

David J. Schmidly

President

Dr. David J. Schmidly was named the 20th President of The University of New Mexico on February 27, 2007. As President, he is responsible for UNM campuses in Gallup, Los Alamos, Taos, and Valencia as well as at the UNM Health Sciences Center, which includes the nationally renowned UNM Cancer Center.

President Schmidly brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to UNM having led Oklahoma State University as its system

CEO and President since November of 2002. In addition to his work at OSU, he was previously the President of Texas Tech University after having served as vice president for research, graduate studies, and technology transfer, and as dean of the graduate school. He also spent 25 years at Texas A&M University, including five years as CEO of the Galveston campus and six years as head of the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Sciences.

President Schmidly is an internationally respected researcher and scientific author and has been inducted into the Texas Hall of Fame for Science, Mathematics, and Technology, which recognizes Texans who have played a major role in significant scientific accomplishments. As a noted scientific naturalist, he has authored nine natural history and conservation books about mammals and more than 100 scientific articles. In addition, Dr. Schmidly received a very prestigious honor when a new species of mouse was named after him – Peromyscus schmidlyi. Quite possibly, he is the only university president with this distinction.

David Schmidly earned a Ph.D. in zoology from the University of Illinois, following a bachelor's and master's degrees from Texas Tech. He is a native of Levelland, Texas. He and his wife, Janet, have two grown children and two grandchildren.

Paul Krebs

Director of Athletics

Paul Krebs is in his second year as the University of New Mexico's 12th director of athletics. He was named to the position on March 13, 2006, and began serving UNM on June 1, 2006. Krebs recently was named Vice-President for Athletics and is part of new president David Schmidly's Executive Cabinet.

If there's one word that sums up Paul Krebs as an athletics administrator, it's vision; vision of better facilities for academics and athletics; vision of challenging for conference championships and national recognition in every sport; vision of ranking in the top-50 in the U.S. Sports Academy Directors Cup on an annual basis; vision of engaging fans and the community; vision of hiring the best coaches and staff; vision of major-donor cultivation and improved fundraising efforts; and vision that is the result of a well thought out plan that makes all of the above realistic.

In a little more than a year, Krebs and architects have worked diligently on a master plan that provides a template for the future look of all facilities on UNM's South Campus. It's an ambitious project with a price tag approaching $100 million, but it is part of Krebs' long-range strategic plan that is really part of his mantra: provide the best possible resources that will give coaches and student-athletes the best chance to succeed academically and athletically.

Facility improvements at soccer, track and field, softball and department offices will be completed soon, as will the $7 million indoor practice facility located south of University Stadium. A multi-million renovation to The Pit that will make the state's most recognizable venue more functional and fan-friendly is expected to begin in 2008.

Krebs certainly appears to have a knack for hiring head coaches. While his legacy currently states he was the man that gave Urban Meyer his first head coaching job (at Bowling Green in 2001), Krebs appears to be on the same successful hiring track at New Mexico.

The highlight came in March when former Indiana All-American and long-time Iowa head coach Steve Alford was named the Lobos' new basketball coach. Krebs also hired head coaches in baseball (Ray Birmingham), softball (Ty Singleton), track and field/cross country (Joe Franklin) and volleyball (Jeff Nelson), and all of them had led their previous institutions into postseason competition on numerous occasions. Head coaching positions were also filled by a pair of UNM graduates in the sports of women's golf (Jill Trujillo) and skiing (Frederik Landstedt).

Krebs is no stranger to New Mexico. Prior to his appointment at UNM, Krebs and his family vacationed in the state numerous times. His wife, Marjori, has family in Hobbs and Cloudcroft, N.M., and in West Texas. Krebs' father-in-law, Joe Maddox, was a cattle rancher at what is now the Valles Caldera National Preserve in the Jemez Mountains north of Albuquerque.

The personable Krebs, 51, has 26 years of experience in collegiate athletics administration, including seven years (2000-07) as director of athletics at Bowling Green State University in Ohio.

Krebs' emphasis on academics is readily apparent. Bowling Green had a 76% graduation rate in the final NCAA report before he came to UNM, the highest in school history and the best in the Mid-American Conference (MAC). Additionally, the BGSU graduation rate for student-athletes exhausting eligibility was at least 92% every year from 2003-05.

Athletically, the 2004-05 season was one of the best ever at Bowling Green. The football team played on national television five times, captured MAC West and Motor City Bowl titles and finished with a final national ranking of No. 23 in both of the major polls. Women's basketball, men's soccer, and women's soccer all advanced to the finals of their respective conference tournaments.

The BGSU women's softball program won the 2004 MAC Tournament and advanced to the NCAA Tournament.

The Falcons football program started an unprecedented string of success in 2001 when Krebs hired Urban Meyer as head coach. After six straight losing seasons from 1995-2000, Meyer, who is now the head man at Florida, went 17-6 in his two years at BGSU.

Bolstered by Meyer's success, the Falcons enjoyed their most successful five-year period in program history, compiling a 43-17 record from 2001-05. In addition to numerous national television appearances, BGSU won consecutive bowl games (2003-04) for only the second time in school history and climbed to No. 16 in the nation during the 2003 season.

