasons, joins her fellow Alaskan, Sullivan, on the roster. She has the ability to play defense or midfield.

A pair of Canadians from Ontario also figure to get some minutes in the backfield. Both Alexandra Atkinson and Johanna Alexopulos hail from Mississauga and join Keating as members of the Tigers from North of the Border.

Chloe James is a very versatile player that was named a Girls' High School All-American last year as a senior in the Cincinnati area. She will most likely see quite a bit of time on defense, but has played every other position in her prep career as well except for goalie. Finally, Maggie Leone is the lone recruit to join the Tigers this year from the Memphis area, and her gritty style of play figures to earn her some minutes on defense as well.

Goalkeepers

Natalie Haerens, who set three single-season school records last year as a freshman, elected not to return to Memphis, leaving the Tigers with one returnee and one newcomer to compete for the position between the pipes.

Isabel Briones is in her third year in the program after redshirting with an injury her first season. She saw action in five games last year, starting four, and compiled a 1.23 goals-against average in just over 365 minutes, helping contribute to the Tigers' all-time low team GAA. She also had one shutout. She showed a great deal of improvement during the spring exhibition season, recording five shutouts.

"Isabel will only be a sophomore eligibility-wise, but she now has the maturity of an upperclassman, having sat out her first year here," explained Monaghan. "She has matured tremendously since she first got here and had a great spring. As of the end of the spring, she has earned the goalkeeper spot and has proven that she has the ability to take on a starting role. However, she will have to keep a hold on it because it will be a competition once practice starts."

Incoming freshman Caroline Allen will compete with Briones for the starting role, and she comes to Memphis with some impressive credentials. The Gatorade Player of the Year in Arkansas last year, the Little Rock native has been a member of the Olympic Development Program Region III team the last four years.

Schedule

In addition to the tougher Conference USA schedule featuring three NCAA Tournament teams from last year, Memphis will also once again play a schedule that includes a heavy regional flavor. The schedule includes 10 home games, all of which will be played at the Mike Rose Soccer Complex, seven road games and one neutral field game. The non-conference slate features four opponents from the Ohio Valley Conference, two from the Missouri Valley, two from the Southeastern and one from the Sun Belt.

The Tigers open up on the last Sunday of August at home against Tennessee Tech, a team the Tigers defeated last year at home. They will then travel to Birmingham, Ala., the next weekend for a tournament being hosted by Samford. There, Memphis will take on the host Bulldogs as well as Evansville. The Tigers will then return home for a four-game homestand, beginning on September 7 against Tennessee-Martin. The homestand will also see Missouri State (formerly Southwest Missouri State) come to Memphis as well as Ole Miss and Mississippi State. The Tigers then embark on a two-game road trip, at Middle Tennessee on September 18 and at Southeast Missouri State on the 25 before beginning conference play.

Conference USA play opens up on the last day of September, as Tulane comes to Memphis for a Friday night tilt. The Tigers then welcome new conference member UTEP to Mike Rose on October 2. A trip to East Carolina and Marshall awaits the Tigers on the second conference weekend. Memphis then returns home for a three-game homestand beginning Friday, October 14 against defending C-USA champion UAB. The second-straight NCAA team from a year ago comes to Memphis the following weekend when UCF kicks off a conference weekend that also features Southern Miss on Sunday. Memphis wraps up the regular season with a trip to Tulsa and SMU, which also qualified for the NCAA Tournament last year.

This year's Conference USA Tournament will be held in Houston and is being hosted by new conference member, Rice University. The tournament runs from Wednesday through Sunday, November 2-6 at the Rice Track/Soccer Stadium. The top eight teams qualify for the league tournament with the quarterfinals being held on Wednesday, the semifinals on Friday and the final on Sunday.

Head Coach Brooks Monaghan

Brooks Monaghan Head Coach - Sixth Season Memphis, 1994

Head coach Brooks Monaghan has been involved with the Memphis women's soccer program ever since its inception back in 1995. Now entering his sixth year as head coach, Monaghan led the Lady Tigers to 11 wins last year, tied for the most in school history, and has the program pointed in the right direction with the addition of a nationally-ranked recruiting class this year.

