

THE UNIVERSITY

SAINT JOSEPH'S UNIVERSITY

Spirit • Intellect • Purpose

Founded in 1851, Saint Joseph's is an independent, Catholic, Jesuit university teaching disciplined reasoning, effective communication, and a love of learning. From Willings Alley in Old City Philadelphia to Stiles Street in North Philadelphia to its current location on City Avenue, Saint Joseph's has continued to grow and change with the times. The University combines the Jesuit tradition of academic excellence, a history of service, and an ideal campus location to produce successful students who seek to make a good world even better. An academically rigorous and supportive community, Saint Joseph's challenges its students to exceed their highest professional and personal ambitions, fosters the mature development of values, and deepens a desire to help shape the world. These characteristics are reflective of the University's core values of Spirit • Intellect • Purpose.

Full-time, undergraduate day enrollment is approximately 4,150. Graduate, evening and executive programs push total enrollment to more than 7,000.

SPIRIT

Men and women leave Saint Joseph's prepared. The University boasts an excellent record of its graduates earning initial employment, enrollment in professional schools, and other advanced-degree programs. Part-time work and internships provide real-world experiences, the kind which delight future employers. And with its many diverse student organizations, SJU offers ample opportunities to assume leadership positions.

An extensive on-campus recruitment program provides graduates with a head start in their employment search. Regular meetings with faculty advisors - along with advisory programs in the health professions and in pre-law - assist students who wish to further their schooling.

SJU's City Avenue location combines the best of dynamic Philadelphia with the suburban, residential setting of the elegant Main Line. Saint Joseph's 65 acres span two counties, allowing students to literally enjoy the best of both worlds. The city of Philadelphia, with its tremendous wealth of historical, cultural, social, and athletic attractions, is easily accessible, while the safety, serenity, and greenery of a suburban campus are right at hand.

The friendly atmosphere and close-knit campus ensure that students don't get lost literally or figuratively at Saint Joseph's.

SAINT JOSEPH'S UNIVERSITY

INTELLECT

Saint Joseph's nationally recognized academic reputation is confirmed by ongoing acknowledgment in Barron's, U.S. News & World Report, and Peterson's. The Jesuit tradition of intellectual inquiry and personal concern manifests itself in small, challenging classes taught by a caring faculty. Graduate assistants do not teach, so undergraduates receive the very best educational experience. One-on-one interaction among students and faculty is a reality at Saint Joseph's.

A solid liberal arts curriculum provides across-the-board learning for every student. Supporting that curriculum are comprehensive academic majors and learning facilities. The result is a broad education that prepares students not only for employment and graduate school, but also for life itself.

In the fall of 1998, SJU opened the $25 million Owen A. Mandeville Hall, which houses the Erivan K. Haub School of Business, the Center for Food Marketing, and Wolfington Teletorium, the region's only "Teletorium" and "Moot Boardrooms." An 87,000-square-foot international academic center featuring state-of-the-art distance learning technology, it is located near the corner of 54th Street and City Avenue.

PURPOSE

The students of Saint Joseph's University are dedicated to bettering today's world. A natural spirit of volunteerism has enabled the University's community service programs to become the most popular extracurricular activities on campus. In addition, a service learning program allows students to receive academic credit for their work outside the classroom.

SJU offers local, national, and international opportunities for student service. From parts of Philadelphia to New Jersey; from Tijuana, Mexico, to the Appalachian Mountains; and from Ecuador to Tanzania, Saint Joseph's students embrace the Jesuit mission of serving those in need. The Thanksgiving Dinner Dance for area senior citizens and the Hand-in-Hand Festival for the handicapped are two annual student-run events which draw thousands of special visitors to campus for fun and friendship.

Saint Joseph's received its highest ranking ever by U.S. News and World Report.

The magazine's 2008 "America's Best Colleges" issue ranks Saint Joseph's in a tie for eighth in the category Best Universities-Master's (Northeast).

This component of their education ensures that students can enter the business world as analytical and critical thinkers, well practiced in oral and written self-expression. Every course is influenced by the Haub School's location in state-of-the-art Mandeville Hall, a building that set a national standard for classroom technology. Students and faculty plug laptops into network ports in any seat, and classes are taught from computer-driven podiums networked directly to student computers.

