OUTLOOK

The U.S. Naval Academy intercollegiate sailing team will sail in over 60 collegiate and one-design regattas during the 14-week fall and 13-week spring seasons each year. With 125 Intercollegiate Sailing Association (ICSA) member schools located in the Mid-Atlantic and New England districts Annapolis is situated just far enough south to sail late into the fall and start early each spring and is in the center of collegiate sailing's most active and competitive region.

The intercollegiate sailing team practices four days a week for three hours a day and competes every weekend in both the fall and spring. Navy's very comprehensive and competitive schedule leads to the six ICSA National Championships. Three championships are held in the fall season -- the men's single-handed, the women's single-handed and the sloops. The other three championships are held at the conclusion of the spring season -- the co-ed dinghy, the women's dinghy and team racing. When the collegiate racing season ends in the spring, many team members continue to train in the summer as crew members on the Academy's offshore racing boats, which sail and compete throughout the East Coast during the summer. With this much sailing time, it is easy to understand the old adage, "you will never be a better dinghy sailor than the day after you graduate college."

The sailing program's fleet of racing dinghies consists of 42 racing Lasers, 50 training Lasers, 22 420s, 22 Flying Juniors, three vanguard 15 dinghies, three interclub dinghies and three Tech Dinghies. This gives the team the latitude to focus during practice in a specific boat for an upcoming event. With such a large fleet, Navy is able to play host to a multitude of events every year, including two of the largest college sailing regattas in the world. The Navy Fall Intersectional and the Truxtun Umstead Regatta in the spring feature four divisions of 20 teams all racing on the water at the same time and are run by the midshipmen.

The Naval Academy's sailing facility, the Robert Crown Center, reopened after a multi-million dollar renovation and expansion was completed in March 2004. This will further allow the Navy sailing team to excel with state-of-the-art facilities and training environment.

The Intercollegiate Team at the Naval Academy has a long a long-standing history of recruiting talent and achieving results. This year is no different than those in the past. Our incoming class has some of the top recruits of the 2005 high school graduating class. Michael Curran, Kira Devers-Jones, Mac Fletcher and Andrew Vann are coming to Annapolis from Florida. Andrew Hotchkiss from Connecticut and Trisha Kutkiewicz and Paul Tucker from New York are all part of a talented freshman class. Several sailors are taking part in a post graduate year at the Naval Academy Preparatory School as well, which will allow them to compete in the 2006-07 year.

O'Hare returns two senior skippers, team captain Chuck Fulmer and John Keith. The senior crew on the team is John Appelbaum. The strong freshman class from last year will return many top skippers and crews as well, including Garth Fasano, Dave Parker, Rob Ramirez, Kristen Sproat and Mike Mullee. The co-ed team is ranked 18th in the nation and looks forward to a strong year with a lot of talent on the team.

The entire Women's team is returning from a very successful year. The women are currently ranked 10th in the country and will be looking to improve on their strong performance last season. Junior Katie Whitman and Sophomore Charlotte Hill will both be back skippering for the N.A.D.S., with sophomore crews Slava Haywas and Andrea White.

HEAD COACH GAVIN O'HARE

Fourth Year at Navy • U.S. Naval Academy '92

Gavin O'Hare enters his fourth season as head coach of the Navy intercollegiate sailing team.

Before his tenure on The Yard, O'Hare served as a coach and instructor for San Diego State and Washington, as well as for the local Severn Sailing Association. O'Hare has also led training clinics and seminars for youth and adult programs in Canada, Japan and throughout the United States.

As a member of the US SAILING Hinman Committee and U.S. Team Racing Association, he is recognized as a team-racing expert and has authored a book on tactics and strategy entitled Contemporary Team Racing.

O'Hare is a US SAILING certified level one instructor and level two coach, and continues to gain competitive sailing experience by racing small sailboats such as Snipes, Vanguard 15s and Lasers. He received the 2002 US SAILING Leadership Award for excellence in promoting team racing.

He adds six years of sales and marketing experience after earning his master's degree in business administration from the University of Phoenix in 2003.

O'Hare returns to Annapolis after graduating from the Naval Academy in 1992. During his time at Navy, he was a member of the intercollegiate sailing program, which was coached by current Olympic sailing team coach, Gary Bodie. After graduation, he served as a surface warfare officer in operations and engineering billets aboard the USS OLDENDORF (DD 972) and the USS PONCE (LPD 15).

ASSISTANT COACHES

GRANT GARCIA

ASSISTANT COACH
SECOND SEASON

Lieutenant Grant Garcia enters his second season as an assistant coach on the intercollegiate sailing team. He was born in Miami, Fla, on August 1, 1978, and graduated from the Naval Academy in May 2000 with a Bachelor of Science in General Science and his commission.

While at the Academy, Grant sailed for the Intercollegiate Team and was selected to the All American Team – Honorable Mention in 1999. Since graduation, Grant has coached sailors up and down the eastern seaboard during his spare time. After completing nuclear power and basic submarine training, he reported to USS BOISE (SSN 764), homeported in Norfolk. During this tour, he served in a variety of division officer assignments, earned his submarine gold dolphins, participated in a Mediterranean deployment as well as in Iraqi Freedom.

He returns to the Naval Academy for his two-year shore duty tour in support of Robert Crown Center – Intercollegiate Team Operations.

