MICHIGAN'S ITA ALL-AMERICANS

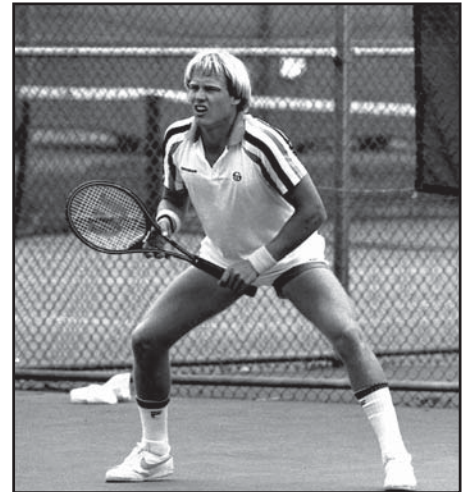

In addition to leading the Big Ten Conference with 36 league championships, the University of Michigan men's tennis program has also made significant achievements on the national scene. The Wolverines captured their first NCAA title in 1957, led by All-American Barry MacKay, who won U-M's first national singles championship that season. MacKay was also the first of 23 ITA All-Americans in the history of the Michigan men's tennis program.
