"To pursue a career in athletics is an area of my life I see my passions and values truly coincide. As a former student-athlete, who's life was changed through athletics, I would like to someday be able ensure all student-athletes have the best possible experience while competing. College athletics encompasses passion, determination and persistence, all of which are factors that can change life's; inspire communities and become agents of change."

"Being apart of Athletic Diversity Council graduate assistant program is both an honor and a privilege. I truly believe that working in an exemplary athletics department, such as the University of Oklahoma, is a once in a lifetime opportunity to learn and experience how to be successful. While the range of responsibilities and issues facing intercollegiate athletic departments today is continually evolving, having the capacity to transition through a few essential areas of OU's department allows me to not only prepare to be a future leader in athletics, but also provide me with an avenue to experience personal growth."
