SEASON HIGHS
SCOUTING THE GOLDEN EAGLES

Southern Miss, under the tutelage of second year coach Doc Sadler, returns six players from a team that went 9-20 last season, and will be facing the second year of a two-year postseason ban after the transgressions of former head coach Donnie Tyndall.

Back for the team is senior forward Norville Carey, who averaged 10.8 points and 5.6 rebounds per game. Also back are Keljin Blevins, Michael O’Donnell, and Kevin Holland, who started 13, 2, and 11 games, respectively a season ago. Blevins averaged 1.8 points and 1.8 rebounds, as O’Donnell averaged 1.8 points and 0.9 rebounds. Holland finished fourth on the team with 48 assists while scoring 40 points.

Among the newcomers to the team include guard Khari Price who averaged just over six points for the University of Dayton in 2013-14, and Michael Ramey, who led NJCAA in three-point percentage, hitting 59.3 percent of his long-range tries.

MEMPHIS AND SOUTHERN MISS TO HONOR DONOR ON SATURDAY

On Saturday, November 14, both the University of Memphis and the University of Southern Mississippi basketball programs will honor Gene D. Carlisle, a prominent businessman and friend of Tiger Athletics, who passed away on May 29, 2015.

The two programs, which have a long tradition of strong competition against each other – and have played 88 times prior to this season - will play their 2015-16 season openers against each other while wearing a black circular patch, emblazoned with GC on it.

Carlisle was a passionate Tiger Basketball and Tiger Athletics supporter and fan. He was a major contributor to the University of Memphis Law School Capital Campaign to move downtown, and was a member of the highest annual giving level within the Tiger Scholarship Fund.

He was also a member of the University of Memphis Presidents Society, Society of the Shield, and the Centennial Circle.

Carlisle owned and operated nearly 100 Wendy’s restaurants throughout the South East, including in Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, and North Carolina. While as President and CEO, he oversaw more than 3,000 employees and managed more than $135 million in sales annually.

By 1982, he founded Carlisle Corporation, which became the parent holding company for its subsidiaries Carlisle Properties, Carlisle Hotels, Inc., Carlisle Media, Wenstar and Wendelta, Inc.

The owner and creator of Carlisle Properties, he managed and developed apartments and office buildings throughout the South East for more than 30 years. In the late seventies, he was selected as the developer for the Beale Street Historic District in Memphis, one of the city’s most prominent projects of the time.

A graduate of the University of Southern Miss, he was on the Board of Directors for the Memphis Convention and Visitors Bureau, and also on the Board of Directors for the Memphis Film and Tape Commerce. In 2006 he was enshrined in the Wendy’s Hall of Fame, and in 2005 became a member of the Memphis Society of Entrepreneurs. In 2004 he was given both the Wendy’s Founder’s Award and the nationally recognized Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year.

He is survived by his wife, Karen, who is a graduate of the University of Memphis; daughter, Courtney Bolton (John) of Los Angeles; sons, Chance Carlisle (Jessica) and Chase Carlisle (Elizabeth), both of Memphis; his four grandchildren, Carlisle and Savannah Rye Bolton, Charlotte Carlisle, Miles Carlisle and his future granddaughter, fully Carlisle.

BABY TIGERS

Memphis brought in eight freshman for the 2015-16 season; however, it is not just a high number, but a quality group, that was ranked as the No. 12 recruiting class by 247sports.com, and is the only American Athletic Conference team ranked inside of the top 30 overall (UConn at No. 31).

FINISHING STRONG

A season ago, then-junior Shaq Goodwin closed the season on a tear, averaging 12.5 points and 9.3 rebounds over the final 12 games of the season. During that span, he recorded seven double-digit scoring performances and a pair of double-doubles. During that span he raised his scoring average from 7.8 to 9.6, and his rebounding average from 5.7 to 7.1. Included in that stretch was a 23-rebound performance - an American Athletic Conference single-game record - against Temple on February 7.
TIGER ALL-AMERICANS

When Dedric Lawson signed with Memphis, he helped the program become one of a small handful of NCAA Division I basketball programs with multiple McDonald All-Americans on the squad - the other is senior Shaq Goodwin.

There are just 11 total with two or more players who played in the McDonald’s All-American Game, led by Duke and North Carolina who each had six. Below are the 11 schools with multiple McDonald All-America Game participants.

| Duke | 111-12  | 0-0 | 0-0 |

GOODWIN ON MAILMAN LIST

In the middle of October, Memphis senior Shaq Goodwin was announced as one of 20 candidates for the Karl Malone Power Forward of the Year, given by the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. The annual honor in its second year recognizes the top power forwards in Division I men’s college basketball. A national committee comprised of top college basketball personnel determined the watch list of 20 candidates.

LOCAL FLARE

Of the 2015-16 roster, six are from the city of Memphis, and eight others are from inside the state of Tennessee. As a point to the stronghold of the Tigers within the Volunteer State, Memphis picked up the No. 2 (Dedric Lawson, No. 3 (K.J. Lawson), No. 4 (Nick Marshall), and No. 11 (Jeremiah Martin) prospects from within the state border.

WHAT A LIFE SAVER

Where a lot of opportunities for saving a life may come at the local pool, the Memphis basketball team had a unique and nearly tragic incident happen this summer. In the early morning hours, the apartment of T拉son Burrell and Markel Crawford caught fire. Burrell woke up to the flames, and then rushed to wake up Crawford and Crawford’s brother who was visiting, getting the pair out of the apartment before the place went up in flames.

NOT AS JUNIOR VARSITY

Of the players of the 2015-16 Memphis men’s basketball program, there are four players on the team named after their fathers. SHOPPING AT THE LEFTORIUM

For most, the “Leftorium” reference falls on deaf ears, but four players on the Memphis men’s basketball team would do well to shop at Ned Flanders’ left-handed-centric store from the cartoon “The Simpsons”. One quarter of the play and three freshman (Craig Randall II, John Hillman, and have winning records against seven of the ten teams.

Wallingford opened his basketball career with a season at Kansas State University as a freshman, before transferring to McLennan C.C. for a season in 2013, and then for two seasons at Memphis where he had a 9-11 overall record with 105 strikeouts, while leading the team in ERA as a junior (2.44).
