OKLAHOMA STATE COWBOY BASKETBALL

Travis Ford Head Coach Kentucky '94

In just two short seasons at Oklahoma State, head coach Travis Ford has already re-energized the Cowboy Basketball program, both on the court and in the eyes of the OSU faithful. His drive and determination is infectious, as his student-athletes strive to succeed in competition and in the classroom.

In those two short years, the Cowboys have defeated six ranked opponents, including top-ranked Kansas a year ago. That victory was the first by an OSU squad over a No. 1 team since the 1989 season. Ford and the Pokes hit the exacta with the win over the Jayhawks, having defeated 10th-ranked Kansas State just a month earlier on the Wildcats' home court. It was Oklahoma State's first road victory over a top-10 opponent since 1958.

Ford exceeded all expectations in his first season as the head coach of the Oklahoma State Cowboy Basketball program. When Byron Eaton made two free throws and OSU led top-seeded Pittsburgh 72-71, the Cowboys were just four minutes away from their first Sweet 16 appearance since 2005. It was also Oklahoma State's first trip to the NCAA Tournament in four seasons, a feat which the Cowboys duplicated in 2010.

Ford began his head coaching career in 1997 at the age of 27 at Campbellsville University, an NAIA program in Kentucky. After a sub-.500 season in his inaugural year as a head coach, he led the Tigers to a 28-3 record and was named the Mid-South Coach of the Year in 1999. A year later, Campbellsville made its first NAIA National Tournament appearance in nine seasons as the Tigers finished 23-11.

Ford was hired at Eastern Kentucky prior to the 2000-01 season. Despite back-to-back seven-win seasons, he steadily built the Colonels into an Ohio Valley powerhouse, winning 22 games in 2004-05 and taking ECU to its first NCAA Tournament appearance in 26 seasons. After winning the OVC title, the Colonels met seventh-ranked Kentucky in the first round of the 2005 NCAA Tournament in Indianapolis and fell 72-64 to the Wildcats despite cutting the lead to five twice in the final four minutes of the game.

Eastern Kentucky's 22 victories in 2004-05 are the most for a single season in school history. Matt Witt, the all-time leading scorer in ECU history, played his freshman, sophomore and junior seasons for Coach Ford.

Success led to Ford's next position as the head coach at Massachusetts. Following John Calipari's departure, the Minutemen went into a tailspin, going 136-137 over the next nine seasons and winning just 10 games in 2003-04. However, Ford led a resurgence once again, taking UMass from 13-15 in his first season to a 24-9 mark in year two and sharing the Atlantic 10 regular-season championship with a 13-3 league record. UMass picked up its first postseason victory in over a decade when the Minutemen defeated Alabama 89-87 in the first round of the NIT.

In 2007-08, Ford and the Minutemen won 25 games, including an 82-71 win over 14th-ranked Dayton on the road. The win over Dayton propelled the Minutemen into the top 20 of the ratings percentage index. UMass also had a 107-100 victory at Syracuse and an 83-80 win at Boston College. UMass peaked at No. 9 in the RPI during the season before settling in the No. 33 spot at season's end.

The 25-11 record was good enough for a No. 2 seed in the National Invitation Tournament. UMass defeated the Orange for a second time in the Carrier Dome — the first team in history to do so in the same season — rallying back from a 22-point deficit for an impressive 81-77 win in the NIT.

Massachusetts met two-time defending national champion and No. 1 seed Florida in the NIT semifinals in Madison Square Garden in New York City and came away with an impressive 78-66 victory over the Gators. UMass fell in the finals to Ohio State, 92-85.

OKLAHOMA STATE COWBOY BASKETBALL

The Minutemen finished the season ranked eighth nationally in scoring offense, averaging 81.5 points per game. UMass ranked third nationally in blocks per game, averaging 7.3 per contest. They also averaged 9.2 three-pointers made per game, ranking 13th nationally.

Ford coached back-to-back Atlantic 10 Players of the Year as Stephane Lasme won the award in 2006-07 and Gary Forbes received the accolade in 2007-08.

He began his career in the collegiate ranks as a freshman at Missouri in 1989. He was named to the UPI Big Eight all-freshman team after averaging 6.4 points and 3.5 assists per game. He transferred to Kentucky prior to his sophomore season and led the Wildcats to the NCAA Tournament his remaining three years.

Ford was named first-team All-SEC in 1993 and second-team all-league in 1994. He was also a two-time Most Valuable Player at the SEC Tournament in 1993 and '94. He was named the Southeast Region MVP as he led Kentucky to the Final Four in 1993 as a junior.