Experiential learning is as fundamental to the Haub School of Business as in the College of Arts and Sciences. This includes service projects such as developing a financial plan for a Philadelphia area not-for-profit and internships selected in conjunction with faculty and Career Development Center advisors. Students may also participate in the Cooperative Education Program associated with every major in the school.

A Demanding Education for Demanding Times

Students come to Saint Joseph's University seeking a values-based learning experience. They join a community that regards questions of ethics, morality and faith as centrally important to human existence, and they are encouraged to examine, reinforce, and question their most deeply held beliefs.

At the same time, Saint Joseph's students are moved and guided to develop to the fullest every facet of their intellectual potential, bringing into harmony theory and practice, tradition and innovation. Cultivating a compelling determination to maximize one's innate abilities has taken on greater urgency in today's enormously complex and competitive world. Thus, the University sets ever-higher educational standards for its students.

The caliber of Saint Joseph's academic programs, students and faculty attests to its growing national reputation.

Campus Life at Saint Joseph's University

The culture of Saint Joseph's invites students to give fully to themselves and be actively involved in all aspects of campus life. Most take advantage of the opportunities available to them to grow intellectually, socially, physically, morally, ethically, and spiritually. This infectious spirit of positive engagement creates a highly dynamic and interactive community, built upon Jesuit, Catholic values.

Personal integrity and concern for others distinguish campus life. Students support one another, respect differences, discover common bonds and build lifelong friendships during their years at the University. Their attachment to the extended Saint Joseph's community remains strong throughout their lives and serves as a guiding example for how to live in a wider world as caring family members and engaged citizens.

Center City

SJU's Philadelphia location gives students access to two worlds. The campus resembles a park, surrounded by the stately homes of Philadelphia's historic Main Line suburbs. Center City's cultural, commercial, and recreational activities are only a short ride away.

SJU students take frequent advantage of the artistic and cultural resources Philadelphia offers – the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Franklin Institute Science Museum, and the new Kimmel Center, to name a few. In addition to rooting for their beloved Hawks, SJU students can be found cheering on the eight professional sports teams in the city, particularly the Eagles, Flyers, Phillies and 76ers.

An Expansive Metropolitan Experience

Saint Joseph's University is closely allied with the entire Philadelphia region. Due to its unique City Line location, students enjoy both a tranquil campus and ready access to the city's diverse population, vibrant cultural life, major-league entertainment and sports, rich history and abundant professional opportunities. Philadelphia – the nation's fifth largest city and hub of the Northeast corridor – serves as a kind of alternate campus for Saint Joseph's students.

Students take advantage of the city in many ways. Thanks to an extensive and supportive alumni network, they obtain internships with leading companies and other regional employers, take part in cooperative learning programs and find rewarding positions in the corporate, government, and service sectors.

ADMINISTRATION

Timothy R. Lannon, S.J. PRESIDENT

Timothy R. Lannon, S.J., is in his fifth year as president of Saint Joseph's University.

Fr. Lannon began his term as Saint Joseph's 26th president in July 2003. Since then he has led many significant University initiatives, most notably the agreement to purchase the 38-acre campus of the neighboring Episcopal Academy. The acquisition – to be known as the Maguire Campus – will provide unparalleled flexibility to enhance academic programs and facilities.

Under Fr. Lannon's stewardship, the University vastly upgraded student housing and parking options with the opening of the Borgia and Rashford Residence Halls in August 2004. Phase II of that initiative is currently underway and will result in additional parking and retail development along 54th Street beginning in November 2007.

Fr. Lannon has also played a major role in boosting Saint Joseph's academic profile, an effort which includes recently endowed faculty chairs and student scholarships as well as the opening of the Pedro Arrupe Center for Business Ethics. A major curricular-review initiative and the hiring of more than 50 new full-time faculty over a five-year period will serve to further strengthen the University's academic position. SJU has already surpassed its best-ever U.S. News ranking (tie-8th, Northeast) in the 2008 "America's Best Colleges" edition.

He has worked tirelessly to re-engage the University in its mission and to foster expanded outreach efforts to alumni, governmental leaders, and other external constituencies. In the latter role, he serves as chair of the City Avenue Special Services District (CASSD). As a central tenet of his leadership, Fr. Lannon has articulated a vision for Saint Joseph's to be recognized as the preeminent Catholic comprehensive university in the Northeast.

Previously, he served as the vice president for university advancement and before that, as the associate executive vice president at Marquette University. He owns a doctorate in Administration, Planning and Social Policy from the graduate school of education at Harvard University.

