The 2010 Elite Basketball Camp, open to all high school aged players, is designed for players who desire to develop their game with the goal of playing college basketball. Players will take part in individual and group workouts run by University of Richmond coaching staff, including head coach Chris Mooney. It is the philosophy of the Spider coaches that everyone on the court should have a wide variety of skills and will teach guards, forwards and centers the fundamentals of the game from dribbling to passing to shooting. Competitive games as well as drill work for the camp will be held in the state-of-art 9,000 seat Robins Center, home of the Spiders.

The Elite Camp begins on Saturday, June 5 at 10 a.m. and runs until Sunday, June 6 at 3 p.m. Players will stay in the dorms on the University of Richmond campus, consistently ranked one of the top 20 most beautiful college campuses in the country. All meals will be served in the newly renovated Heilman Dining Center, one of the nicest college dining facilities in the nation.
