TEXAS TECH TO OPEN UP FOUR-GAME HOMESTAND

Texas Tech will open up a four-game homestand on Wednesday afternoon with a 3 p.m. matchup against the Dallas Baptist Patriots. The brief homestand continues over the weekend as the Red Raiders and the Nebraska Cornhuskers open up Big 12 Conference play with a three-game series that is set to get underway at 6:30 p.m. on Friday evening. The homestand may be a short one but it's most certainly welcome to a team that just spent the last 11 days on an eight-game road swing through the state of California. Tech's 11-day trip was the longest ever taken by the baseball program as the Red Raiders spent time in Los Angeles, Riverside and Palm Springs.

THE TEXAS TECH-DALLAS BAPTIST SERIES

Wednesday afternoon's meeting against Dallas Baptist University will mark the first of two regular-season contests between the two schools. The second and final game between the two teams will fall in early May when the Red Raiders visit Patriot Field on May 6 for a 6:30 p.m. contest. Texas Tech and Dallas Baptist will be meeting for the 12th time on Wednesday afternoon with the Red Raiders holding a slim 6-5 lead in the all-time series. The series dates back to May 12, 2004 when the Patriots scratched out a 4-3 win at Dan Law Field. The Red Raiders have won three of the last five games in the series, including the last matchup (9-8) back on May 14.

A LOOK AT DALLAS BAPTIST

The Dallas Baptist Patriots come into Wednesday's game against the Red Raiders having swept a weekend series against Oakland to improve to 8-3 on the season. The Patriots are coming off the best season in school history (as a Division I member) as they earned their first-ever invitation to the NCAA Tournament in 2008. The Patriots earned a spot in the College Station Regional with a 37-19 record under a first-year head coach in Dan Heefner. Heefner returns six starting position players from that NCAA Tournament team and they are leading the way for the Patriots in 2009. Outfielder Ryan Enos paces the squad with an impressive .533 average along with seven home runs and 20 RBIs. Ryan Goins, Chris Haney and Jason Krizan each have 10-plus RBIs.

On the mound, the Patriots have put together a staff ERA of 4.59 and are holding opponents to a .286 batting average. Victor Black, Wednesday's projected starter, is 1-0 on the year with a 2.81 ERA in three starts and 16 innings of work. He leads the team with 21 strikeouts and is holding opposing hitters to a .283 average. Black, a junior from Amarillo, did not see any action against the Red Raiders in 2008.

RED RAIDERS ON THE AIR

Texas Tech's entire schedule in 2009 including both regular-season and post-season action will be carried live on the flagship station of the Texas Tech Sports Network, KKAM-1340. The Texas Tech Sports Network begins its 16th season of full coverage of Red Raider Baseball. Robert Giovannetti will handle the play-by-play duties for the second year in a row and will be assisted by Matt Miller and Blayne Beal. Network pregame coverage begins 30 minutes prior to first pitch and concludes with a postgame show. Live audio streams will be available for all road games through RaiderVision All-Access while live video/audio will be available for all home games.

SHORT HOPS

• Senior RHP AJ Ramos continued his impressive start to the 2009 season with an outstanding effort against Gonzaga on Saturday. Ramos, who underwent Tommy John Surgery in April of last year, logged six shutout innings against the Zags while scattering just three hits, no walks and struckout nine. He now has 13 shutout innings to his credit and a perfect ERA of 0.00 along with just two walks and 18 strikeouts.

• After a dreadful string of 25 errors over 11-straight games, Texas Tech has thrown up zeros in the error column in each of the last two contests. Tech's fielding woes culminated with four errors in back-to-back games against UC-Riverside. Tech's fielding percentage of .955 ranks last in the Big 12 Conference just behind Kansas State who owns a .960 fielding mark.

• Freshman third baseman Justin Berry has posted a quiet 11-game hit streak and that is the longest by any Tech player this season by four games. He has also hit safely in 13 of Tech's 14 games this season.

• Sophomore catcher Jeremy Mayo and junior infielder Logan Leslie both hit their first home runs of the year in the Palm Springs Invitational.

• Senior RHP Miles Morgan leads the Tech pitching staff with 19 strikeouts while senior RHP AJ Ramos is right behind with 18. The two pitchers have allowed only nine combined walks in 29 1/3 innings of work.

• Tech's eight-game road trip to California caused its team batting average to drop 42 points from .335 to .293. In California, the Tech offense managed just a .263 average along with only 28 RBIs. Most noticeably, the Red Raiders struckout 80 times in the eight-game span.

