The 2008 Vanderbilt soccer team has a talented nucleus with seven starters back from 2007.

The Commodores took a step back record wise a year ago but there were lessons learned that head coach Ronnie Coveleskie believes will strengthen this team in years to come.

“One of the most important things that I watched from the first day of pre-season to the last day of spring in 2007-08 was an amazing maturing process for our team,” said Coveleskie. “I saw our young players get seasoned, get stronger, get faster, get more competitive, and quite frankly become better soccer players.”

The Commodores had the No. 1 recruiting class in the Southeastern Conference last year and several of those freshmen were able to see action immediately as starters including two, Molly Kinsella and Mary Rachel Reynolds, who were named to the league’s All-Freshman team.

Kinsella led the team in scoring with six goals and three assists while starting in 18 of the 19 games in 2007. She had a leg injury late in the season and looks to be fully recovered from it.

Reynolds continued the tradition at Vanderbilt of having a stellar defensive leader in the back and she started in all 19 games and contributed a goal in the win over Mississippi State.

Senior Katie Schulz, a three-time All-SEC performer, is back for her fourth year as a starter and will lead the midfield while senior Amy Wilcox will look to build upon a 2007 season in which she recorded career highs in goals and assists with four each.

“Katie returned to true form over the spring after battling through an injury last fall,” said head coach Ronnie Coveleskie. “You don’t really recognize the impact of her injury until you see her back in full form and you realize what a tremendous player she is. As a senior she will be counted on to lead the team.”

Wilcox had ankle surgery in March and is expected to be one of the top offensive performers this season.

The lone junior on the team, Megan Forrester, started in 18 of 19 games a year ago and finished fourth on the team with three goals and two assists.

Redshirt sophomore Nicole Lukens returns to action after missing the 2007 campaign due to surgery. Lukens had four goals and an assist as a freshman and is expected to bring a needed dynamic to the offensive attack.

“The return of Nicole is tremendous,” said Coveleskie. “She is our true target forward and is the player that we were missing last year inside of the penalty box. She’s the one that loves sacrificing her body to score goals. Her work rate is irreplaceable. Her tactical ability on the field and her mentality are so strong that we really missed her and her impact this spring was great.”

Sophomores Taylour Claxton and Megan Eddings started in 12 and 15 games, respectively, in the backfield while Rachel Bachtel started in all 19 games in net as a true freshman.

Claxton finished tied for the team lead in assists with four and looks to rebound from off-season shoulder surgery.

Eddings will make a switch in positions in the backfield after having a solid freshman season.

Bachtel recorded four shutouts as a freshman while notching 72 saves with a 1.40 goals against average. She will look to build upon those numbers after gaining a year’s worth of SEC experience.

“Rachel went through the typical maturation process of a freshman goalkeeper,” stated Coveleskie. “I think that we are going to see a stronger, more technical, and more demanding Rachel in the goal this year leading us in a more powerful manner. We have such a great tradition of goalkeepers at Vanderbilt and I think Rachel will step up and continue that tradition for us.”

Sophomore Lindsay Ratterman has battled through various injuries and seems completely healthy after starting in seven of 19 games as a redshirt freshman. She scored two goals with an assist and the coaches expect her to be a factor this season.

Sophomore Hannah Gonzales started in six of 17 games played last season and finished with two goals scored. She made the transition from a forward to outside back in the spring.

“Hannah has a huge commitment to her overall fitness level and her game,” said Coveleskie. “I think that she is going to make a tremendous impact as a left back for us.”
Megan Kinsella, twin sister of Molly, played in 17 games a year ago and had one of the strongest spring training seasons.

“Megan had a fantastic spring and really gained a lot of confidence in her game,” said Coveleskie. “I believe she was our leading goal scorer throughout the spring season and she just made a tremendous impact on the field. Her athleticism is fantastic and even though her stature is a little bit smaller than some, she is just a Bulldog of a fighter out there and she made an amazing impact on our team.”

Senior Taylor Ryer played in six games last season and is a veteran performer who the coaches can count on when called upon.

“Taylor is the most mature and committed player I have ever coached. She is a fantastic leader and I rely on her to help lead the young team,” Coveleskie said.

Sophomores Katie Dean (seven games) and Kristine Chaklos (three games) saw limited action and will look to challenge for more time this season.

Back up Bachtel in goal is sophomore Devan Council who played in two games and did not allow a goal in 31 minutes of action.