He serves on the boards of Marquette University, St. Joseph's Preparatory School in Philadelphia, the Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, and the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Pennsylvania.

Fr. Lannon has studied and written on Catholic identity at Jesuit universities. A native of Mason City, Iowa, he attended Creighton University as an undergraduate. He later returned to Omaha as president of Creighton Preparatory School. He entered the Society of Jesus in 1977 and was ordained a priest in 1986. Fr. Lannon also obtained two master's degrees from the Weston Jesuit School of Theology and has a professional diploma from Fordham University.

cern for the common good, but Jesuit colleges and universities really act on this."

Dr. Anderson holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Iowa and a master's degree from Loyola University of Chicago. He earned his doctorate in education from the University of Massachusetts while working at Holy Cross.

EDUCATIONAL SUPPORT SERVICES

In line with the centuries-old Jesuit tradition of academic excellence, Saint Joseph's University remains dedicated to its student-athletes, both past and present.

Janet Greder, in her fourth year as the University's director of educational support services for student-athletes, directs a multi-faceted program of academic support that affords student-athletes the opportunity to succeed both in the classroom and on the field. In addition to overseeing the program for all of SJU's student-athletes, she works directly with the men's basketball program.

Greder came to SJU after three years as an academic coordinator at the University of Iowa. From 1997 to 2001, she was the assistant academic coordinator at Creighton University. A native of North Platte, Neb., she received her bachelor's degree in education from the University of Nebraska-Kearney in 1986 and a master of science degree in counseling from Nebraska-Omaha in 1997.

Chris Bagley is in his fifth year as assistant director of academic services for student-athletes. A 2001 graduate of Penn State University, Bagley was a four-year standout on the swim team for the Nittany Lions. The Philadelphia native earned a master's degree in higher education administration in 2002 and currently resides in the Overbrook section of the city.

Greder and Bagley monitor academic progress of the student-athletes in compliance with SJU and NCAA rules and regulations. The office is a liaison between the athletic department and the faculty, while serving as a secondary academic advisor to the student-athletes, helping with registration, among other issues.

The office also assists student-athletes in career development and runs time management and study skills workshops throughout the academic year.

All freshman student-athletes, along with select upperclassmen, are required to attend study hall four nights a week. The office, located in the Science Center 113, has eight individual study rooms, each equipped with a computer.

Coordinated through the Office of Educational Support Services for Student-Athletes, Saint Joseph's student-athletes utilize numerous support programs available through the University. Those programs include the Learning Resource Center, Career Services, the Counseling Center and the Writing Center. The services available to student-athletes; career choice assistance, academic skills workshops, individual tutoring and personal development, allow for success in the present while preparing for the future.

The office is aware of the challenges today's student-athletes face both on and off the playing field. To prepare them, the Office of Educational Support Services for Student-Athletes organizes and facilitates a Life Skills Program. This is designed to provide student-athletes with educational experiences that will assist them in bridging the gap from high school to college and from college to professional life. The program is designed to reach each student-athlete based on his or her individual needs. The Life Skills Program focuses on the individual as a whole – academically, athletically, and emotionally – and on the changing needs and skills of that individual in the years during and after college. Among the wide range of topics covered are time management, stress management, resume writing and interviewing, alcohol and drug awareness, and financial planning.

Greder and Bagley also oversee the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC), which acts as liaison between the University community and the student-athlete body. Members are selected by respective coaches or team members at the beginning of each academic year. SAAC works to encourage and promote student-athletes to be student leaders that represent individual varsity teams and the entire athletic department as a vocal, integral part of the greater Saint Joseph's community.

SAAC plans two major events each academic year, a "Welcome Back" picnic for student-athletes at the beginning of the fall semester and a semi-formal dinner and dance in the spring.

SPORTS MEDICINE

Lori Rafferty
Director of
Sports Medicine

The Saint Joseph's Sports Medicine Department serves the student-athlete population through the prevention, recognition, evaluation, treatment and rehabilitation of athletic injuries.

Dr. Lori Rafferty oversees the Saint Joseph's Sports Medicine program with the help of assistant athletic trainers Bill Lukasiewicz, Melanie Monroe, Danielle Warner and Beth Howard. Taking advantage of SJU's state-of-the-art sports medicine facilities, Rafferty also serves as the liaison between the University and its medical doctors.

