Last Time on the Links:

The TCU men's golf team returned from Mexico after earning a fifth-place tie at the Ford U.S. Collegiate Golf Championships this past weekend. TCU entered the final round in third place, earning the chance to play with the top two teams in the country, Georgia and Georgia Tech, on the final day. TCU completed play with a 54-hole total of 875, which was just one stroke out of third place. With a score of 835, Georgia dominated the event, winning by 33 strokes over second-place Georgia Tech (868).

The event will be shown on a tape-delayed basis on ESPN2 on Saturday afternoon, April 14 and Sunday afternoon, April 15. Head coach Bill Montigel said the tournament allowed the TCU golfers to gain experience under the pressure of national television cameras. "Our guys performed well," Montigel said. "To be able to play alongside the best in the country while having TV cameras all over the place will help us as we prepare for the conference tournament and the NCAA Championships.

Senior Scott Volpitto led the attack with an eight-place individual finish. Volpitto fired his best 18-hole score (70) on Sunday to finish with a three-round total of 214. It was Volpitto's fourth Top 10 placement of the season.