Redshirt freshman Catherine Wearn is a player the coaches believe can play a role on this year’s team after sitting out the fall.

The Commodores bring in another talented recruiting class that went from seven to six over the summer with the loss of highly rated recruit Chelsea Stewart. Stewart played for the Canadian U-20 National Team that will play in the FIFA World Championships later this fall. She also received an invite to join the National Team at the Summer Olympics in China. She will defer her collegiate career for a year and will join the Commodores in 2009.

Candace West, a forward/midfielder from Doraville, Ga., will get some playing time early.

Kate Goldin, a powerful defender from Herndon, Va., suffered a knee injury in the spring and is a candidate for a redshirt season.

Lyndsey Wilcox, a freshman from Arlington, Va., is a technical player that should challenge for time this season and be a solid performer over the next four years.

Elizabeth Lillie (Rochester, Mich.) and Bridget Lohmuller (St. Louis, Mo.) both add depth in the backfield with an eye on future contributions.

“I believe that we have some very special players in this class,” said Coveleskie. “I believe it is important that these players come in ready to help us win games. All of them have the ability to make an impact with us.”

Seven home games and five games against teams from Tennessee highlight the schedule.

The Commodores will have matches against seven teams that made the 2007 NCAA tournament starting with an exhibition at Wake Forest on Aug. 19.

Besides the season opener against Belmont, Vanderbilt will have two more non-conference home games against Big East foe South Florida (Aug. 31) and UAB (Sept. 21).

The Commodores will open SEC play with four straight games at the VU Soccer Complex, starting with Alabama on Sept. 26. They will also host 2007 NCAA tournament teams Auburn (Sept. 28), Florida (Oct. 3) and South Carolina (Oct. 5).

“Our schedule is very competitive and very balanced,” said Coveleskie. “It is important to keep in mind that we still have a young team that has matured, but at the same time we need to have a good mix on the schedule in order for them to continue to grow.”

The 2008 team is one the coaches feel like could be the most athletic they have had at Vanderbilt and one that should get the program back to its successful ways.

“I think we’re going to be the most athletic Vanderbilt team that’s been here in a long time,” summed up Coveleskie. “I think one of our challenges in our soccer program is to continue to improve our athleticism of and bring in players that have more of a flare to them. It is very important that we lay a solid foundation, return to our roots of hard work and determination and make sure that we win games. We are going to expect to win games when we step on the field by doing the right things in training.”
Ronnie Coveleskie
Coach Entering Her Eighth Season At Vanderbilt

Head Coach Ronnie Coveleskie is in her eighth season at the helm of the Commodore program. Coveleskie led Vanderbilt to back to back NCAA tournament appearances in 2005 and 2006 and armed with back-to-back stellar recruiting classes looks forward to continuing the program’s upward progression.

Soccer Buzz tabbed Vanderbilt soccer’s 2006-07 recruiting class as the best in the Central Region and the SEC and ninth best in the country, the highest ever achievement for the program. The 2007-08 class was rated No. 5 in the Central Region and SEC and No. 35 nationally.

After losing the majority of starters from the two NCAA clubs, Vanderbilt fell a notch in 2007 to 6-10-3 overall and 3-6-3 in SEC play. The youthful team was competitive throughout the year with six of the losses by just a goal, including three in overtime.

In 2006 Vanderbilt went 10-4-7 overall and tied for second in the SEC with a 6-3-2 mark in league play.

The team also advanced into NCAA play for the second straight year, an achievement that had not been done at the school since the 1997-98 seasons.

In 2005, Vanderbilt sported a 16-3-3 record, which more than doubled the number of wins from the previous two seasons combined. This accomplishment did not go unnoticed by her conference peers, as she was named SEC Co-Coach of the Year. In addition, Soccer Buzz also named her Coach of the Year.

The 2005 season, which ended in a dramatic double-overtime shootout against Samford in the first round of the tournament, marked the team’s second-strongest performance since 1998.

The 2005 team notched the program’s best-ever winning percentage (.795), ended the season ranked among the country’s top 21 in three separate polls, first in the Central region by Soccer Buzz magazine, and was second in the nation for shutout percentage (0.73).

Coveleskie has made great strides in building the Commodore soccer program back up in her seven years here.

In 2005 and tied for second in 2006.