MOLLY O'BRYAN

ASSISTANT COACH
THIRD SEASON

Molly O'Bryan enters her third season as a Naval Academy Dinghy Sailing Team assistant coach. A 2002 graduate of the University of Hawai'i at Manoa, O'Bryan competed on the UH varsity women's and co-ed sailing teams. She has competed in nine intercollegiate National Championships (five women's, two co-ed, and two team racing) and is a two-time ICSA All-American.

O'Bryan was a member of the 2003 US SAILING Team and recently completed a 470 Olympic campaign. She is also a US SAILING Level I instructor.

Molly grew up sailing in San Diego, Calif. and competes in both dinghies and keelboats. She recently competed in non-470 events, including the US SAILING Women's National Championship and the Rolex International Women's Keelboat Championships.

O'Bryan comes to Annapolis after working for the U.S. Marine Corps Community Services as head of the sailing program at Kaneohe Bay

NAVY SAILING FLEETS

COLLEGIATE 420

SPECS

LOA: 13' 9"

Beam: 5' 5"

Sail Area: main and jib - 110 square feet

Weight: 260 pounds (fully rigged)

The Collegiate 420 was designed and built in response to the growing need for a more durable, high-performance, double-handed racing dinghy that could stand up to the rigors of club and collegiate programs. Ideal for crews ranging in size from 220-310 pounds.

SPECS

LOA: 13' 10.5"

Beam: 4' 6"

Sail Area: 76 square feet

Mast Height: 20' 1"

Hull Weight: 130 pounds

Designer: Bruce Kirby

The Laser is designed for simplicity. The hull shape, blades and rig combine to create the ultimate sailing machine. Every Laser in the world is identical, and strict class rules ensure that every boat is identical. The Laser is a challenging boat that rewards athleticism, subtle steering and trimming techniques as well as tactical excellence.

COLLEGIATE FJ

SPECS

LOA: 13' 3"

Beam: 4' 11"

Sail Area: Main and jib @ 100 square feet

Rigged Weight: 255 pounds

The Collegiate FJ is sailed by more collegiate sailing teams than any other doublehanded sailboat. The simple layout serves as a fantastic teaching aid to high school and collegiate sailors as well. It requires sailors to become ultra sensitive to small changes in halyard tension, heel angle, mainsheet trim, and jib sheet trim. The Collegiate FJ deep rounded hull shape allows for easy maneuverability, which also encourages sailors to hone their boathandling skills. This ease in handling that the Collegiate FJ allows also makes it an excellent boat for team racing.

OUTLOOK

The co-ed varsity offshore sailing team (VOST) practices daily during the fall and spring seasons in 12 J-24s, 10 Navy 44s and a variety of donated boats, with competitions on weekends in both intercollegiate and open races. During the summer, the VOST competes in offshore races along the East Coast, Bermuda, Halifax, Nova Scotia and occasionally on the Great Lakes as part of its summer programs training.

The J-24 fleet is used by the junior varsity team to train the less experienced freshman team members in sailing and racing techniques in preparation for their move to the offshore boats. It also provides an opportunity for sophomore team members to gain valuable leadership experience while serving as skippers during the fall. These skippers are selected from all the freshman members and have the opportunity to move into positions of responsibility when they move to the offshore boats. The junior varsity team competes in outside J-24 regattas, intercollegiate regattas and an intrasquad championship.

Typically, the VOST trains in a fleet of eight to 10 identical Navy 44s. A fleet of donated boats is utilized on some fall weekends and in the summer racing. Navy has the largest offshore training fleet in the United States and plays host to most of the intercollegiate sailing's big boat regattas.

Offshore sailing serves as the perfect platform for team building, leadership skills and seamanship training, including navigation, maintenance, weather and tactics. The Midshipmen sail the boats, do the planning and make the decisions. Many graduates of the team entered the Academy with no sailing experience, yet leave the team with self-confidence and respect for the sea, as well as skills that will carry forward in their naval careers that come from racing a boat hard in the open ocean.

HEAD COACH JAHN TIHANSKY

1st Year at Navy

Jahn Tihansky enters his first year as the varsity offshore head coach after many successful years of racing and being on the water his entire life. He grew up sailing on Tampa Bay out of the Davis Island Yacht Club. His early days were spent knocking around on a home-built Optimist pram followed by a Sunfish and then a Laser. He began crewing on MORC-sized boats at age 13 and within a few years was working summers in a sail loft and rigging shop. He became a full time sailmaker working first with Johnson Sails and then Hood Sails. In 1981, he bought the first of three J24s he has owned and campaigned it extensively throughout Florida, winning the district championships on multiple occasions and finishing 13th in his first Midwinter Championships in 1982. He continued actively sailing J24s through 1986, skippering at two World Championships and crewing at another. His position as a sail maker provided an entry into big-boat sailing and he competed in far-flung regattas such as Block Island Race Week, the MORC Internationals and his first of many SORCs in 1981.

In 1984, at age 22, he opened his own franchise of Sobstad Sails in Tampa, Fla., and spent most of his on-water time sailing with customers. In 1987, he married his wife, Patricia, and moved to Connecticut to work at the headquarters of Sobstad. While in New England, he was part of the winning team at the 1987 J35 North Americans. The following year, he relocated to Annapolis doing a short stint as a yacht broker followed by four years working with Larry Leonard's Sobstad (now Quantum) Sails. Working for Leonard in Annapolis opened the door to grand prix big-boat sailing opportunities including the Corum Japan Cup, Kenwood Cup, Key West Race Week and 50-foot regattas with some of the world's top sailors.