• Three of Tech's eight losses this season have come by one run as the Red Raiders have dropped one-run losses to Cal-State Northridge, UC-Riverside and San Francisco.

• Freshman Garrett Totten saw his first playing time of the season in the first game of the Palm Springs Invitational. Totten had missed the first 10 games of the season due to a broken hand and ended up starting at second base in each of the four games in Palm Springs.

• Tech averaged 2,215 fans per-game during the six-game season-opening homestand at Dan Law Field. A season-high crowd of 3,413 turned out to watch Tech defeat Southern Utah 8-2 on Saturday afternoon.

• Texas Tech was officially the first team in the Big 12 Conference to begin play in 2009. The Red Raiders threw the first pitch against Southern Utah at 1:01 p.m. on Feb. 20 while the Kansas Jayhawks started just four minutes later (1:05 p.m.) against Air Force.

• Senior second baseman Willie Rueda suffered a hamstring injury while running to first base in the second inning against Southern Utah on Saturday, Feb. 21. Rueda will be out indefinitely.

BETTIS MOVES TO THE BULLPEN

Sophomore right-hander Chad Bettis made the move from weekend starter to reliever at the Palm Springs Invitational (March 5-8). Bettis spent his entire freshman season as a weekend starter and pitched in that same role in Tech's season opener against Southern Utah and against Cal-State Northridge. However, after watching the Tech bullpen struggle in the Northridge series, the decision was made to develop Bettis into a late inning reliever. His first appearance out of the bullpen came against San Francisco on March 6 when he entered the game with two runners on, one out, and Tech trailing by one run. Bettis recorded the final two outs to get Tech out of the jam. In his next relief appearance (vs. Gonzaga), he allowed one run in three innings of relief to earn his first career save.

21 DAYS ON THE ROAD ...

Well not exactly, but it was pretty close. The Red Raiders just wrapped up an 11-day road trip that featured eight games in three different ballparks in Southern California. Unfortunately for Tech, the road trip did not turn out as planned as the Red Raiders dropped seven of the eight contests to fall to 6-8 on the year.

• Cal-State Northridge's three-game series sweep of the Red Raiders marked the 18th-consecutive, three-game series loss on the road. Tech's last three-game series win on the road was at Oklahoma State in 2004.

• The Red Raiders road struggles continue in 2009 as Tech is just 1-7 away from Dan Law Field. Tech finished the 2008 season with a 10-19 record outside of Dan Law Field with seven of those wins coming on neutral turf.

LITTLE MAN PROVIDES BIG SPARK

The shortest player on the Texas Tech roster is giving the squad its biggest boost. Junior shortstop Joey Kenworthy

(5-5, 152) has been Tech's biggest offensive weapon over the last five games and that outburst has him sitting atop the team standings (fifth in the Big 12) with a .431 average. The Houston, Texas, product has had three hits in four of Tech's last five games.

- Leads the team with a eight multiple-hit games.
- Has hit safely in 12 of Tech's 14 games this season.
- Posted a .591 average in five games last week as he went 13-of-22 at the plate.
- Driven in 11 runs so far in 13 games after driving home only 30 in 55 games last season.
- Richburg's five home runs streak come to an end in the series finale at Cal-State Northridge due to "ineffectiveness" at the plate according to head coach Dan Spencer. He returned to the starting line up on Tuesday against Riverside and posted three hits to begin his current hot streak.

RICHBURG SHOWING POWER

Senior first baseman Chris Richburg has been giving Tech a huge jolt at the plate with a team-high five home runs. His five home runs are tied for second in the Big 12 with Oklahoma's Jamie Johnson and Oklahoma State's Doug Kroll. The league leader in home runs is Nebraska's Adam Bailey who has hit six dingers in 13 games.

- Richburg's five home runs marks a season-high for the Lubbock native.
- He entered the season with eight career home runs and now has 13.

STARTING PITCHERS

WEDNESDAY

NATE KARNS

Junior RHP
Arlington, TX (Martin)

Pitches: Fastball, Curve, Slider, Change
Velocity: 88-93

- Making his third start of the season and his second in a midweek matchup ... his other midweek game resulted in a loss to New Mexico back on Feb. 24.
- Had his best outing of the year on Thursday in Tech's first game of the Palm Springs Invitational ... fielding woes behind him led to an elevated pitch count and he was replaced with two outs in the fourth inning ... allowed five runs (four earned) on six hits and three walks ... issued three strikeouts over 3 2/3 innings.
- Has significant pro potential as 27 MLB scouts were in attendance in Palm Springs to watch him throw ... clocked at 92 mph.
- Owns an 0-1 record with a 14.29 ERA (down from 22.50 entering his last start) ... 5 2/3 innings, 11 hits, 10 runs, five walks and five strikeouts.