Coveleskie has also taken the ‘Dores to the SEC tournament four times. And, most recently, her team advanced to back-to-back NCAA tournaments in 2005 and 2006 for the first time in her Vanderbilt career.

She also takes great pride in developing the all-around student-athlete. In 2005-06, her team won Vanderbilt’s coveted “Tolbert Cup,” named in honor of Vanderbilt’s former national track champion Ryan Tolbert. The Tolbert Cup is presented annually to the varsity team that sports the best combination of athletic, academic, and community service success.

Coveleskie is a creative coach, and she is widely regarded as an outstanding motivator. Three years ago, the Commodores built an effective team bond by adopting a unique “pirate” theme that gained significant momentum with her players.

As a player, Coveleskie was the goalkeeper on the inaugural Duke Blue Devil team after receiving the program’s first-ever scholarship. She still ranks high in several statistical categories of the Duke record book, including leading the school in goals against average for a season and a career, and is third in career shutouts. In addition to lettering four years, Coveleskie found success in the classroom as well – she earned academic All-ACC honors while serving as team captain and went on to earn an undergraduate degree in sociology from Duke in 1992 and later received a master’s degree in counseling in 1998 from UNC-Charlotte.

Prior to coming to Vanderbilt in 2001, Coveleskie held coaching positions at Duke University, North Carolina State University, North Carolina-Charlotte, and has been actively involved as a coach in the Olympic Development Program, a national identification and development program for the country’s top players. She has served as a state ODP head coach in South Carolina, North Carolina and Tennessee and is currently one of five ODP Age Group Coaches in Region III.

Coveleskie has also dedicated her time coaching at many camps and youth soccer organizations.

“When I got here, I was a very young coach in terms of experience,” Coveleskie said. “Coming here was an enormous step for me emotionally and it challenged me. Every class that I had, whether I recruited them or not, made me a stronger and better coach. I think that my philosophy has changed completely, I think that my ability to relate to players has changed, I think that my vision has changed and I owe it all to the players that were here. I’ve matured a lot these past seven years by diving right in and being over my head early. But seven years later I feel like both myself as a coach and this program are ready to do great things.”
Cristin Czubik has played an important role in the resurgence of the Commodore soccer program since joining the staff three years ago.

Czubik earned accolades for her performance on the field and in the classroom at nearby Belmont University, prior to her arrival at Vanderbilt. Before becoming a full-time Commodore staff member, Czubik served as a volunteer assistant during spring practice and coached Vanderbilt Summer Camps. She also has sideline experience from her stint as assistant coach at Goucher College in Baltimore, Md., and with various club teams.

Czubik turned to coaching after a stellar soccer career at Belmont. In four seasons she played in 76 games and totaled a school-record 75 career points. Her 31 career assists is also a Bruins’ record.

During her junior season in 2000, Czubik was named to the All-Missouri Valley Conference First Team as well as the Academic All-Missouri Valley Conference Team and followed up with All Atlantic Sun-Conference athletic and academic honors, following Belmont’s conference jump. During her senior year, Czubik was also named to the Academic All-District IV Team.

Czubik is very active in the community soccer scene. She has coached girls’ soccer teams in Brentwood, Tennessee.

An Ohio native, Czubik graduated with an English degree from Belmont University.

Eric Vaughter, a nationally respected goalkeeper coach, continues to build upon his long history of success as demonstrated during his career on the field as well as on the sideline. Vaughter enters his ninth season at Vanderbilt.

Vaughter worked with Tyler Griffin (2004-06) who went on to become a two-time All-American and the most decorated soccer player in school history.

As a player at Warren Wilson College in North Carolina, Vaughter became a two-time All-American, and found professional success with the New York Apollo in the American Soccer League following graduation.

Vaughter began his coaching career at Appalachian State in 1979 and coached goalkeepers at Sangamon State (Ill.), High Point, North Carolina State, UNC-Greensboro, UNC-Charlotte, and Duke, who took the national title in 1986 while under his goalkeeping guidance. Vaughter also coached professionals in the United Soccer Leauge, and won back-to-back national championships with the Greensboro Dynamo IFC as an assistant and goalkeeper trainer. In the Spring of 2001, Vaughter served the Commodore family as interim head coach of the VU men’s soccer program.

In addition, Vaughter has served as a Region III Olympic Development Program staff coach and evaluator, and serves as a US National Team staff coach, training goalkeepers. Vaughter has also worked with the Adidas ESP camps and the ASL Collegiate program during his summers away from the Commodores.