In 1993, Jahn accepted the job as manager of the newly opened J World Sailing School franchise in Annapolis. Over the following winter, he acquired ownership of the company and has managed it up to the present. While running the school, Jahn developed numerous specialized training programs including regatta competition with students making up the crew in events such as Key West Race Week, Heineken Regatta in St. Martin, SORC, Chesapeake Bay's Screwpile Regatta and the Ft. Lauderdale to Key West Race. His teams often finished in the money and have won a few of these events.

More recently, he bought into a 505 which he and his partner have been racing fairly actively including the 2004 world championships in Santa Cruz, Calif.

Jahn holds a 50-ton Master Coast Guard license, is a US Sailing certified instructor/trainer and also has his FAA private pilot's license. He and his wife reside in the West River area just south of Annapolis.

ASSISTANT COACH

PETE CARRICO ASSISTANT COACH

Pete Carrico was named assistant coach of the offshore sailing team in the summer of 2000, although he has been involved with the Midshipmen program since the 1980's.

Carrico served as a Naval Station sailcraft rigger before being promoted to sailcraft operator in 1990, where he supervised the maintenance of the offshore sailing team fleet.

A lecturer on NAVY 44 rigging and NAVY 44 Mechanical Systems for the past eight years, Carrico also has 37 years of sailing experience with numerous grand-prix regattas and major offshore races as bowman, trimmer, watch captain and crew boss.

He also has served as the dinghy team member, captain and commodore at St. Mary's College, 1977-80.

UNITED STATES NAVAL ACADEMY

Secretary of the Navy George Bancroft laid the foundation for the Naval Academy when, in 1845, he established the Naval School at Fort Severn in Annapolis. Commander Franklin Buchanan served as the first Superintendent. His faculty consisted of four officers and three civilian professors. There were 50 students. Initially, the academic and professional instruction required five years—the first and last at Annapolis, with the intervening three at sea.

In 1850, the Naval School became the United States Naval Academy. The following year, the Academy adopted its current course of instruction which includes four consecutive years at Annapolis, with at-sea training provided during the summers.

The Naval Academy moved to Newport, R.I., during the Civil War. In 1865, it was re-established at Annapolis under the leadership of Vice Admiral David Dixon Porter. During these early years, the Academy was one of the few institutions of higher learning offering a sophisticated undergraduate course in technical education.

The late 19th century saw immense changes in naval technology with the conversion from sail-powered, wooden ships to steam-powered vessels of steel, which also resulted in rapid developments in naval weaponry and tactics. With the Spanish-American War in 1898, the United States became a world naval power, and early Naval Academy graduates like George Dewey and Alfred Thayer Mahan made significant contributions to our national heritage.

The new century saw the nation's undergraduate naval college grow in size and academic prowess. The Class of 1895 had produced 41 graduates. By World War I, there were nearly 200 graduates each year, along with 2,500 reserve officers who received their training at the Academy.

With the entry of the United States into World War I, courses were shortened to three years, a program which remained in effect until 1921.

Between the two world wars, the curriculum and training equipment were modernized to keep pace with rapid advances in the naval profession and American education. In 1930, the Association of American Universities accredited the Naval Academy, and in 1933, an act of Congress authorized the Naval Academy to confer the degree of bachelor of science on graduates, beginning with the Class of 1931. Congress authorized award of the degree to all living graduates in 1939. The Middle Atlantic States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools first accredited the Academy in 1947.

During World War II, summer sessions were instituted and the course was again shortened to three years. As during World War I, reserve officers, along with reserve midshipmen, also trained at the Academy.

In 1963, the Academy initiated the Trident Scholar Program, under which a number of exceptional students are permitted to pursue independent research during the first class (senior) year.

The 1964-65 academic year saw the civilian positions of academic dean and dean of admissions established and far-reaching changes made to the curriculum. The number of required core courses was reduced and, for the first time, each midshipman was allowed to pursue academic areas of individual interest for minor or major. Additional changes, introduced in the 1969-70 academic year, now require every midshipman to complete a major.

In 1975, President Gerald R. Ford signed legislation authorizing admission of women to the service academies. The first women midshipmen entered the Academy in July 1976 and graduated with the Class of 1980.

MIDSHIPMEN LIFE

It all begins with fourth class year. From their first day at the Academy, the fourth class midshipmen, or plebes, undergo an intensive and unabated program of military training and indoctrination. Physical and mental demands on them and their time seem never-ending. But it all has a purpose: the development of leadership ability, motivation, moral strength, physical skills and stamina.

Plebe Summer is a time which most midshipmen will remember for many years. New midshipmen are kept constantly busy learning basic skills in seamanship, navigation and marksmanship. Their pride and company spirit are boosted through infantry drill, small arms training, sailing Navy yawls and cruising in yard patrol craft. Their competitive spirit and desire to win are developed in activities such as athletics, dress parades and seamanship.

MISSION OF THE NAVAL ACADEMY

TO DEVELOP MIDSHIPMEN MORALLY, MENTALLY AND PHYSICALLY AND TO IMBUE THEM WITH THE HIGHEST IDEALS OF DUTY, HONOR AND LOYALTY IN ORDER TO PROVIDE GRADUATES WHO ARE DEDICATED TO A CAREER OF NAVAL SERVICE AND HAVE POTENTIAL FOR FUTURE DEVELOPMENT IN MIND AND CHARACTER TO ASSUME THE HIGHEST RESPONSIBILITIES OF COMMAND, CITIZENSHIP AND GOVERNMENT.

Plebe Summer is highlighted in August during Parents' Weekend, when parents visit the Academy and witness the progress of their sons and daughters.