FRIDAY

MILES MORGAN

Senior RHP
Lubbock, TX (Coronado)

Pitches: Fastball, Curve, Change
Velocity: 87-90

- Battled San Francisco's Doug Murray in a pitcher's duel in his last outing on March 6 ... lack of run support cost him his second-straight loss ... went six strong innings allowing two runs on four hits with no walks and struckout seven.
- Struggled in his second outing of the year against Cal-State Northridge on Saturday as he allowed five runs in the first inning and only lasted 4 1/3 innings ... surrendered seven hits and five walks.
- Made his first appearance on the mound in over two years against Southern Utah on Feb. 21 ... it marked his first outing since a Feb. 4, 2007 start against Stephen F. Austin ... was outstanding against the Thunderbirds as he went six strong innings allowing two runs on fours and struckout 11 ... his 11 strikeouts rank tied for third on his career strikeout list.
- Named the 2006 Big 12 Freshman Pitcher of the Year

SATURDAY

AJ RAMOS

Senior RHP
Lubbock, TX (Estacado)

Pitches: Fastball, Slider, Curve, Change
Velocity: 89-92

- Perhaps one of the biggest surprises of the year thus far in the young college baseball season ... has thrown 13 shutout innings in three starts while allowing just two walks and struckout 18 ... those numbers have him on top of the Big 12 Conference in individual pitching alongside Kansas State's A.J. Morris.
- Tossed six shutout innings under a 75-pitch limit on Saturday against Gonzaga ... outdualed the Zags' highly-touted Ryan Carpenter ... scattered three hits with no walks and struckout nine.
- Underwent Tommy John surgery to repair a torn UCL in his right elbow on April 30, 2008 (recovery and rehab time was just under 10 months).
- Tech's most experienced starter on the mound as he has made 35 career starts and logged over 200 innings.

MILES FROM NOWHERE

Texas Tech fans probably did a double take on Saturday Feb. 21 when Miles Morgan took the hill for the start against Southern Utah. Morgan, who was named the Big 12's Freshman Pitcher of the Year in 2006, hadn't made an appearance on the mound in over two years prior to Saturday, much less a start. The great news for Texas Tech was that he looked every bit as good as he did as a freshman when he compiled a 6-7 record and most scouts were projecting him as a high draft pick. The senior right-hander from Lubbock Coronado has battled injuries over the last two seasons and made his first appearance on Saturday since Feb. 4, 2007, against Stephen F. Austin. Against Southern Utah, he logged six strong innings while giving up just two runs on four hits and struckout 11. His 11 strikeouts are tied as the third highest total in his career.

RAMOS RETURNS TO THE MOUND

Senior right-handed pitcher AJ Ramos did something on Sunday (Feb. 22) that very few players with a UCL tear are able to accomplish in less than 12-18 months - make a successful return. The senior from Estacado underwent Tommy John surgery on April 30, 2008 and began immediate rehabilitation. In just less than 10 months, Ramos defied expectations and returned to the starting rotation where he got the nod in the Sunday finale against UT-Pan American. With a predetermined pitch count of 50, Ramos was able to give the Red Raiders three scoreless innings and in the process picked up his first win since March 8, 2008 (Northern Illinois).

NEW SKIPPER IN CHARGE

For the first time in 22 seasons, there will be a new skipper in charge of the Red Raiders. Dan Spencer, who joined the Tech program as the associate head coach in 2007, was named Tech's eighth head coach in school history on June 13, 2008. Spencer, who helped lead the Oregon State Beavers to back-to-back national titles in 2006 and 2007, replaced Larry Hays who spent 22 seasons in charge of Red Raider Baseball and is the school's all-time winningest coach.

FIRST WIN FOR SPENCER

At 1:01 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 20, the Dan Spencer era at Texas Tech officially got underway and by 3:38 p.m. he had officially gone down in the record books with his first career win (14-3 over Southern Utah). He became the fifth consecutive head coach at Texas Tech to win his coaching debut.

