MICHIGAN'S ITA ALL-AMERICANS

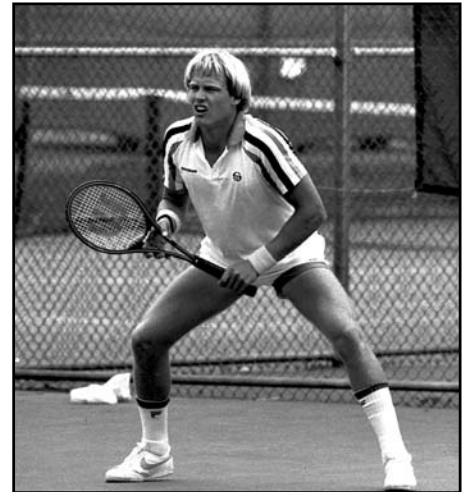

In addition to leading the Big Ten Conference with 36 league championships, the University of Michigan men's tennis program has also made significant achievements on the national scene. The Wolverines captured their first NCAA title in 1957, led by All-American Barry MacKay, who won U-M's first national singles championship that season. MacKay was also the first of 22 ITA All-Americans in the 116-year history of Michigan Men's Tennis.