The arrival of the upperclassmen in mid-August heralds the beginning of the academic year. The plebes embark on a four-year course of study while plebe indoctrination continues.

September brings the excitement of football and other fall sports. During the football season, only selected units of the brigade travel to away games, but the entire brigade attends all home games and the annual fall classic, the Army-Navy game.

Commissioning Week, in May, brings the graduation of the first classmen and the end of plebe year. Plebes signify the end of the first year at the Academy by scaling the smooth granite sides of Herndon Monument to replace, at its summit, a plebe cap with an upperclass cover.

Between plebe and third class years, midshipmen get their first taste of life at sea and their introduction to the enlisted men whom they will lead when commissioned as officers. Joining ships around the world, midshipmen perform a host of shipboard duties including standing deck, gunnery, operations and engineering watches. Midshipmen also have their first opportunity to visit foreign countries and experience different cultures.

Third classmen begin work in their academic majors and assume more responsibility in the military regimen at the Academy. Less emphasis is placed on indoctrination, leaving more time for studies, sports and extracurricular activities. It's a welcome change from the rigors of plebe year.

During their third summer, midshipmen get their first training in four warfare specialties which comprise the naval service. They learn about submarines at New London, Conn.; surface warfare at Norfolk, Va.; naval aviation at Pensacola, Fla.; and the Marine Corps at Quantico, Va.

Second class midshipmen are assigned still additional military responsibilities. They are selected and trained to direct the Brigade of Midshipmen during absences of the first class. They are also assigned an important role in indoctrination of the new plebe class, which develops their leadership skills. In academics, the second class midshipmen enter increasingly advanced areas of study.

During their final year at the Academy, first class midshipmen

complete the core curriculum and their academic majors' course requirements. Many undertake independent research projects, and some begin graduate-level studies at nearby universities. The first class midshipmen also take over the responsibilities for plebe indoctrination. They also lead the brigade at parades, formal ceremonies and daily formations. They are responsible for the conduct, military smartness and competitive records of their units. The skills which the first class midshipmen develop this year will help them when they assume their leadership responsibilities in the Navy and Marine Corps following graduation.

One common denominator which binds the four years into a unit which will forever shape the life of an Academy graduate is the Honor Concept.

Established and administered by midshipmen, the Honor Concept is based on the principle that honorable individuals do not lie, cheat or steal. All midshipmen are expected to conduct their lives in accordance with the Honor Concept so that their decisions as midshipmen, naval officers and civilians reflect the highest levels of honorable conduct.

THE CURRICULUM

With the aid of academic and military advisors, midshipmen design their own blend of the curriculum's three elements:

- Courses providing the professional and leadership skills required in the naval service.
- "Core" requirements in engineering, social sciences, natural sciences and the humanities to ensure breadth in education.
- Completion of a major program in an academic subject chosen by each midshipman to develop individual interests and talents in depth.

The Naval Academy offers major programs in 19 subject areas: eight in engineering; seven in sciences and mathematics, including computer science, as well as information technology, the most recent addition; and four in the humanities and social sciences. Seven of the engineering majors are accredited professionally by the Engineering Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board of Engineering and Technology.

Selected humanities and social science majors with excellent records are invited to enter the rigorous honors programs offered by the departments of Economics, English, History and Political Science.

Outstanding students also have the opportunity to engage in independent study and research during their senior year. Those selected as Trident Scholars carry a reduced formal course load so they can pursue a major research project and prepare a thesis. They are assisted by one or more faculty advisors who specialize in the field of study.

A number of first class midshipmen who complete academic requirements early are encouraged to enroll in graduate classes at area universities. This Voluntary Graduate Education Program gives them the chance to graduate and receive commissions with their classmates, finish their graduate studies locally and then go to their first assignments with a master's degree.

All midshipmen undertake professional military training, beginning on the first day of Plebe Summer and continuing through first class year. This includes classroom studies, drills and practical training at the Naval Academy and with Navy and Marine Corps units during summer programs. Navigation, seamanship, tactics, naval engineering, weapons, leadership and military law are among the areas studied. To advance and graduate, midshipmen must pass professional competency examinations covering general knowledge and subjects related to their service selection.

The Naval Academy's physical education program complements academic and professional development of midshipmen. Instruction and training aim to develop individual skills and competitive spirit, life-long habits of physical fitness, and the capability to withstand physical hardship when necessary. All midshipmen must complete the four-year program which includes the Physical Readiness Test (twice annually), water survival, physical development, personal defense and lifetime carryover sports. Women participate in the same curriculum, including boxing, wrestling and judo.

COMMISSIONING WEEK

Six days of parades, athletic events, colorful ceremonies, formal dances and receptions bring to a climax four years of challenging education and training.

One highlight of Commissioning Week is Color Parade. Each year, intra-brigade competition is conducted to determine which of the 30 companies stands highest overall on the basis of academics, intramural sports, professional drills and parade performance. During the parade, the color girl, who is selected by the Color Company commander, transfer the flags from the past Color Company to the new one.

The biggest social event of Commissioning Week is the ring dance for the second class midshipmen. An elegant formal affair, it is at this event that the midshipmen begin wearing their class rings.

First class midshipmen and their families attend the superintendent's garden party and reception, plus other social events. Athletic, academic and professional awards are presented in Alumni Hall. The evening before graduation, everyone is invited to attend the farewell ball.