WEEKEND ROTATION RETURNS

Texas Tech fans will get a glimpse of something that has not happened for the Red Raider Baseball team in over 30 years. The Red Raiders return their entire weekend rotation from 2008 and that is something that has not happened at Tech since at least 1979. Tech records prior to 1979 are held in the Southwest Collections Center on campus and unavailable for this research. Senior right-hander AJ Ramos, junior right-hander Nate Karns and sophomore right-hander Chad Bettis return to the squad after accounting for 33 of the team's 55 starts in 2008. All three players earned starting nods on opening weekend this season.

GUSTAFSON COMPLETES COACHING STAFF

Ed Gustafson completed Dan Spencer's coaching staff back on July 1, 2008, when he was named as an assistant coach in charge of the pitching staff. Gustafson will also be in charge of Tech's national recruiting efforts meaning he will cover each state with the exception of Texas. Texas is handled by assistant coach Trent Petrie.

• The addition of Gustafson gives Spencer a staff that also includes assistant coach Trent Petrie (defense) and volunteer assistant Andy Jarvis (offense).

• This year's coaching staff is the first Tech baseball staff since 1999 that does not feature at least one native Texan. Spencer, Gustafson and Jarvis all hail from the state of Washington, while Petrie is a Wisconsin native. The last staff to not have a native Texan was in 1999 with head coach Larry Hays (New Mexico) and assistants Frank Anderson (Kansas) and Greg Evans (Mississippi).

BUILDING WITH YOUTH

Dan Spencer's first team at Texas Tech will be a youthful one as 21 players on this year's squad are either freshmen or sophomores. The youthful group was far from an accident as Spencer and his staff made the early decision to build the program starting with freshmen in order to avoid the yearly turnover that has plagued the Red Raiders in the past. On this year's roster are 13 freshmen which is undoubtedly the largest freshman class at Tech in the last 25 years.

FROM SEA TO SHINING SEA

Texas Tech has wasted no time in making its recruiting a national effort as is evidenced by this year's roster. True freshmen Garrett Totten and Kevin Whitehead came to Lubbock from the state of Washington and both players should see significant playing time at shortstop and catcher, respectively. Freshman outfielder Kengray Fleming represents the East Coast as he comes to the Red Raiders from Louisa, Va., and is expected to be the starting center fielder.

LOCAL INFLUENCE

Texas Tech will be well represented by local players in 2009 as the roster features eight players who are from Lubbock. Seniors AJ Ramos (Estacado), Brian Cloud (Cooper), Miles Morgan (Coronado) and Chris Richburg (Frenship) join juniors Taylor Ashby (Monterey) and Logan Leslie (Lubbock Christian High) along with sophomores Jeremy Mayo (Monterey) and Chad Bettis (Monterey).

RED RAIDERS PICKED EIGHTH

Texas Tech was projected to finish eighth in the final Big 12 standings according to a preseason poll of the league coaches. The Red Raiders will be in search of their first Big 12 Championship appearance since 2006.

Projected Order Of Finish

1. Texas A&M
2. Texas
3. Baylor
4. Oklahoma State
5. Missouri
6. Oklahoma
7. Nebraska
8. Texas Tech
9. Kansas State
10. Kansas

BETTIS GETS PRESEASON ATTENTION

Sophomore Chad Bettis garnered some well deserved preseason attention from Baseball America. Bettis was one Tech's top hurlers in 2008 and is poised for an even better sophomore season. Following last season, he spent the summer in the prestigious Cape Cod League where he played for the Falmouth Commodores and compiled a 3-0 record and a team best 2.68 ERA. He was named the No. 21 prospect (Baseball America) in the Cape Cod League at the conclusion of the summer and that helped him earn the No. 24 overall sophomore prospect (Baseball America) for the 2009 season. He was an eighth-round draft pick out of high school by the Houston Astros but decided to honor his commitment to Texas Tech.

HALL/KREDER LEAVE PROGRAM

Shortstop Chris Hall and catcher Monk Kreder left the program late in the fall and transferred in search of playing time for the 2009 season. Hall, who started every game of 2008 at shortstop, enrolled at Abilene Christian University in January, while Kreder joined the Howard Junior College squad this spring. Kreder made 42 starts behind the plate last season for the Red Raiders.

WHY ONLY 32?