Ford owned the Wildcat record for assists in a game with 15 against — ironically, Eastern Kentucky — on Dec. 8, 1993. He also ranks second on the single-season assists list with 193 during his senior season. His 428 assists in a three-year career rank ninth all-time in the UK record books.

An outstanding shooter as well, Ford holds the Wildcat record for three-pointers made in a season with 101 during his junior year. That season, he shot 52.9 percent from beyond the arc, also a school record. His 44.5 career three-point percentage ranks as the best in school history among players with at least 200 attempts.

He ranks second in UK history in both single-season (91.2 percent) and career (88.2) free-throw percentage. At one time, Ford connected on 50 consecutive free throws, a school record.

A leader both on the court and off, Ford received Academic All-SEC honors as a sophomore, junior and senior. During his first year at Kentucky, he was named the team's Student-Athlete of the Year.

The Madisonville, Ky., native was part of the gold medal winning South squad at the 1990 U.S. Olympic Festival and later played for the U.S. team that won a gold medal at the 1993 World University Games.

Ford's prep playing career was also stellar. He led his team to three state tournament appearances during his career at North Hopkins High School and was named All-State. He averaged 31.7 points per game as a senior and was twice named Western Kentucky Player of the Year.

Ford's playing days ended in training camp with the Golden State Warriors, but his time in California landed him the role of Danny O'Grady in the movie, "The Sixth Man".

Born Dec. 29, 1969, Travis and his wife, Heather, have three children: Brooks, Kyleigh and Shane. Heather was a swimmer for the Kentucky Wildcats. Ford earned his bachelor of science degree in communications from the University of Kentucky in 1994.

OKLAHOMA STATE COWBOY BASKETBALL

Butch Pierre Associate Head Coach Mississippi State '84

It's not hard to know where the best high school players have been the last decade. Just look no farther than the travel itinerary of coach Butch Pierre hot on the recruiting trail. He secured one of the top recruiting classes in the country in 2009, ranked as high as No. 4 by HoopScoopOnline.com.

Pierre was instrumental in Oklahoma State's resurgence to the national spotlight by helping return the Cowboys to the NCAA Tournament and advancing to the second round. It was the eighth time in his tenure that a team he's coached for has made the Big Dance.

Prior to OSU, Pierre spent 11 seasons at LSU, including six as the associate head coach. One of the elite assistant coaches and recruiters in college basketball, he has been called "one of the top assistants in the nation". Noted ESPN commentator Dick Vitale listed Pierre as one of his "Top Six" head coaching prospects among college assistant coaches.

Pierre has recruited and played a key role in player development at every stop he's coached. He's coached such talents as Tyrus Thomas, the fourth overall lottery selection in the 2006 NBA Draft. Others include Stromile Swift, the second overall lottery pick in 2000, along with NBA players Ronald Dupree, Brandon Bass of the Dallas Mavericks, Glen Davis of the NBA Champion Boston Celtics, and former NBA player Jabari Smith.

Under Pierre, Swift, Bass and Davis all earned SEC Player of the Year honors and, during his tenure at LSU, four players received SEC Freshman of the Year honors while one was named the SEC Defensive Player of the Year.

Pierre was instrumental in the Tigers' advancement to the Final Four in 2006. LSU defeated Texas A&M, top-ranked Duke and No. 2 seed Texas en route to Indianapolis before falling to UCLA in the national semifinals. All told, Pierre was involved in four NCAA appearances and two NIT tournaments with the Tigers. LSU also won two SEC Championships (2000, '06) and three SEC Western Division Championships (2000, '05, '06).

Pierre is recognized by his peers in the industry as a relentless, innovative and extremely successful recruiter. His work ethic and attention to detail is what people have seen everywhere he has worked. At LSU, it helped him land four McDonald's and nine Parade prep All-Americans, seven junior college All-Americans and two player who earned national junior college Player of the Year honors.

Pierre is also instrumental in practice planning and on-the-court practice drills with the team and spends countless hours in his office not only working on recruiting, but studying videos of practice and games, looking for things that can be improved upon. His superior technical basketball knowledge is used in practices and he also assists with the implementation of the Cowboys' defensive schemes and philosophy.