On graduation day, friends and relatives gather with the midshipmen at Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium. After the diplomas are presented and the oath of office is administered, the senior midshipman of the new first class leads three cheers for "those about to leave us." The graduates, led by the class president, reply with three cheers for "those we leave behind." On the last hooray of this cheer, the 1,000 graduates toss their midshipmen covers into the air. According to tradition, the honor of putting on the new Navy Ensign and Marine Corps Second Lieutenant shoulder devices is shared by mothers and Commissioning Week dates.

NAVAL ACADEMY FACTS

ALUMNI HALL

This $30 million facility is used for concerts, lectures, plays, convocations, men's and women's basketball and other athletic events. It includes a reception area and dining room. The arena seats 5,710 fans for basketball contests.

ANCHORS AWEIGH

"Anchors Aweigh" was written by Lt. Charles Zimmermann, Musical Director of the Naval Academy in 1906, with the lyrics provided by Alfred H. Miles of the Class of 1906, as a fight song for the 1907 graduating class instead of the usual class march Zimmermann had composed for previous classes. The song made its debut at the 1906 Army-Navy game, and when the Midshipmen won the game, the song became traditional at this game. It gained national exposure in the 1920s and 1930s when it was heard on the radio and was in a number of popular movies. In 1997 a one-hour documentary on the history of Navy football, titled "Anchors Aweigh for Honor and Glory", was produced by NFL Films. The film was deemed a success by both critics and fans alike.

ANNAPOLIS

The capital of Maryland, Annapolis is the home of the Naval Academy. Annapolis is located 30 miles east of Washington, D.C. and 25 miles south of Baltimore.

BANCROFT HALL

Named after former Secretary of the Navy George Bancroft, the Hall is home for the entire Brigade of Midshipmen. It contains 1,873 midshipmen rooms, nearly five miles of corridors and about 33 acres of floor space, making it one of the largest single dormitories in the world. All of the basic facilities midshipmen need for daily living, and many for recreation, are found in the Hall.

BAND

The Navy's oldest continuing musical organization, the Naval Academy Band was formed in 1852 with 13 musicians. Now numbering 63 members, the band includes the wind ensembles, rock band, big band, woodwind and brass quintets, tuba and trombone quartets and the percussion ensemble. The band provides musical support to the Brigade of Midshipmen in parades and performances, and entertains members of the Academy family and civilian community throughout the year.

BILL THE GOAT

The first recorded use of a goat mascot for Navy athletic teams was in 1893 when an animal named El Cid (The Chief) was turned over to the Brigade by young officers of the USS New York. El Cid helped Navy to a 6-4 triumph over Army that year. Two cats, a dog, and a carrier pigeon have also enjoyed brief reigns as the Navy mascot, but goats have served without interruption since 1904.

Bill XXXI and XXXII are the current mascots. They are taken care of by 15 goathandlers made up of five midshipmen from the first, second and third classes. The goathandlers undergo rigorous training prior to handling Bill on the field.

CO-ED

For many years, the Naval Academy was a male-only institution. But that changed when women were admitted in 1976. Today, 15 percent of the 4,000-member Brigade are women.

ENTERPRISE BELL

From the bridge of the famed World War II aircraft carrier, it has been a part of the Naval Academy tradition since 1950. The late Admiral Harry W. Hill, then Superintendent, was instrumental in bringing the "E" Bell to Annapolis. It rings when the Academy observes Morning Colors and also during special ceremonies when Navy scores a majority of victories over Army in any one of the three sports seasons. The bell also rings during Commissioning Week for those teams that beat Army and have not participated in a previous bell-ringing during the academic year. The bell is stationed in front of Bancroft Hall.

FLAG RANK

The term used for reaching the rank of Admiral or General, these nine former Navy football captains have earned that honor: Vice Admiral Edward E. Ewen, USN (captain of the 1919 and 1920 teams), Rear Admiral Magruder H. Tuttle, USN (1931), Rear Admiral James Reedy, USN (1932), Lt. General Louis B. Robertshaw, USMC (1935), Brigadier General Rivers Morrell, USMC (1936), Major General Phil Monahan, USMC (1954), Major General John Hopkins, USMC (1955), Rear Admiral Thomas C. Lynch, USN (1963) and Rear Admiral Rick Porterfield, USN (1972).

GOKOKUJI BELL

The bell is an exact replica of the 1456 casting brought to this country by Commodore Matthew C. Perry following his expedition to Japan in 1854. The original bell, donated to the Naval Academy by Commodore Perry's widow, was returned by the Navy to the people of Okinawa in 1987. Like the original bell, the replica is rung to celebrate football victories over Army. The bell is stationed in front of Bancroft Hall.

The Gokokuji Bell is an exact replica of the 1456 casting brought to this country by Commodore Matthew C. Perry following his expedition to Japan in 1854. Like the original bell, the replica is rung to celebrate football victories over Army.

HUBBARD HALL

Also known as the Boat House, Hubbard Hall, which is located on Dorsey Creek, was the first Academy building to be named in honor of a living man. Rear Admiral John Hubbard, Class of 1870, stroke on the crew at that time. Hubbard Hall underwent major renovations in 1993 and now includes the Fisher Rowing Center, a state-of-the-art facility for Navy's extensive crew program.

JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY

In 1883, Navy lost to Johns Hopkins University, 2-0, marking the Mids' first intercollegiate football game.

MIDSHIPMAN

The word midshipman first appeared in English in the 17th century in the form of the word midshipsman to designate those men who were stationed "amidships," i.e. in the waist or middle portion of the vessel, while on duty. By 1687, however, the second 's' had been dropped to give the current form of the word. Midshipmen were originally boys, sometimes as young as seven or eight, who were apprenticed to sea captains to learn the sailor's trade.