The BGSU women's basketball team finished 28-3 in 2005-06, the most wins in MAC history. The Falcons appeared in the national rankings, posted a 19-game winning streak and captured the MAC Tournament championship for the second year in a row.

The women's soccer team also won the 2005 MAC regular-season and tournament titles and advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the second straight season. BGSU softball tied a school record with 37 victories while gymnast Jessica Guyer was named a finalist for the Walter Byers Award.

From a facilities and fundraising standpoint, Krebs acquired a $3.5 million gift at BGSU, the single highest donation ever given to the athletics department. That enabled the school to begin construction on an $8.7 million student-athlete center.

While at BGSU, Krebs was a member of the President's Advisory Council, Student Affairs Executive Council, Homecoming Committee and he served as chair of Student Affairs' Training and Development. He also chaired the University Automated Ticket Committee and served on the University-wide advisory committee for web technology. Krebs began his professional career in collegiate athletics as the Assistant Ticket Director at the University of Oklahoma in 1981. He was promoted to Ticket Director in 1983.

Krebs' 14-year tenure at The Ohio State University started in 1985 when he served as the Ticket Director. He was named Assistant Athletics Director in 1987, Assistant Athletics Director for Administration in 1991 and Senior Associate Athletics Director in 1993.

In his six years as Senior Associate Athletics Director, Krebs managed the daily operation of the OSU athletics department. He was the point person in the planning and design of Ohio State's Jerome Schottenstein Center (basketball/hockey), Jesse Owens Stadium (track/soccer) and Bill Davis Stadium (baseball). He coordinated the renovation of storied Ohio Stadium (football) and was actively involved in fund-raising and securing corporate sponsorship for these facilities. At one point in his tenure, Krebs was overseeing $300 million in new construction on the OSU campus.

A native of Canfield, Ohio, Krebs earned a bachelor's degree in Business from Bowling Green in 1978 and a master's degree in Athletic Administration from Ohio State in 1981.

Nationally, Krebs was a member of the NCAA Baseball Committee that is responsible for college baseball, including the College Baseball World Series. He had to relinquish that appointment after accepting the position at UNM. Krebs is currently a member of the NCAA Division I Football Issues Committee.

Krebs has served as a faculty member for the Division IA Athletic Director's Institute. He has presented at a number of national conferences on a variety of topics, including athletic facility construction. He served on the Games Committee for the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) 2002 Pigskin Classic. In addition, he was tournament manager for the NCAA Division I Men's Golf Championships in 1987 and 1995.

At the Mid-American Conference level, Krebs served three years on the Infractions Committee and was also chair of the MAC Baseball Committee. He served on the MAC TV Committee that negotiated a new TV contract with ESPN.

Krebs' wife, Marjori, is an assistant professor in the UNM College of Education. She received her Ph.D. in Leadership Studies from Bowling Green in December of 2006. They have two children, a daughter, Taylor, 18, who is a freshman at the University of Oklahoma, and a son, Jacob, 14.

Tom Growney
Lobo Club President

What is the Lobo Club?

The Lobo Club is the fund-raising arm of the University of New Mexico Athletics Department.

The Lobo Club consists of Lobo fans who share a genuine passion for providing opportunities to deserving young people to participate in intercollegiate athletics at the University. Lobo Club members express their passion through financial and volunteer support. Each member of the Lobo Club is an important asset to the current and future student-athletes.

Membership in the Lobo Club is also a great way to get involved with our community. As a Lobo Club member, you will not only have the opportunity to support outstanding young student-athletes, but also to meet other members of the community at various special events and athletic contests.

Lobo Club President Tom Growney believes in the importance of the mission to provide opportunities to young men and women.

"The role of the Lobo Club in supporting student-athlete scholarships is becoming increasingly important. These young men and women are our future, and our support is critical in their development."

Reasons for Joining the Lobo Club...

As a member of the Lobo Club, you will play a direct role in the continuing success of UNM Athletics. At the same time, you will assist outstanding student-athletes in obtaining a college education at one of America's leading universities.

Members take personal pride in the high level of athletic success achieved at the University. In 2004-05, the Lobos were one of only 11 schools to have its football team play in a bowl game and also have both its men's and women's basketball teams qualify for the NCAA Tournament while in 2005-06 UNM saw two teams, men's soccer and skiing, finished as national runner-ups in their respective sports. Last season, men's soccer, women's basketball and men's and women's golf all advanced to the NCAA Championships.

The success of Lobo student-athletes is not limited to the playing field. The progressive achievements reached in the classroom, including nine consecutive semesters above a 3.02 GPA and 15 straight at 2.90 or better, are achievements where Lobo Club members can see their support hard at work.

In addition to personal gratification and valuable networking opportunities, members receive valuable benefits at the various giving levels. Among those rewards are parking priority, season and special event ticket priority and of course an educational tax deduction since the Lobo Club is a tax-exempt organization covered under Section 501 (c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Service Code.