Pierre has made a mark in coaching everywhere he has set up shop. He has also built and established a reputation throughout the country of turning losing into winning at each institution he has worked at throughout his career. Following a two-year stint at Kentucky State University (1986-88) where the school posted its first winning season in seven years, Pierre returned to the state of Louisiana at Louisiana-Lafayette, joining the Ragin' Cajuns prior to the 1988-89 season. In his eight-year career there, his team won two Sun Belt Tournament titles (1992, '94), won the Sun Belt regular-season championship (1992) and played in two NCAA Tournaments.

More than a dozen of his players went on to play professionally and he was elevated to the top assistants' position in his second season on the Cajun staff.

Pierre left south Louisiana to go to Charlotte for the 1996-97 season where he served for one season, putting together a top-10 recruiting class before heading to LSU. In his lone season with Charlotte, the 49ers won the Conference USA Western Division title and defeated Georgetown in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

Pierre received his bachelor's degree in education in 1984 and his master's of education degree in 1986, both from Mississippi State. It has been Coach Pierre's passion and mission to insure that every student-athlete he has recruited works diligently to complete his degree prior to his departure from the university. While successful in recruiting All-American athletes, he has seen these athletes have extraordinary athletic success and most of them have matriculated at their various institutions.

A native of Darrow, La., Pierre was a prep and SEC standout in his playing days. At St. Amant High School, he was a prep All-American and the school retired his jersey in 1980. Pierre started four seasons as a point guard for Mississippi State.

Butch and his wife, Clemmie, are parents of a daughter, Langley (a freshman at LSU), and twin sons, Joseph III and Josh, juniors at Stillwater High School.

OKLAHOMA STATE COWBOY BASKETBALL

Chris Ferguson Assistant Coach Cumberland College '81

Chris Ferguson enters his fourth season on the Cowboy coaching staff. He came to Oklahoma State prior to the 2007-08 season after spending two seasons at East Carolina. He had been promoted to associate head coach of the Pirates before his departure to Stillwater.

Ferguson was instrumental in Oklahoma State's run last season and return to the NCAA Tournament. He played an integral part of signing one of the top recruiting classes in the country in 2009, ranking as high as No. 4 according to HoopScoopOnline.com.

Ferguson is well respected in the coaching fraternity as an up-and-comer where his strengths lie in his on-the-floor coaching abilities and his recruiting prowess. His energy and enthusiasm on the court is infectious, keeping pace with today's youth.

Ferguson joined the ECU staff in 2005 following an eight-year tenure with the Tennessee Volunteers dating back to the 1997-98 season, which began under coach Jerry Green. He was retained by coach Buzz Peterson when he was hired in 2001. Ferguson was quickly promoted to associate head coach two years later prior to the 2003-04 campaign.

In his eight seasons in Knoxville, Ferguson helped lead the Vols to an impressive run of six consecutive postseason appearances, including four-consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances (1998, 1999, 2000 and 2001). Tennessee advanced to the second round in 1999 before earning a Sweet 16 berth the following season.

In all, Tennessee captured two Southeastern Conference Eastern Division titles and one overall SEC championship during his stay. While with the Vols, Ferguson was also credited with recruiting and coaching 11 different players who made All-SEC, three All-Americans, two SEC Players of the Year, three McDonald's All-Americans, four NBA players and a lottery pick.

Prior to arriving at Tennessee, Ferguson spent six years on Bill Foster's staff at Virginia Tech from 1991 to 1997. While in Blacksburg, he played a key role in helping guide the Hokies to 63 victories in his last three seasons, including a 23-6 mark in 1995-96 which earned Virginia Tech an NCAA Tournament appearance. A year earlier, the Hokies produced a school-record 25 wins and an NIT title.

Ferguson earned his first collegiate position in 1986 at UNC-Asheville, serving a one-year stint on Green's Bulldog staff before moving north to Appalachian State. From 1987 to 1991, he worked under former Eddie Sutton assistant Tom Apke and helped lead the Mountaineers to upper division finishes in the Southern Conference his final three seasons before his appointment at Virginia Tech.

Ferguson began his coaching career in 1982, working four years at Freedom High School in Morganton, N.C., beginning as an assistant under head coach Terry Rogers.

Ferguson was a four-year basketball letterman, earning a pair of letters each at Central Wesleyan (S.C.) College and Cumberland (Ky.) College while helping both squads to NAIA National Tournament appearances.

As a prep standout at Hendersonville (N.C.) High School, Ferguson was selected to the all-state unit and was named Western North Carolina Player of the Year in 1975. He was also an all-conference performer in football and baseball from 1972-75.

