The Providence College Softball Coaches will be holding a series of summer clinics throughout the month of June. These clinics are open to softball players from ages 8—18. Instruction will be given in the areas of hitting and pitching, and clinics will progress throughout the month. We welcome both beginning and advanced skill levels, and we look forward to teaching the fundamentals of the sport!

Hitting Clinics will be held on Tuesday nights in June. Proper hitting mechanics will be introduced and demonstrated. Each session will include hands-on instruction and drills to improve specific offensive skills. These sessions are open to players of all ages and levels, and each clinic will last for two hours, from 5—7 pm.

Pitching Clinics will be held on Wednesday nights in June. Beginners (age 8—grade 8) will throw and receive instruction from 5—6 pm. Our advanced session will be held from 6—7 pm. All pitchers should bring their own catcher.

Please complete and return the enclosed registration form to enroll your child in a session. Make sure to include payment, insurance information, and signed waiver form with registration. Registration confirmation will be provided via email, so please be sure to include a current email address. Confirmation will include directions to the Providence College Softball Field and a list of items to bring with you to the clinic.

Please note that applicants will be accepted on a first come, first served basis. Numbers will be kept low to maximize instruction time, so please reserve your spot early!

If you have any questions about summer clinic sessions, please contact Erica Morgenstein at 401-865-2967 or emorgens@providence.edu.