Lobo Legacy honors a special group of supporters of the University of New Mexico Athletics Department. Their generosity provides long-term stability for scholarship and programmatic needs of UNM student-athletes through planned gifts and endowments.

Planned gifts are contributions that are intended to occur at some future date. They may be created through wills and bequests, charitable trusts or other life income arrangements, gift annuities or life insurance policies.

Endowments are invested in perpetuity, providing annual spendable income that becomes permanent resources within the institution.

The list to the right recognizes supporters who are providing scholarship and programmatic support for UNM student-athletes through current endowed gifts.

A limited number of phones are available in the press box.

VISITING RADIO

The visiting radio booth is equipped with two (2) 1FB lines (505-842-0152 and 505-842-0552), two (2) ISDN lines (505-222-3129-1111 and 505-222-3130-1111) and two (2) dry pairs to the visiting locker room. The Qwest Circuit ID No. for the ISDN lines is 59IBSA002027. For more information contact Bill Harris at KKOB Radio at (505) 767-6735.

POSTGAME POLICY

Media will be escorted to the field with four minutes remaining in the fourth quarter. The visiting dressing room is located in the UNM Athletics Complex immediately south of the stadium. The New Mexico dressing room is located in the south end zone and is open to the media after a cooling-off period.

MEALS

A media meal will be served approximately 90 minutes before kickoff in the press box. Soft drinks and snacks will be available throughout the game.

COLLEGEPRESSBOX.COM

CollegePressBox.com is the official media website for Mountain West Conference football. Access and download weekly game notes, statistics, media guides and more for the conference and each of its nine member schools throughout the season. Login information will be distributed by the MWC office to accredited media or you can apply for a password by sending an e-mail to password@collegepressbox.com.

PROFESSIONAL SCOUT TICKETS

Complimentary tickets are not available for media or professional scouts. Those wishing to purchase tickets are urged to contact the media relations office, which will handle the order. Pro scouts must request credentials on letterhead (505/925-5525 fax) or by email (gregrem@unm.edu). The cost is $27 and the seat will be in the press box, provided space is available. Credit cards are accepted.

PHOTOGRAPHERS

The University of New Mexico adheres to NCAA and Mountain West Conference rules regarding media representatives on the sidelines. Photographers are not permitted to shoot between the 25-yard lines. Armbands are required for field access and are available in the press box two hours before kickoff. Freelance photographers not on assignment will not be issued credentials under any circumstances. Visiting student newspapers and yearbooks will be limited to one pass. All photographers must remain cognizant of the dotted line around the field at all times. Only when the clock is not moving is a photographer allowed to cross the dotted line. Sideline supervisors will patrol both sidelines to make certain all rules are adhered to. Penalty for abusing the stated privileges will be removal from the stadium.

INTERVIEWS WITH ROCKY LONG

Coach Long is usually available for telephone interviews between 11 a.m. and noon Mountain Time Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Interviews with Coach Long should be coordinated through his secretary, Celia Valencia, at (505) 925-5700. Coach Long will be available at noon each Tuesday throughout the season at a media luncheon in the Tow Diehm Facility. After games, Long will be available in the All Sport Weight Room of the Tow Diehm Facility following the cooling-off period.

INTERVIEWS WITH STUDENT-ATHLETES

All player interviews must be coordinated through the media relations office. Out of town media should contact the media relations office to make arrangements for telephone interviews. During game week, all player interviews must be conducted by the end of practice on Wednesday.

PRACTICE

All members of the media are welcome to attend practice. All coaches and players are available for interviews before or after practice provided proper notice is given. TV crews and newspaper photographers are permitted to shoot practice after receiving clearance from the media relations office.

MEDIA COVERAGE

The University of New Mexico football team gets extensive media coverage on a daily basis with three large newspapers (Albuquerque Journal, Albuquerque Tribune, Santa Fe New Mexican), a school paper (Daily Lobo), numerous radio outlets, including flagship station 770 KKOB-AM, and four network television stations covering the beat.

LOBOS ON THE RADIO/INTERNET

Every New Mexico Lobos football game is broadcast on 50,000-watt 770 KKOB-AM, one of the largest stations in America in terms of geographical penetration. Fans outside of KOB's listening audience can also receive the games over the internet at www.GoLobos.com.

Veteran sportscaster Mike Roberts, who also handles announcing chores for Lobo men's basketball, begins his 41st season of broadcasting Lobo football and 57th year in the business overall. Roberts started his broadcasting career on December 6, 1951, at WATM in Atmore, Alabama. Before arriving at KKOB in Albuquerque in September of 1966, Roberts had stops in Longview, Texas; Key West, Florida; Laramie, Wyoming; Scottsbluff, Nebraska; Kemmerer, Wyoming; Farmington, New Mexico; and Seattle, Washington.

WEEKLY MEDIA LUNCHEON

Every Tuesday throughout the season, head coach Rocky Long and selected student-athletes are available on the third floor of the Tow Diehm Athletic Facility. Luncheons begin at noon and are open to the media.

LIVE STATS ON THE WEB

Fans can get real-time stats of all home Lobo football games at golobos.com, the school's official athletics website.
