

The Relentless Lacrosse Academy kicks off summer 2011 with an elite camp session taking place from Monday, July 18-Thursday, July 21, 2011 at the University of Massachusetts-Amherst. "Relentless" is excited for another summer filled with great enthusiasm as we continue our pursuit to be the most beneficial lacrosse experience in the U.S. for female youth lacrosse players looking to play at the next level.

The mission of the Relentless Lacrosse Academy is simply to give female high school lacrosse players (Grades 9-12) an inside look into college lacrosse and to put those players in front of coaches from some of the best lacrosse schools in the U.S. With a staff including coaches from UMass, UConn, Louisville, Yale, William & Mary, Florida, Hofstra, Cincinnati and others, each and every player will be able to showcase their talents for the chance to someday represent those same schools at the highest collegiate level. There are not many camps where coaches from the ALC, Big East, Atlantic-10, Ivy League, and CAA are there to coach each player in a positive and fun environment.

Academy Director Angela McMahon is passionate about taking her success as a coach and player and broadening her influences to high school-aged female lacrosse players through the Relentless Lacrosse Academy. Under her direction and energy, "Relentless" certainly won't be your traditional lacrosse experience.