In the early days of the American Navy, midshipmen trained aboard ship until they were eventually commissioned as ensigns. With the founding of the Naval Academy in 1845, it became possible, as it still is, for a midshipman to enter the Navy directly from civilian life. The name of students at the Naval Academy changed several times between 1870 and 1902, when Congress restored the original title of Midshipman, and it has remained unchanged since.

NICKNAME

Navy's sports teams are referred to as the Midshipmen or Mids. The term "Middie" is inappropriate.

NOTRE DAME

The Irish and Mids have played every year since 1927, in the longest continuous intersectional rivalry in college football today. Along with their academic philosophies, the two institutions have another bond – former Naval Academy Superintendent Rear Admiral Thomas C. Lynch, captain of the 1963 Navy football team, is the brother of 1966 Notre Dame football captain Jim Lynch.

N-STAR

Members of varsity teams who qualify for their varsity letter receive an N-Star if they participate in a victory over Army in any sport designated "Star" competition.

REEVES, JOSEPH M.

The first known football helmet was worn by Joseph M. Reeves in 1894. Legend has it "he wore a moleskin cap fashioned by a well-known lady of Annapolis."

SCHOOL COLORS

Navy adopted Navy Blue and Gold as its colors back in 1892. At that time, each class at the Naval Academy had class colors. The Class of 1890 first used Navy Blue and Gold. In 1892, the minutes from the Naval Academy Auxiliary Athletic Association meeting reported, "The Committee reported favorable results of a conference with Naval Cadets as to the probability of adoption of Navy Blue and Gold as Academy colors."

Jack Stephens Field

VARSITY ATHLETICS

In keeping with the mission of the Naval Academy, 30 varsity sports — 21 for men and nine for women — are offered for midshipmen.

VICTORIES

With 599 all-time wins, Navy is 28th among Division I-A schools. Navy's all-time football record is 599-498-57, for a winning percentage of .544.

THE YARD

The Yard, as the Naval Academy campus is called, features tree-lined brick walks, French Renaissance and contemporary architecture and scenic vistas of the Chesapeake Bay. The Bancroft Hall dormitory complex, the Cathedral of the Navy and other 82-year-old buildings make the Academy a National Historic Site.

SHUTOUTS

Navy has recorded 265 of them. During the 1910 season, the Mids didn't give up a point and posted an 8-0-1 record. The only blemish — a 0-0 tie with Rutgers. That year, Navy beat Army 3-0 thanks to Jack Dalton, who missed his first six field goal attempts before finally hitting the game winner. Navy's last shutout was Sept. 18, 2004, when the Mids blanked Tulsa, 29-0.

JACK STEPHENS FIELD

The United States Naval Academy Campaign: Leaders to Serve the Nation received a $10 million gift from Mr. Jackson T. Stephens of Little Rock, Arkansas, in the fall of 2003. Mr. Stephens is a 1947 graduate of the Naval Academy and chairman of Stephens Group, Inc. His gift supported the ongoing renovations at Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium. The field at Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium was named "Jack Stephens Field" in honor of the donor.

TECUMSEH

The familiar Native American figurehead facing Bancroft Hall and Tecumseh Court has been an Annapolis resident since 1866. Originally, the figurehead of the USS Delaware was meant to portray Tamanend, the great chief of the Delawares. It developed that Tamanend was a lover of peace and did not strike the fancy of the Brigade. Looking for another name, Midshipmen referred to the figurehead as Powhatan and King Philip before finally settling on Tecumseh, the fierce Shawnee chieftain who lived from 1768-1813. The original wooden statue was replaced after some 50 years in the open weather by a durable bronze replica, presented by the Class of 1891. Before Army-Navy competition in any sport, Tecumseh gets a fresh coat of war paint. He is also the target of left-handed salutes and a shower of pennies — offerings for victory.

UNIFORMS

In 1879, the Navy team wore canvas jackets, laced tight around their bodies. These were supposedly the first real uniforms ever used.

CHET GLADCHUK

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

In four years on the job, Naval Academy Director of Athletics Chet Gladchuk has overseen a renaissance of Navy athletics.

Last fall, the Navy football team completed one of its most successful seasons in school history as the Midshipmen recorded a 10-2 record, won the Commander-In-Chief's Trophy for the second-consecutive year and won the Emerald Bowl. The 10 wins equaled the most in school history and were the most wins in 99 years, while it was just the second time in school history that Navy has won the Commander-In-Chief's Trophy two-straight years. Navy ended the year ranked 24th in the country in both polls, marking the first time since 1978 that the Midshipmen finished the year ranked in the top 25. Head coach Paul Johnson was named National Coach of the Year by the Bobby Dodd Foundation.

The football team wasn't the only successful squad at the Naval Academy as Navy athletic teams won 62 percent of their contests (284-174-6) during the 2004-05 academic year. Twelve Midshipmen garnered All-America honors, while six different teams won conference championships. The rifle (fifth at the NCAA Championship), wrestling (33rd at the NCAA Championship) and lacrosse teams (NCAA Quarterfinals) joined the football squad in bringing national recognition to the Naval Academy. Two Navy athletic teams performed in front of record crowds as the football team drew a school record 186,099 fans to Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium, while the lacrosse team ranked No. 1 in the nation in averaged attendance (6,526). Navy athletics was also successful in the classroom, ranking No. 1 in the country in the NCAA's Academic Progress Report among the 117 schools with Division IA football programs. Navy was No. 7 overall out of 328 Division I institutions and first among the three service academies. Gladchuk was able to parlay Navy's athletic success into an exclusive television deal with College Sports Television that will significantly increase Navy's television exposure over the next five years. CSTV, the first 24-hour college sports network, will televise every Navy home and select neutral site football games (excluding Notre Dame and Army which will be televised nationally by CBS), as well as other Navy men's and women's athletic events, original programming and documentaries centered around the storied Navy athletic program starting next fall. The long-term multi-media agreement includes internet streaming, broadband and video-on-demand rights and high definition rights starting in 2006. A major part of the agreement was that all home football games would be played on Saturday for the convenience of the Navy Alumni.