Monaghan, who led Memphis back to the Conference USA Tournament last year after a one-year absence in 2003, will be looking to guide the Lady Tiger program to back-to-back appearances in the tournament for the first time since the 1996-97 seasons. The team will also be looking for its third appearance in the last four seasons.

Last year, Monaghan guided the Tigers to their best start in program history, a 7-2 mark through their first nine games that encompassed the month of September. Memphis would go on to finish with an 11-8 record and a 5-5 mark in Conference USA. The 11 wins tied for the most in school history, and the overall winning percentage of .579 set a school record. Memphis recorded a 7-2 mark on its home field. The Tigers also had four players honored by C-USA on its all-conference squads, the most ever in school history. For the second straight year, a Memphis player was named to both the National Soccer Coaches' Association of America (NSCAA) and Soccer Buzz All-Central Region squads, the first time in program history that it has had an all-region selection in back-to-back years. Leanne McGee, the aforementioned all-region player, also became the second Lady Tiger in as many years to garner first team all-conference honors, only the second time in program history that Memphis has had two C-USA first teamers in successive seasons.

Additionally, Monaghan's Tigers also garnered more Conference Player of the Week awards than in any previous season. His team's success not limited to just the field either, Monaghan's Tigers were also the recipient of an NSCAA women's soccer team academic award last year for their work in the classroom, totaling a 3.21 team grade-point average for the 2003-04 school year. Two players, current senior Robyn Smart and Annika Moller, were named to the CoSIDA District IV All-Academic teams and another, current senior Courtnee Melton, was named to an NSCAA/Adidas Regional Scholar-Athlete team.

All of these accolades came following a 2003 season in which the Tigers went 5-10-3, as eight of their 10 losses were by one goal. The Tigers' improvement of four games in the 2004 season was one of the top 25 turnarounds in the country and was also the greatest improvement from one season to the next in school history.

Monaghan's 2002 squad improved by three-and-a-half games and won four more contests than it had the season before. His 2002 team was the first squad in program history to finish with at least a .500 record in conference play, and the Tigers managed that feat by winning four of their last five C-USA games en route to qualifying for their first C-USA Tournament under Monaghan and their first since 1997. This followed the disappointing 2001 season, which was much like the 2003 campaign, as it saw the Tigers lose nine games by one goal in finishing 5-13-1. Monaghan's 2000 team, his first as head coach, went 9-11, which was an overall improvement of three games from the 1999 season. It also saw the Tigers win four more games than the previous year.

Prior to him becoming head coach in 2000, Monaghan served as the goalkeeper coach under his predecessor, Les Szabo, for five seasons from the program's beginning in 1995. A former goalkeeper in his playing days, his tutelage helped decrease the team's goals-against average from 2.74 in the program's first year in 1995 to 1.77 in his final year as an assistant. As head coach, he continued coaching the goalkeepers up until this year, and last season, helped freshman goalkeeper Natalie Haerens record a school record six shutouts and a record 1.18 goals-against average. The team had seven shutouts, which equaled a team record for shutouts in a season, and he also helped the team set a school record by recording a team GAA of 1.19. Further proving his merit as an outstanding goalkeeper instructor, he recruited goalie and Arkansas High School Gatorade Player of the Year Caroline Allen to come to Memphis beginning this year.

Monaghan began his coaching career after a standout playing career at Memphis. After playing at the University of Evansville his freshman year, Monaghan transferred to Memphis and made his mark on the Tiger record books. He still holds the school records for career shutouts (24), career GAA (1.40), single-season shutouts (11) and single-season GAA (0.80). His 298 career saves rank second all-time. He was named first team All-Great Midwest Conference in 1992 in helping lead the Tigers to a share of a conference title. He was named the Great Midwest Conference Championship Defensive MVP in 1993 in leading the Tigers to an outright conference title and the program's first-ever berth in the NCAA Tournament. His 38 career wins as a goalkeeper is also a school record.

A former prep standout at Christian Brothers High School in Memphis, Monaghan's collegiate play helped earn him a spot on the U.S. Under-20 National Squad. Monaghan also played professionally for the New Orleans Gamblers in the USISL from 1995-96 and with the Memphis Express in 2002.

This year will make Monaghan the longest tenured wom-

Assistant Coaches

Jodi Fisher Assistant Coach - Fifth Season Memphis, 1999

Just like head coach Brooks Monaghan, Jodi Fisher has been a part of the Memphis women's soccer program every day since its inception.

