Glen Millican

Third Season
New Mexico '98

Glen Millican is entering his third season as the head coach of the UNM men's golf team. There are only a handful of coaches like Millican who have led their team to the NCAA Championships in their first two years.

Millican has been at the helm of the program since June 25, 2001, and is only the seventh head coach in its history. And when he was chosen, it was clear that he should be the one to guide Lobo golfers. Why?

First of all, Millican was a three-year letterwinner for UNM from 1994-1998. He also had seven top-ten finishes in 27 career tournaments for the Lobos and placed 11th at the 1997 WAC Championships. He also was a 1997 Academic All-American, posting a 3.34 GPA in working towards his degrees in general management and human resources. Millican also earned his MBA in 2000 from UNM's Anderson School of Management.

In 1998, Millican was an assistant coach under head coach J.T. Higgins, and he helped guide the team to success in the classroom and on the links. In each of his six semesters as assistant coach, the team posted a GPA higher than 3.0. That success continued last year, as two Lobos were Academic All-Americans, while three Lobos were Academic All-Mountain West Conference selections.

In Millican's first two seasons at the helm he has won six tournament titles, including the Mountain West Conference Championship in 2002-03. Millican was also named Mountain West Conference Coach of the Year in 2003 and guided Michael Letzig to the Mountain West Conference Player of the Year. He led the Lobos to two consecutive NCAA Championship tournaments. Individually under Millican, UNM has won medalist honors at seven tournaments, including five in 2002-03.

In his first year as head coach, Millican guided the Lobos back to the Big Dance for the 11th time in 13 years.

Head Coach

And Millican's squad won three tournaments to tie a school record, set in the 2000-01 season.

The 28-year-old Millican became just the seventh mentor for Lobo golf since World War II, and he was welcomed with open arms into the small fraternity with which he has much in common. Millican joins the ever-growing family tree of former players who have returned to coach their alma mater. Dwaine Knight, a player in 1968-69, coached the Lobos to prominence from 1977-86. John Fields, a player from 1978-81, succeeded Knight from 1987-97. Then it was Millican's turn, as he earned the first head coaching job of his career at UNM.

While an assistant coach at UNM, Millican was involved in several aspects of fundraising and recruiting, as well as using his experience on the links to evaluate and teach the game. During his tenure, the Lobos were consistently listed in the top-20, achieving a ranking as high as eighth in 2001, and qualified for the 2000 NCAA Championships. A total of four players earned Academic All-America accolades and two were named All-America for their performance on the course.

Additionally, the Lobos featured the conference Freshman of the Year in both 1999 (Wil Collins) and 2000 (Michael Letzig), as well as the 2001 Hogan Award winner (Collins). All 10 seniors who came to term while Millican was on board graduated, and the team GPA was above 3.00 in each of his six semesters on staff, with a high of 3.30 in the Spring of 2000. The Lobos had some dominating performances on the course as well. The team shattered the school scoring mark at the John Burns Inter-collegiate in February, with an 832 (-32), 10 strokes better than the previous UNM record.

During his three years as an assistant, Lobo golf made tremendous strides in improving the state of the program. The Top-100 Club, UNM's golf booster arm, raised over $250,000 and the Patty Howard Golf Complex was constructed, giving both the men's and women's teams new administrative offices.

Millican's best showing as a Lobo golfer was a seventh-place tie at the 1994 Red River Classic as a freshman. His career stroke average was 75.06 in 80 rounds of play. He had a low 18-hole round of 67 and a low 54-hole round of 214 (-2) at the 1996 Red River Classic. He also won the 1997 Albuquerque City Championship. Millican is a 1993 graduate of North Garland HS in Garland, Texas.

Millican is married to the former Megan Precek. The couple have a daughter, Ryley Nicole, who was born January 28, 2002.

UNIVERSITY OF NEW MEXICO
ALL-TIME HEAD GOLF COACHES

While golf has been rumored to have been a part of the athletics curriculum at UNM since the university was founded in 1889, past head coaches for the program have only been documented since 1945. One name not on the list below is Roy Johnson, the athletics director and head men's basketball coach at UNM during the 1920's and 1930's.

Johnson's tenure as the head coach of the New Mexico golf team is not specifically documented, but like any athletics program at UNM during the Johnson era, it seems a safe bet to assume his role in the development of the Lobo golf program was vital. Below is the list of past and present New Mexico head golf coaches since 1945:

- George Petrol 1945-46
- Johnny Dear 1947-53
- Dick McGuire 1954-76
- Dwaine Knight 1977-86
- John Fields 1987-97
- J.T. Higgins 1997-2000
- Glen Millican 2001-current
