

The 2006 Season

The 2006 season should be another great one for the Lobo men's soccer program. With 12 players returning, and one of the top recruiting classes in the nation, the Lobos are sure to be among the most exciting teams in the country. Last year's run to the College Cup Finals, coupled with a tremendous 2006 schedule, will keep the Lobos at the forefront of collegiate soccer. New Mexico kicks off 2006 with an exhibition match vs. Fort Lewis College, the 2005 Division II National Champs.

The regular season opens with matches at Portland, Michigan and Michigan State. The Lobos open the home season on Sept. 8 against UCLA. The home schedule includes matches against the Bruins, Cal-State Northridge, SMU, Tulsa, American, College of Charleston and the MPSF schedule. UNM led the nation in attendance last season and had one of the best home field advantages in the country. Don't miss out on the action in 2006.

Join Our Team and Become an Active Member

Join friends, supporters, and alumni as a member of the Golden Goal Club. The Golden Goal Club support's Lobo Men's Soccer and help's make the program one of the finest in the country. Along with providing the best soccer in the region, the team and coaches actively participate in the community; running free soccer clinics for local youth, area schools and hospitals. Although UNM provides basic funding, your donation will augment spring and preseason travel expenses, assist in purchasing video equipment, and help with other operating costs not covered by current program funds. Your contribution allows the program to grow in national prominence while providing the best possible athletic and academic environment for our players.

A Winning Tradition

Head Coach Jeremy Fishbein brings 13 years of experience leading college teams to victory. Fishbein boasts a career record of 156-76-18 while at Fort Lewis College, the University of the Incarnate Word, and the University of New Mexico. Fishbein, the 2004 Soccer America National Coach of the Year, and assistant coach Carl Junot, have worked hard to bring in "nationally prominent" recruits over the last four years. The UNM roster is diverse with top players from all corners of the world. The coaching staff has drawn heavily on the country's top youth programs and the best local talent.

In 2005, New Mexico advanced to the finals of the College Cup, four Lobos were drafted by MLS teams and four earned academic All-American Recognition.