A native of Sherwood Park, Alberta, Canada, Fisher is entering her fifth season in her current position of assistant coach. Prior to that, she served as a graduate assistant coach for one season and as a volunteer assistant coach for one season, which was preceded by a four-year playing career for the Tigers.

Fisher began her career at the U of M as a player on the inaugural Lady Tiger squad in 1995. She played four seasons, and in 79 career games, compiled school records that still stand today for career goals (33), points (92), and shots (178). She also is the co-holder of the record for most assists in a game (4) and is second all-time in school history in assists in both a season (11) and career (26). A third team All-Conference USA selection as a junior in 1997, Fisher was also named to the C-USA All-Freshman Team in 1995.

At the conclusion of her playing days, Fisher spent one year as a volunteer assistant coach in 1999. She then accepted a position as a graduate assistant coach and served in that role for the 2000 season, helping in the transition from former head coach Les Szabo to Monaghan. She was named a full-time assistant coach prior to the 2001 season. In addition to helping Monaghan with on-field coaching duties and recruiting, Fisher has also played an instrumental part in the Tigers' success in the classroom. The 2002 squad had a combined grade-point average of 3.08, and 92 percent of the team's members were named to the Conference USA Commissioner's Honor Roll, which was best among U of M athletic teams. The last two seasons, Memphis was the recipient of the women's soccer team academic award from the NSCAA, and last year had three different players garner individual academic awards. This past spring, the women's soccer team posted a team GPA of 3.434, the highest ever for a single semester in program history.

Fisher earned her undergraduate degree in Exercise and Sport Science from Memphis in 1999 and also earned her master's degree in Student Personnel Services from Memphis in 2002. She is single and resides in Memphis.

Amy Morrison Volunteer Assistant Coach First Season Kansas, 1999

After being away from college soccer for the last two seasons, Amy Morrison returns to the collegiate sidelines as she begins her first year as a volunteer assistant coach for the Tigers. Morrison has previously served as an assistant coach at both Kansas and Texas Tech.

Morrison had been the head coach of the Kansas Olympic Development Program State team for the last two seasons and also coached a club team, the KCFC Dynamos, in the Kansas City area. Her last college coaching job came in 2002 when she served as a volunteer assistant at her alma mater, Kansas. Prior to her coaching stint in Lawrence, she held the post of assistant coach at Texas Tech for two seasons in 2000-01.

A three-year letterwinner and a two-time captain for the Jayhawks from 1995-97, she was a member of the inaugural women's soccer squad at Kansas in 1995. Prior to her time at KU, she played her freshman season at Tulsa. While at KU, she also interned with the SWA and the soccer program in 1998. Morrison was awarded the National Coaching Diploma in 1998 and the Advanced National Coaching Diploma in 1999 from the National Soccer Coaches Association.

Originally a native of Omaha, Nebraska, Morrison received her bachelor's and master's degrees in Exercise Science from Kansas in 1999 and 2004, respectively. She is married to Nic Morrison and the couple resides in Memphis.

Sebastian Vecchio Goalkeeper Coach First Season Memphis, 2005

After completing his career with the Memphis men's soccer team last year in which he helped lead the Tigers to a Conference USA Championship and a berth in the NCAA Tournament, Sebastian Vecchio steps over into the coaching ranks and to the women's program, where he joins the Lady Tigers as an assistant coach in charge of goalkeepers.

Vecchio allowed just 12 goals in over 1,500 minutes of play last year for a 0.69 goals-against average en route to being named the Conference USA Defensive Player of the Year and to the All-C-USA first team. He was a two-year starter for the Tigers after transferring to Memphis from NAIA Mid-Continent College in Kentucky. The native of Buenos Aires, Argentina, ended his Tiger career with a 1.02 career goals-against average and 21 wins in two seasons. He also previously played with the Argentina U-16 National Team.

Vecchio earned his bachelor's degree in Marketing from Memphis this past summer. He is single and resides in Memphis.

2004 Season Review

An overall successful season ended for the Memphis women's soccer team with a 4-1 loss to eventual Conference USA Tournament champion UAB in the quarterfinals of the league's postseason classic. The Blazers would eventually go on to the NCAA Tournament and upset Wake Forest in the first round before bowing out to Tennessee in the second round.

