The Borden Perlman grant provided me the opportunity to be exposed to many facets in the field of athletics. As a new athletics director at a Historically Black College with limited resources, professional development opportunities are repetitious and limited. My experience at the NACDA Convention in Orlando strengthened my network with professionals in the areas of development, marketing, finances and facilities management. My attendance at the various award luncheons and receptions allowed me to share my story with others while gathering solutions to many everyday challenges in administration. I am grateful that the Division II Athletics Directors Association, Dr. Edward Matejkovic and Borden Perlman supported me to attend this Convention. I will always remember what I have learned and use it toward strengthening Cheyney University of Pennsylvania.

Jeffrey Konya

I want to thank Borden Perlman for supplementing my ability to attend the 2009 NACDA Convention in Orlando and take advantage of a critical professional development opportunity. Given the uncertainty of the economic times and its continuous impact on intercollegiate athletics, I found the sessions to be worthwhile, poignant and practical. The discussions directly impacted our institutional decision making progress on items such as fundraising, competition scheduling, proposed legislative concepts and travel considerations. In this light, Borden Perlman certainly contributed to one of the more prosperous years in Northeastern State athletics history.