Gladchuk also added radio giant WBAL (1090) in Baltimore to Navy's radio network. WBAL Radio, which is also the voice of the Baltimore Orioles, is Maryland's dominant and most powerful radio station. Since 1925, generations of Marylanders have turned to WBAL Radio for news, weather, thought-provoking discussions and sports. As Maryland's

Since being introduced as the Academy's 28th Director of Athletics on Sept. 4, 2001, Gladchuk has hit the ground running. From the hiring of Paul Johnson as head football coach to the renovation of Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium, Gladchuk has made improvements in several key areas that will prove more success on the athletic fields for years to come.

In Gladchuk's first-four years at the Naval Academy, he has seen Navy teams win 59 percent of their contests. The baseball, lacrosse (twice), women's soccer, men's swimming & diving (twice), men's indoor track & field (twice), women's outdoor track & field, golf, women's soccer (three times), rifle (four times), sprint football (three times), women's crew and water polo (twice) teams all have won conference titles over the past four years, while the baseball, golf, lacrosse (twice), rifle (four times), women's soccer, men's swimming & diving and water polo teams have advanced to the NCAA Tournament during his tenure at the Academy. In addition, the football team has gone to two bowl games.

Gladchuk has also worked tirelessly to bring back school spirit, working in conjunction with school officials to encourage midshipmen to attend events for all sports.

Gladchuk immediately embraced the local community and alumni base, and is an often-requested speaker. His regular 'Ask the AD' column on navysports.com is one of the most popular features on Navy's internet site.

Gladchuk's biggest impact on the Academy in his first year was the hiring of Paul Johnson as a head football coach. Johnson came to the Naval Academy from Georgia Southern where he posted a 62-10 (.861) record, won two-straight I-AA National Championships (1999 and 2000) and was named the Division I-AA National Coach of the Year four-consecutive times (1997-2000).

After hiring Johnson, Gladchuk set his sights on Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium where he completely refurbished the football stadium over a four-year time frame. The addition of 6,500 permanent seats on the sidelines and in the end zones, luxury boxes, dropping the field eight feet and moving the sidelines closer, two video scoreboards, a memorial plaza, upgraded restroom and concession areas, a perimeter walking path, new lighting, a new sound system, landscaping the grounds and storm water management highlight the list of renovations. Gladchuk has worked closely with the city, county, state and neighborhood associations to ensure proper communication and sensitivity to issues that benefit both the NAAA and community at large.

Gladchuk and the NAAA were awarded the Green Star award by Annapolis Mayor Ellen Moyer for commitment to the environment during the ongoing renovation of Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium.

Other highlights of Gladchuk's tenure at the Naval Academy include the renegotiation of the Army-Navy contract through 2009 which will bring over $25 million to the two schools over the six games, scheduling Maryland and Notre Dame at M&T Bank Stadium in Baltimore to promote Navy football in the community and negotiating the extension of the Navy-Notre Dame football game television contract with CBS through 2008.

Gladchuk is also Chairman of the Executive Committee in the Patriot League and is on the NCAA Olympic Sport Liaison Committee.

Gladchuk came to the Naval Academy from the University of Houston, where he had been the Director of Athletics since July 18, 1997. Recognized as one of the nation's top leaders in intercollegiate athletics management, he guided the Cougars to 19 Conference USA Championships, while making significant strides in the academic success of their student-athletes, gender equity and fiscal management.

Gladchuk came to Houston after serving more than seven years as the Director of Intercollegiate Athletics, Intramurals and Recreation at his alma mater, Boston College. Under Gladchuk, Boston College emerged as one of the NCAA's elite programs of the 1990s. The school's graduation rate for all student-athletes was over 90 percent and the Eagles won the College Football Association's Academic Achievement Award for the highest graduation rates among all Division I schools in three of his last five years at Boston College.

Prior to rejoining Boston College, Gladchuk served as AD at Tulane University from 1987-90. During his tenure, he directed the reinstatement of the Green Wave basketball program to Division I status. In addition, he oversaw the construction of new facilities for the athletics administration as well as baseball, track and field and tennis teams after a $25 million athletics campaign was successfully completed.

From 1985-87, he served as Associate AD at Syracuse University, heading operations, NCAA compliance, financial aid and facility operations. Gladchuk lettered in football at Boston College and graduated with honors in business management in 1973. He earned a master's in sports administration from the University of Massachusetts-Amherst in 1974, where he began his career in intercollegiate athletics, including serving for seven years as Director of General Physical Education, Assistant and Associate Athletic Director for the university. He also has served as Director of Athletics and head football coach for the New Hampton (Prep) School in New Hampshire prior to leaving for UMass.

He and his wife, Kathy, have four children: John, a graduate of Loyola Marymount; Katie, a graduate of Boston College; Christie, a graduate of Trinity and Julie, who is a junior at North Carolina and a member of the women's lacrosse team.

