BILL MONTIGEL
HEAD COACH

IDAHO STATE (1976)
24th Season

One of the most-decorated coaches in the history of TCU Athletics, Bill Montigel is entering his 25th season as head men's golf coach and 34th year overall as a member of the Horned Frog family. Since becoming the face of Frog golf, Montigel has provided the blueprint for building one of the nation's top collegiate golf programs.

Montigel's tenure has been marked by consistent success, highlighted by the program's current 23-year streak of NCAA Regional participation. The Frogs are one of only four NCAA Division I teams to earn a regional bid each of the last 23 years under the same head coach along with Clemson, Florida and UNLV. Only 15 programs have amassed the same streak with numerous head coaches.

TCU golf's current postseason run is unparalleled in the history of Horned Frog Athletics. The streak is by far the longest all-time for any Frog squad and six years more than their counterparts from the TCU women's golf team, which currently owns the No. 2 spot in school history with 17 straight regional bids.

TCU has not limited its goals simply to reaching the postseason under Montigel's watch. The program has collected eight conference championships in the past 15 years, in addition to appearing in the NCAA Championships 13 times since 1991. The 1997 squad, led by former All-American and current PGA TOUR professional J.J. Henry, tied for seventh place for the Frogs' best-ever national finish under Montigel. The success was nearly duplicated in 2009, when the Frogs placed ninth.

Several individuals have flourished under Montigel's watchful eye, most notably current sophomore standout Julien Brun, who posted the top season ever for a TCU golfer as a freshman in 2011-12. Brun shattered nearly every individual Frog season record in his first campaign, including stroke average (70.51), average score versus par (-1.03), individual victories (three), top-5 finishes (eight), top-10 results (nine), finish percentage (91.3 percent) and rounds at or below par (27; tied Adam Rubinson, 2002-03).

Brun's freshman season saw him collect three victories – more than any previous Frog had earned in an entire career – while becoming only the third first-team All-American in program history. He capped his remarkable campaign by claiming reserve medalist honors at the NCAA Championship with a second-place finish. He is the third Frog to place second at the national championship under Montigel's watch, joining Henry (1998) and Adam Rubinson (2003). Tom Hoge claimed third-place honors in 2009, while Charlie Stevens tied for 10th in 1992. Overall, Montigel has now coached 12 different players to 17 All-America honors on the links.

Prior to Brun's TCU arrival, Henry was the undisputed top Horned Frog golfer in the history of the program. He cemented his TCU legacy in 1998 by becoming the school's first three-time All-America and capping his illustrious career by being named Golfweek/Taylor Made Co-College Player of the Year.

In addition to the national success, TCU's exploits have extended to the conference level, with five players having earned league golfer of the year honors. During one stretch in the early 2000's, Frogs were named Conference USA Golfer of the Year three straight seasons (J.J. Killeen, Adam Meyer and Rubinson). Brun was named Mountain West Freshman of the Year in 2012, joining Colby Beckstrom (2003 C-USA) and Killeen (2002 C-USA) as Frogs to be named a top league freshman.

TCU has made a habit of sending golfers on to professional careers with Montigel at the helm. Henry has made the biggest splash, having been a fixture on the PGA Tour for the last decade. The 2006 season saw Henry finish No. 29 on the Tour's money list, take home the Buick Championship and compete for the United States during both the Ryder Cup and World Cup. Another former pupil, J.J. Killeen earned his Tour card for the first time in 2011 after winning two Nationwide Tour events and finishing the season atop the Tour's money list.

Hoge became TCU's newest addition to the professional ranks in 2011, earning an exemption to his first PGA Tour event, the RBC Canadian Open, with a win at the Players Cup in Winnipeg, Manitoba. He made history by becoming the first golfer since the Canadian Tour's inception in 1981 to win a tournament after advancing through the event's qualifying stage. The victory earned Hoge a two-year exemption on the Canadian Tour and currently competes on the Nationwide Tour.

Other former Montigel pupils who have gone on to experience success on both the Nationwide Tour and Gateway Tour include Rubinson, Colby Beckstrom, Franklin Corpening, Bret Guetz, Drew Laning, Adam Meyer, James Sackcheck, David Shultz, Sal Spallone and Drew Stoltz.

Montigel's rise in the collegiate golf ranks has been well-chronicled from a coach who started out with limited exposure to his particular collegiate sport to becoming one of the nation's most successful coaches. While his approach has proven solid, it was his arrival upon the collegiate golf scene that perhaps raised a smattering of eyebrows.

MONTIGEL'S CAREER HONORS

- ▶ 7-time conference Coach of the Year
[SWC (1990); WAC (1997); C-USA (2002, 2003, 2004, 2005); MWC (2009)]
- ▶ 1st NCAA Division I coach in any sport named Coach of the Year in 4 conferences
- ▶ 13 NCAA Championship appearances
- ▶ 23 straight NCAA Regional appearances (1 of only 4 coaches in nation)
- ▶ 8 conference titles [WAC (1997, 1998, 2001); C-USA (2002, 2003, 2004, 2005); MWC (2009)]

Prior to the 1987 campaign, Montigel served eight seasons as an assistant basketball coach and top recruiter at TCU under legendary coach Jim Killingsworth. Several of Montigel's recruiting gems were key performers on the Frogs' back-to-back Southwest Conference championship squads in 1986 and 1987.

One of Montigel's prized recruits was an undersized guard from Hollywood, Calif., named Jamie Dixon, who went on to help lead the Frogs to their back-to-back SWC titles before becoming one of the top minds in all of college basketball as the current head coach at Pittsburgh.

When Killingsworth retired at the end of 1987 season, Montigel's career took a dramatically-altered path. The TCU administration had to look no further than the men's basketball office to find its next men's golf coach. As a graduate student at Oklahoma State, it was his friendship with legendary Cowboys' golf coach and current OSU Athletics Director Mike Holder that truly kindled his interest in golf. Knowing that he could recruit, organize and motivate, Montigel added some of the valuable lessons he learned in basketball and applied them towards building and maintaining a top-ranked golf program.

It took Montigel just three seasons to turn a mediocre program into a contender at the conference, regional and national levels. In his first 14 campaigns, TCU captured nine tournaments, an impressive feat considering the lofty competition. The Frogs have taken another step forward in the new millennium, capturing 19 team titles in the last 11 seasons. The squad has added 20 individual tournament titles since 2000, compared to only 16 in the previous 20 years combined.

Montigel's ability to develop talent and his teams' ability to perform have certainly not gone unnoticed. His peers have voted him conference coach of the year seven times in his career, including four straight years from 2002 through 2005, TCU's four seasons as a member of Conference USA. The honors have placed Montigel in elite company. He is the only coach in any sport to be named coach of the year in four separate NCAA Division I conferences (Southwest Conference, WAC, Conference USA and MWC).

In 2002, Montigel was voted into the Horned Frog Classic Hall of Fame and was named TCU Coach of the Year by the Dallas All-Sports Association.

In addition to his coaching duties, Montigel remains active on the national level. He serves as a member of the United States Golf Association (USGA) and Golf Coaches Association of America (GCAA) with past stints as Chairman of the District VI Selection Committee and on the NCAA Men's Golf Committee.

Montigel and his wife, Margaret, have two children, Kelli and Thomas. Kelli graduated from TCU in 2010, while Thomas is currently a junior guard playing for the Frog men's basketball team.
