Maintaining the status as one of the nation's top collegiate golf programs is never easy. But, with hard work, fundamentals, and the best practice facilities in the nation, the University of New Mexico Men's Golf Program in Albuquerque has achieved that level of success. And, now your son or daughter can benefit from this expertise by attending the Lobo Junior Golf Camp at the University of New Mexico Championship Golf Course.

Directed by Glen Millican (head men's golf coach) and Jim Anderson (assistant men's golf coach), two of the country's youngest and most successful Division I coaches, the 4-day Lobo Junior Golf Camp will provide your athlete with the instruction and counseling required to excel at the game of golf.

HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDE:

Comprehensive Instruction

Instruction will focus on improving fundamentals in the areas of the swing, chipping, pitching, putting, course management skills, and video analysis. Campers will be grouped by ages and skill levels. Each group will be guided by a skilled instructor and counseled throughout the camp.

In addition to the coaching staff from UNM, instruction will be provided by some of the current players on the Lobo men's golf team as well as area PGA professionals. Guest appearances from touring professionals will be provided for clinics as their schedules permit.

Fun, Challenging Activities

Stations will be set up for each aspect of the game with prizes available at each stop along the way.
