Head Coach Leroy Newton

16th Year
Southern Illinois (1967)
Hurst-Bush, Ill.

Entering his 16th season at the helm of the Southern Illinois University men's golf program, Leroy Newton has brought the men's golf program to new heights. Since becoming the program's ninth head coach before the 1997 season, Newton has positioned SIU in the top of the Missouri Valley Conference. From 2004-2010, the Salukis finished in the top four in the MVC Championships. Newton was named MVC Coach of the Year after the 2004 season.

The 2010-11 season was led by one senior and a trio of upperclassmen. Scores progressed throughout the year, only to fall back during the MVC Championships, ending the Salukis seven-year run in the top four at the tournament.

In 2009-10, the Salukis finished second at the MVC Championships for the second time in the last three years.

In 2008, SIU tied its best finish (2nd) and set a team program-low (874) in the MVC Championship Tournament at the Davenport Country Club, and also had five second-place finishes, and a program-best four individual postseason award-winners.

Newton is the second-longest tenured head coach to lead the Salukis, behind Lynn Holder who coached SIU for 30 years from the program's inception in 1947 to 1976. In 14 seasons, Newton has produced nine all-MVC performers, six academic all-conference selections, and the program's first Academic All-American in 2008 (Todd Obergoenner). In 2004, Newton was named the MVC Coach of the Year after the Salukis improved from a seventh place finish in 2003 to finish fourth the following season.

Newton grew up in Hurst-Bush, Ill., and started playing golf at 29 years of age. He quickly became one of the top amateur golfers in the state of Illinois. Over the years, Newton has captured more than 20 Southern Illinois Golfers Association (SIGA) titles and has won numerous senior events in the tri-state area. He won the 1998 title and finished second in 1996 at the SIGA Tournament of Champions. In addition, Newton was inducted into the Southern Illinois Golfers Association Hall of Fame and continues to be one of Illinois' top amateur golfers.

Newton came to SIU on a basketball and baseball scholarship, and graduated in 1967. After graduating from SIU, Newton went on to serve as the principal of Cambria Elementary School in the Carterville District and earned a master's degree in administration from the University of Illinois. While at Cambria, he was the men's golf coach at Carterville High School for five years and sent multiple golfers to the state tournament. He went on to become the principal of Carterville High in 1978.

Newton also worked for 30 years as a high school basketball official in the Illinois High School Association and refereed numerous regional and state tournament games.

He served on the IHSA Board of Directors for 10 years and was the president of the board in 1993 and 1994. Following his retirement in 1994, Newton took over the golf team at John A. Logan College.

At Logan, Newton turned the program around in just two seasons, bringing the Volunteers to national prominence with a number two rating in the NJCAA polls, producing four national qualifiers before moving over to SIU for the 1996-97 season.

Under Newton's leadership in the last 15 seasons the Saluki men's golf program has grown in reputation and stature in the MVC and on a national level.

Season Outlook

The Salukis enter 2011-12 with a wealth of experience on the roster. The team returns eight of nine players and has only one underclassman on the squad.

"We're excited to get the season started," head coach Leroy Newton said. "I think our guys have greatly improved from last year. Every one of these guys has a potential to post low scores. If we can limit our mistakes, we'll be a tough team this year."

Returning juniors Brandon Cauldwell, Jake Erickson and Jeffrey Miller all look make big contributions to the team.

Cauldwell led the Salukis in stroke average last year and led the team in five of its 10 tournaments. His stroke average was in the top 25 season averages in school history and the best in two years.

Erickson is coming off a successful summer. He won three tournaments, including the Lake of Egypt tournament by 10 strokes. Erickson place 18th of 138 golfers at the Illinois State amateur.

Miller is returning to the lineup after missing much of last season to injury. In limited time, he still managed to lead the team at the Grover Page Classic.

"Each one of those guys could lead our team on a particular day," Newton said.

The lone underclassman on the roster, sophomore George Tate, returns with some experience. Tate played in nine events last year, trailing only Cauldwell, Erickson and former Saluki David Griffin on the team. As a freshman, Tate led the Salukis in two tournaments and posted the only sub-par tournament score on the team with a 215 (-1) at the Skyhawk Fall Classic.

The Salukis return four seniors, Joe Goelzhauser, Jared Harp, Jamie Stocks and Richie Williams, adding experience and depth to the Saluki roster. All four look to contribute at SIU after having successful junior college careers.

The team will play in 10 tournaments, five in the fall and five in the spring. The season starts with the Wasioto Winds Fall Kickoff on Sept. 12-13, 2011, and ends with the MVC Championships on April 30 and May 1, 2012 in Hutchinson, Kan. SIU played in all ten tournaments last year, as well, which should help them be more familiar with the course.

SIU finished in the top four at the MVC Championships for seven consecutive years between 2004 and 2010, but last year's eighth-place finish ended that streak.

"Last year we feel like we made some progress, but we just didn't play well at the most important tournament (the MVC Championships)," Newton said. "With the number of good golfers we have returning, this team could put us right back in that top group."