THE NAVAL ACADEMY ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Naval Academy Athletic Association (NAAA), founded in 1891 by Robert Means Thompson, is a non-profit organization whose objective is to "promote, support and assist in financing the athletic contests of the Midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy" in accordance with the policy of the Superintendent of the Academy.

Through an intercollegiate athletic program, which is one of the largest in the country, and a highly-organized intramural and club sports program run by the Naval Academy, each midshipman is afforded the opportunity to compete in athletics at a level commensurate with his or her abilities. The emphasis on physical fitness is borne out in the first line of the mission of the Naval Academy: To develop midshipmen morally, mentally and physically.

The NAAA's presence on the grounds of the Naval Academy was established by Public Law 75-50 of March 26, 1938. Under the terms of that law, the Superintendent of the Academy was authorized to accept gifts and bequests of money from the Navy Athletic Association (as the NAAA was then named) and the Naval Institute to use that money to construct a building for use as a United States Naval Academy Museum on land owned by the United States. Thus, Preble Hall was erected at the Naval Academy. That same public law authorized the Secretary of the Navy to accept the building and to use and maintain such building as the Naval Academy Museum and for the administrative offices of the Navy Athletic Association and the Naval Institute. NAAA later moved to Ricketts Hall.

NAAA funds are generated through admissions charged for intercollegiate athletic contests, appearances by Navy teams on television, from dues and gifts from members of the association and from interest on invested funds. All revenue received by the NAAA is committed to the support of the Academy's intercollegiate athletic program.

The NAAA arranges the schedules for intercollegiate athletics, including the 30 varsity sports (21 for men, nine for women) and nine plebe/junior varsity teams, provides coaching staffs and equipment and maintains a central office to handle the administrative details of the athletic program.

The NAAA is governed by an Athletic Board of Control composed of seven members, chaired by the Commandant of Midshipmen, and reporting to the Superintendent of the Academy. The other members are the President (Director of Athletics) and Vice President of the NAAA (Deputy Director of Athletics), two members of the faculty and staff at the Naval Academy as appointed by the Superintendent; an Officer Representative for a varsity athletic team, who shall be recommended by the Director of Athletics and appointed by the Commandant of Midshipmen; and the Institutional Athletic Representative to the NCAA who shall be appointed by the Superintendent.

All negotiations, plans, appointments and acts of the NAAA which affect the Naval Academy athletic program are subject to the review and approval of the NAAA Board of Control and the Superintendent of the Naval Academy.

The NAAA is headed by the Director of Athletics and his staff members which include the Deputy Director of Athletics (an active duty Naval Officer), the Associate Directors of Athletics and Assistant Directors of Athletics, who are responsible for the finances of the association, compliance with NCAA rules, promotion and publicity, operations, scheduling, admissions and academic support of the intercollegiate athletic program.

Membership in the NAAA can be obtained by joining our Blue & Gold Club. Currently there are 6,500 alumni, naval officers and friends of Navy athletics. The membership was opened to all interested parties in the early 1980s. In 2004 it changed its name to "The Blue & Gold". The intention and mission of this vehicle for giving remains the same, as has been the case for more than 113 years - supporting the Brigade of Midshipmen in intercollegiate athletics.

The mission is simple: We expect to win in everything we do - on and off the field of competition. The Blue & Gold provides the supplemental resources necessary to assist our coaches and midshipmen to realistically pursue the highest level of success with the context of their physical challenges. We are an institution invested in a mission that educates future leaders in moral, mental and physical excellence. The Blue & Gold enables our midshipmen to pursue the highest goals possible as members of varsity or junior varsity teams.

The Naval Academy Athletic Association operates and maintains the Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium and the Naval Academy Golf Course and coordinates the use of such other athletic facilities as Alumni Hall for basketball; Halsey Field House for track and field and wrestling; Lejeune Hall for swimming, water polo and wrestling; Macdonough Hall for gymnastics and volleyball; Bishop Stadium for baseball; Ingram Field for track and field; the Glenn Warner Soccer Stadium and Rip Miller field, an all-purpose practice facility used by lacrosse and football.

Since 1924, the NAAA has invested in many permanent projects at the Naval Academy. The NAAA's interests relate not only to athletics, but to the overall quality of life enhancing the training and development of the Midshipmen

SAILING TRADITION AT NAVY

The U.S. Navy has long understood knowledge, confidence and respect for the sea instilled through sailing helps to make better naval officers. Therefore, the U.S. Naval Academy's sailing program is second to none. Sailing opportunities at the Academy range from the basic sail training given during the summer to every incoming plebe, to the Command and Seamanship Training Squadron during summer training, to the pinnacle of the sport, the varsity intercollegiate and offshore teams. When you join the Naval Academy sailing team, you are joining a program that has a tradition of helping an individual find out exactly how good he or she can be.

The sailing team is headquartered in the Robert Crown Center, a modern building on the banks of the Severn River. It houses the administrative and coaching offices, team classrooms, locker rooms and equipment repair and storage facilities. The Robert Crown Center also houses the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association Hall of Fame which exhibits many of the North American collegiate trophies, plaques and half-models, as well as the All-America lists, representing the achievements of the 70 years of intercollegiate sailing. In addition, the Naval Academy's sailing trophies and awards are on display in the Hall.

Adjacent to the Crown Center is Santee Basin, the mooring area for the Naval Academy's 250-plus sail training fleet including the 20 Navy 44s, six donated offshore boats, 12 J-24's, 22 420s, 22 FJs and 136 Lasers used by the sailing teams. Practices and racing take place on the Severn River and the Chesapeake Bay.