Ferguson earned his bachelor's degree in physical education and health from Cumberland in 1981. He and his wife, Mary, have a family of four: Brian, Crystal, Lathon and Anna Brian.

Steve Middleton Assistant Coach Southern Illinois '89

Steve Middleton enters his third season as an assistant coach at Oklahoma State and was the first hire by head coach Travis Fokrd as he followed him from Massachusetts. Middleton is well-respected as a recruiter across the country and has been very successful in the development of big men on the basketball court.

Middleton was a key component in returning the Cowboys to the NCAA Tournament the past two seasons. He was also vital as OSU brought in one of the top recruiting classes in 2009, ranked as high as No. 4 by HoopScoopOnline.com.

Middleton spent three seasons at UMass with Ford. He was instrumental in the development of Rashaun Freeman and Stephane Lasme as they emerged as national stars for the Minutemen as they advanced to the postseason for the first time in seven seasons in 2007.

Lasme was a second-round draft selection of the Golden State Warriors after being named an honorable mention All-American as well as the Atlantic 10 Player of the Year and Defensive Player of the Year. He also tied the all-time NCAA record for triple-doubles in a season with four during the 2006-07 season.

Freeman became the Atlantic 10's first three-time first-team all-league selection since Saint Joseph's Jameer Nelson, a name familiar to followers of Cowboy Basketball. Freeman finished fourth in career scoring (1,744 points) at UMass and third in rebounds (998).

Middleton was instrumental in both players' success as part of the Minutemen's Atlantic 10 regular-season championship in 2006-07. He also recruited and mentored Gary Forbes, the 2007 Atlantic 10 Player of the Year, as well as three-year starting point guard Chris Lowe at UMass during its 2007-08 NIT Finals run.

Middleton joined the UMass staff in 2005 after three seasons as an assistant for Ford at Eastern Kentucky. He was a key ingredient in the Colonels' rise to an Ohio Valley Conference Tournament title and NCAA Tournament berth in 2005 with a school-record 22 victories.

Prior to joining Ford's staff at EKU, Middleton spent nine seasons as the head coach at St. Mary High School in Paducah, Ky. He compiled a 126-122 mark in his nine seasons, including an 81-35 record during his last four years at the helm of the Vikings. He led St. Mary to a 23-6 record in 1999 and the school's first state tournament appearance. For his efforts, he was named the Paducah Sun's Purchase Area Coach of the Year.

While at St. Mary, Middleton also served as the school's director of athletics and was a physical education and health teacher. He was the first and remains the only black male coach of a varsity high school basketball team in Region 1 history. He also led the team to four-consecutive Class A regional titles during his stint at St. Mary.

A Brooklyn, N.Y., native, Middleton graduated from Samuel J. Tilden High School. During his senior season, he led the Blue Devils to a 20-3 mark and a District 3 Championship. He averaged 24 points, 12 rebounds, five assists and three steals per game. As a result, he was selected to the All-Brooklyn squad and received a scholarship offer to attend Southern Illinois.

Middleton was a four-year letterman for the Salukis and was a two-time first-team All-Missouri Valley Conference selection as a junior and senior. He led the team in scoring his final three seasons, including a 25.4 points-per-game average as a senior which ranks as the second-highest in school history. Middleton had eight 30-point games during his career, including a career-high 42 against Bradley which still ranks as the third-most in a game in school history. He was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 1996.

Middleton was drafted by the Long Island Knights of the United States Basketball League (USBL) in 1988. After a brief professional career which also included a stint in the Continental Basketball Association, he returned to Southern Illinois and earned two degrees — a bachelor's degree in history with a concentration in Afro-American history in 1989 and a master's degree in education-recreation in 1992.

While earning his master's degree, Middleton began his coaching career in 1989 as a graduate assistant with the Salukis' women's program. He served as the head coach at Golconda Civilian Conservation Center in 1990. From 1991 until 1992, he worked as a health educator in the Alexander & Pulaski Counties schools and communities in southern Illinois.

As a health educator, Middleton focused on 'Health Issues in Black America', in which he participated in many health conferences as a speaker. During this time, he was also heavily involved with Amateur Athletic Union basketball programs in southern Illinois.

Middleton and his wife, ReGina, have two daughters, LaNesha Maria and Kierra Janece. ReGina was a standout basketball player herself at John A. Logan College in Carterville, Ill., where she is a member of the Volunteers' Hall of Fame. ReGina holds a master's degree as well and has been involved in academic advising for more than a decade.