Rafferty is in her 14th year as SJU's director of sports medicine after serving for two years as an assistant on the staff. The Bridgewater, N.J., native completed her Ph.D. in kinesiology from Temple University with a concentration in sports medicine in 2000. She owns a bachelor's of science degree in physical education from East Stroudsburg University (1986) and a master's degree in physical education from Trenton State College (1988). She resides in Havertown, Pa., with her husband Keith.

Lukasiewicz, who is in his ninth year at Saint Joseph's, and second as head athletic trainer, works with the Hawks' men's basketball program. (bio on page 34)

Monroe is in her first year as Saint Joseph's assistant athletic trainer. She is a 1998 graduate of Pennsylvania State University and a 2001 graduate of the University of North Carolina where she earned a master's degree in exercise science. She most recently served as the head athletic trainer at Westfield State College in Massachusetts after a stint at the University of Massachusetts. Monroe also worked for five years at Franklin and Marshall after completing a two-year graduate assistantship at UNC.

Howard is in her fourth year at SJU after earning her bachelor's degree from George Washington University in 2003. She came to Saint Joseph's after completing a sports medicine internship with the Washington Mystics of the WNBA.

Warner returns to Hawk Hill after serving two semesters as an athletic training intern 2004-05. She completed her undergraduate degree in 2006 from Northeastern University in Boston and is currently working towards a master's degree from SJU. Warner worked at Northeastern University last year as a graduate assistant, working primarily with the women's volleyball team, and is a native of Long Valley, N.J.

The Sports Medicine Department works closely with team physicians to provide the student-athletes with the best medical care possible. Among those physicians are team orthopedist Michael Ciccotti (www.rothmaninstitute.com), Edward Gorrie, M.D. in SJU student health, along with nurse practitioner Laura Moore and Eugene Hong, M.D., the family medicine-sports specialist.

STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

SUMMIT SPORTS TRAINING CENTER

The Saint Joseph's men's basketball team utilizes the trainers and the services of the Summit Sports Training Center. Summit has three locations in Bryn Mawr, Pa.; West Chester, Pa.; and Cherry Hill, N.J.

The Summit Sports Training Center implements the most technologically-advanced program for speed and overall sports performance. The center combines FrappierAcceleration, martial arts, mental skills training, eye/hand/body coordination, and nutrition counseling to provide a safe, well-balanced training program.

Summit maintains an excellent athlete-to-trainer ratio, providing each individual with the personalized attention necessary to achieve his or her personal goals.

Its multidisciplinary team of professionals has over 100 years of combined experience training over 2,000 professional athletes. Through its specialized programs, the athletes gain – and learn to maintain – a competitive edge in their chosen sport.

Summit Sports Training Center was named the "Best of Philly" by Philadelphia Magazine in 2006.

Jesse Wright serves as the Hawks' strength and conditioning coach, and is assisted by Jeff Morgan. Since 2002, Wright has worked at Summit in a number of capacities, including serving as the strength and conditioning coach for the Philadelphia 76ers. In addition, he oversees the sports performance training for the centers, in developing, updating and implementing all of their cutting edge programs with all of their facilities. Prior to this role, Wright was Summit's director and was responsible for the day-to-day operations and training programs for their three centers.

With Summit being the premier sports training center in the greater Philadelphia area, Wright has worked with many high-level clients in addition to the 76ers and the Philadelphia Flyers. Included in that group are former Saint Joseph's stars and current NBA players Jameer Nelson and Delonte West.

Wright earned his degree from Temple University and over the years has worked at Temple, Hofstra University, and also with the Philadelphia Eagles and NFL Europe.

THE CENTER FOR SPORTS PSYCHOLOGY

At Saint Joseph's, there is an understanding that reaching one's athletic potential requires mental as well as physical skills. With that in mind, the athletic department provides sports psychology services for student-athletes, teams, and coaches, utilizing one of the nation's top sports psychologists, Dr. Joel Fish.

Student-athletes have access to Dr. Fish to develop mental skills for peak performance. Strategies are taught to help improve student-athlete confidence, composure, concentration, mental preparation, positive attitude, and clutch performance. Strategies are also designed to help teams develop effective communication and teamwork.

Coaches have Dr. Fish as a sports psychology resource to help with team building, motivation, mental toughness, and helping them work with different personality types. Team captains and leaders are taught effective leadership skills such as positive peer pressure and conflict resolution.