For the first time, the NCAA has limited the number of players on a roster to a maximum of 35. This rule change went into effect prior to the 2008-09 academic year and applies to all Division I institutions. When you go down the Texas Tech roster, however, you will count just 32 players. Tech's roster is short three players this spring due to the fact that three players transferred at the end of the fall semester (Chris Hall, Monk Kreder and Duncan McGee). According to the new NCAA rule, players who transfer prior to the spring semester must be counted on the institution's 35-man roster in which they attended during the fall.

SENIORS SHOULD CARRY THE OFFENSIVE LOAD

Seniors Chris Richburg and Willie Rueda will be relied upon to be the offensive catalysts for the Red Raiders this season. Rueda led the team last year with a .361 average and in the process earned Honorable Mention All-Big 12 honors. Along with his team-best 70 hits, Rueda finished the year third on the team with 14 doubles and finished tied for the lead with three triples. His 27 stolen bases led both the team and the Big 12 Conference. Richburg, who missed 15 games due to injury, still managed to finish second on the team with a .345 average along with eight doubles, two triples and two home runs. He also became just the fifth player in school history to hit-for-the-cycle (vs. New Mexico State).

RAMOS PROGRESSING NICELY

Senior right-hander AJ Ramos is right on target to make what most would call a miraculously recovery. Ramos was discovered to have a torn UCL in his right (throwing) elbow after the team returned to Lubbock from a weekend series last season at Kansas. Surgery was performed on April 30 (2008) and he began immediate rehabilitation under baseball athletic trainer Shawn Lindsey. Ramos began throwing to hitters in Tech's first team practice of the spring (Feb. 1) and has progressed so quickly that he will get the starting nod on Sunday against UT-Pan American. Ramos has recovered from this intricate surgery in nine months versus a typical recovery time that lasts anywhere from a year to 18 months.

ROAD WARRIORS

Last season, the Red Raiders were forced to get accustomed to playing on the road after a pair of weekend home series were cancelled. This year, however, its entirely on purpose. Texas Tech will play 31 of its 56 regular-season games on the road and that means just 25 games within the friendly confines of Dan Law Field. Tech's youth will be forced to grow up on the road and hopefully that will develop into a strong team chemistry - something every successful team must have. The Red Raiders will get an extended tour of California at the end of February as the team will spend 11 days in the Golden State. Tech will play a weekend series at Cal State Northridge (2/27-3/1), a single game at Cal Riverside (3/3) and end the trip with four games at the Palm Springs Baseball Invitational. The 2009 season will bring about five Big 12 series on the road including trips to Baylor, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas State.

CLASSROOM SUCCESS

The 2009 Red Raiders got off to a good start in the classroom this past fall as 20 players were named to the Big 12 Honor Roll for the fall semester after earning a 3.0 GPA or higher. Players earning sports on the honor roll were: Mehdi Alavi, Taylor Ashby, Brian Cloud, Scott Erzinger, Colton Farrar, Brandon Foster, Nick Hanslik, Joey Kenworthy, Robbie Kilcrease, Scott LeJeune, Logan Leslie, Mason Macnoll, Kellen Monreal, Miles Morgan, Austin Quick, AJ Ramos, Chris Richburg, Jordan Stern, Brennan Stewart and Kevin Whitehead.

2010 SIGNING CLASS

Texas Tech Head Coach Dan Spencer and his staff of Ed Gustafson and Trent Petrie brought together a signing class for 2010 that includes three junior college and six high school players. The group consists of six players from Texas, one from Oklahoma, one from Washington and one from Canada.

• Five members of the signing class were honored by Collegiate Baseball Magazine as preseason All-State selections: Barrett Barnes (INF), Charlie Martin (INF), James Altobelli (C) and Jamodrick McGruder (INF) and Dalton von Schamann (INF/RHP)

2010 Signees

RED RAIDERS ARE THINKING PINK

The Texas Tech Baseball program has adopted the Susan G. Komen Foundation as its philanthropy in 2008-09 and are looking forward to a long relationship with the organization. The Susan G. Komen Foundation's mission to raise awareness and help put an end to breast cancer, which takes the lives of thousands of women each year. Back in October, the squad served as race volunteers for the Lubbock Race For The Cure Event and this spring the Red Raiders will start a new tradition at Dan Law Field. Texas Tech Baseball and the Lubbock chapter of the Susan G. Komen Foundation will host an awareness day at Dan Law Field on Saturday, May 16. Tech players and coaches will wear special pink hats to help raise awareness for breast cancer research and take part in a variety of other activities.