The Tigers had the best start to a season in program history, winning four of their first five games and putting together a 7-2 record through the month of September, which included the program's first win over regional rival Ole Miss since 2001 and just the second in program history. The win in Oxford also broke the Rebels' streak of 16 straight non-conference home wins and 22 straight non-conference home games without a loss, a streak that spanned since the 1999 season. Memphis ended the month of September by defeating defending conference champion DePaul in the Tigers' home opener, giving Memphis a 2-0 record against teams that had participated in the 2003 NCAA Tournament.

Memphis also started its Conference USA schedule 4-1 and were in a tie for second place on October 10. From there, however, the Tigers lost four straight, including two by one goal, and found themselves needing to win their final game of the year against Cincinnati to qualify for the C-USA Tournament. In an exciting double overtime game, the Tigers topped the Bearcats 1-0 in as senior Monica Powell scored her first goal of the year as the game-winner on the first assist of the year from senior Leanne McGee. The win propelled the Tigers into the C-USA Tournament for the first time since 2002.

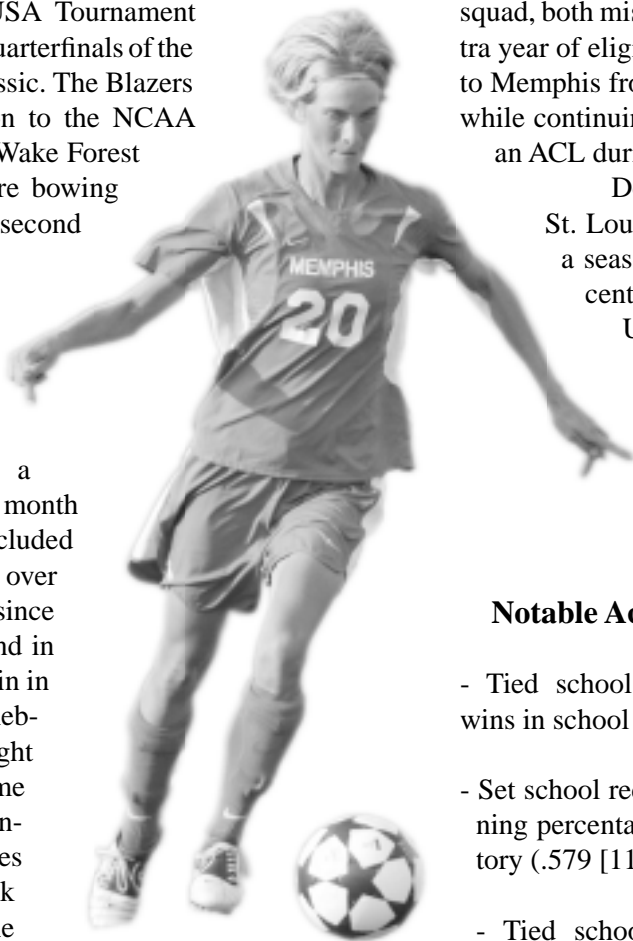

All of the success was possible despite the Tigers missing two of their top players from 2003. Yuiko Konno and Nicky McLeod, a pair of first-team All-C-USA selections from 2003 and expected to play large parts on the 2004 squad, both missed the season. Konno was not granted an extra year of eligibility by the NCAA after she had transferred to Memphis from a school in Japan, and McLeod redshirted while continuing to recover from knee surgery after tearing an ACL during the spring season.

Despite the tough way that the year ended in St. Louis, Memphis tied a school record for wins in a season and set a school record for winning percentage. Four players were named to the All-C-USA team, tied for the most in school history and the most for a Tiger squad under head coach Brooks Monaghan. It was also the second-straight year that Memphis had a first-team all-conference honoree as McGee was named a first teamer following McLeod and Konno the previous season.

Notable Accomplishments by 2004 Lady Tigers

- Tied school record for most wins in school history (11)
- Set school record for best winning percentage in school history (.579 [11-8-0])
- Tied school record for shutouts in a season (7)
- Set school record for team goals against average (1.19)
- Four All-Conference USA honorees, tied for the most in school history and the most under head coach Brooks Monaghan