Student-athletes can meet individually with Dr. Fish to discuss off-the-field issues, such as stress management and personal relationships that are impacting upon athletic performance. Confidentiality is maintained in these individual meetings. Referrals, if indicated, are made to the University Counseling Center.

Saint Joseph's University recognizes that there is a connection between a sound mind and a sound body. Sports psychology is an example of the Athletic Department providing its student-athletes, teams, and coaches with a valuable resource for success on and off the playing field.

SJU TRADITION & SPIRIT

Why Hawk Hill?

In the early 1920's, former University president Albert G. Brown, S.J., decided to move the college campus from its location just north of the city at 17th and Stiles to its current site on Philadelphia's city line. He selected the location in part because its hilltop perch overlooking downtown Philadelphia provided a dramatic setting for the construction of the college's main building, Barbelin Hall. In fact, for many years Barbelin's signature carillon tower ranked as the highest point from sea level in the city of Philadelphia. Later, according to oral tradition, students and faculty frequently saw real hawks circling the skies above Barbelin, before swooping down on their prey. The familiar scene eventually led to the coining of the moniker "Hawk Hill."

Crimson and Gray

The college colors of crimson and gray date back to the 1890's when it is related that a young seminarian leading a pep rally saw the colors on a book he was holding. Thinking they looked attractive together, he announced that these would be the school colors.

"The Hawk Will Never Die!"

The Hawk is one of the most famous mascots in the country, best known for staying in constant motion by flapping its "wings" from tip-off to the final buzzer of every game, as well as for "flying" in figure eights around the court during timeouts. The constant flapping, coupled with the scrappy play of the University's athletic teams, helped to spawn the school's familiar slogan "The Hawk Will Never Die!"

Fight Songs

"Oh When the Hawks Go Flying In!"

(Sung to the tune of "When the Saints Go Marching In")

Oh, when the Hawks, go flying in,
Oh, when the Hawks go flying in,
I want to be in that number,
When the Hawks go flying in.

(Repeat above)

Let's Go St. Joe!

Let's Go St. Joe!

Let's Go St. Joe!

"Mine Eyes"

(Sung to the tune of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic")

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Hawk,
He is flying through the doorway 'cause he never, ever walks,
He is flying through the rafters like a loyal, loyal Hawk,
The Hawk will never die.

Glory, glory what a helluva way to fly,
Glory, glory what a helluva way to fly,
Glory, glory what a helluva way to fly,
The Hawk will never die!

We have been to Cincinnati and we've been to Buffalo,
We have been to Carolina flying high and flying low,

And when we get to Maryland let everybody know,
The Hawk will never die.

Glory, glory what a helluva way to fly,
Glory, glory what a helluva way to fly,
Glory, glory what a helluva way to fly,
The Hawk will never die!

The Saint Joseph's University Pep Band, under the direction of Tim Laushey (photo at right), is made up of students from every class. They are often joined by other musicians who are alumni, friends and fans of the Hawks. When not leading the SJU band, his Tim Laushey Orchestra entertains many and backs numerous singers on the East Coast. Laushey was honored by SJU basketball with the "Sixth Man" Award following the 1996-97 season.

COACHES VS. CANCER

Phil Martelli serves as the co-chair for the Philadelphia chapter of Coaches vs. Cancer, which strives to increase awareness and resources to fight the disease. The Philadelphia group, comprised of the city's six Division I coaches, is one of the highest fund-raising groups in the nation.

The Philadelphia coaches hold a number of events during the year, including the Jim Maloney Golf Classic (September), the March Madness Tip-Off Breakfast (March) and the "Basket Ball", a black-tie gala (April). The group has set a goal of one million dollars to be raised this year.

"The goal is that we will never again have to do events like these because cancer will be beaten. It keeps me going because everyone has, in some way, been affected by this dreadful disease. My desire is that my small contribution can help lessen or eliminate the sorrow and great pain people have gone through," said Martelli.

Coaches vs. Cancer is the charity of choice of the National Basketball Coaches Association (NABC). Every season, to raise awareness, the NABC calls upon its coaches to wear sneakers during a designated game.

The Philadelphia coaches hosted 160 golfers and the guest of honor, five-year old golf prodigy Kyle Lograsso, at the 12th Annual Coaches vs. Cancer Jim Maloney Golf Classic at Huntingdon Valley Country Club.