Vaughter has had a hand in off the field affairs as well, acting as marketing manager for Reusch USA, specializing in goalkeeper equipment design and “grass roots” marketing. Vice Chancellor David Williams is one of the most influential leaders on the Vanderbilt campus in addition to directing Vanderbilt’s vast athletics program. Since September 2003, Williams has directed the effort to fully integrate Commodore athletics into the Vanderbilt community. With the support of Chancellor Gordon Gee and the Board of Trust, Williams’ efforts have helped pave the way for more student-athlete participation in the mainstream of University life. Along the way, he has placed his stamp on the program, overseeing the retention and hiring of head coaches and adding two varsity sports.

Athletics is but an aspect of Williams’ influential role on the Vanderbilt campus. In addition to overseeing athletics, Williams serves as General Counsel and Secretary of Vanderbilt and its nationally recognized Medical Center, and directs the 14-member General Counsel Office, the Office of Risk Management, the University’s Compliance and Conflict of Interest functions, and the operations of the University’s Board of Trust.

Williams’ professional participation on campus also includes a tenured full professorship at the Vanderbilt School of Law, lecturing on Tax Law, Sports Law and Education Law. He also teaches an annual course on Law and Higher Education at Vanderbilt’s Peabody College, and from time to time, courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Williams has not limited his activities to the Vanderbilt campus. He recently concluded a term on the NCAA Academics/Eligibility/Compliance Cabinet, helping set national policy regarding collegiate athletics.

Williams also supports youth athletic programs in the Nashville community, coaching a youth basketball team for the West Nashville Sports League and serving as a timer for the Nashville Aquatic Club.

Professionally, Williams serves as Chairman for the U.S. Federal Reserve Sixth District Board of Directors, Nashville Branch. He is an active member of the American Corporate Counsel Association, the National Association of College and University Attorneys and the American Bar Association. He is a member of the Continuing Legal Education committee of both the Nashville Bar Association and the NACUA. As a member of ABA’s Section of Business Law, Williams serves as an active member of the Corporate Counsel Committee. He holds terms on two prestigious legal committees – the ABA Standing Committee on Public Education and the ABA Section on Legal Education and Admissions Standards Review Committee.

Williams has taught at the law schools of the University of Detroit, Capital University, the Ohio State University and Vanderbilt, and directed the Ohio State University Law Program in Oxford, England in 1992 and 1995. He was elected outstanding law professor at both the University of Detroit and Ohio State.

The Vanderbilt Soccer/Lacrosse Complex is one of the best collegiate venues in the country. Built in 2002, the stadium is located behind the McGugin Center on the site of the old Vanderbilt Soccer Field. At a cost of almost two million dollars, the facility features improvements for fans, media, and players alike. Fans have 2,400 seats on the main structure of the stadium along the west side of the field. In addition, there are locker rooms, meeting rooms, public restrooms and a concession stand located underneath the grandstands.

Media can cover the game from the state-of-the-art press box area at the top of the stadium. The playing surface consists of a Tifftsport grass on top of sand cap drainage and water cannon irrigation systems. The field’s new lighting system, installed on four 90 foot towers, offers perfect visibility during night games.

The facility had some nice upgrades prior to the 2006 season. Jack Lafield, father of former player Lea Lafield, donated the lead gift that has enabled the first two phases of a three-tier plan to be implemented.

Phase I of the project included covered two-level player benches on the sidelines for both the home and visiting teams as well as a new scorers’ table separating the two.

Phase II of the project, added enhancements to the team room beneath the spectator seats. The $30,000 upgrade was funded by gifts from parents of the 2006 players as well.

Phase III of the project, once funded, will focus upon improving the team’s locker room housed in the McGugin Center.

THREE NAMED TO ALL-SEC TEAM

Junior Katie Schulz and freshmen Molly Kinsella and Mary Rachel Reynolds picked up All-Southeastern Conference honors.

Schulz, a midfielder, was a second-team All-SEC performer as selected by the conference coaches. It is third time she has earned an SEC honor after a first-team showing as a sophomore and an All-Freshman team selection in 2005. She started in 15 of 18 games this season as the stabilizer in the midfield and scored a goal in the Ole Miss contest.

Both Kinsella and Reynolds were named to the All-Freshmen team.

Kinsella, a forward, started in 18 of 19 games and finished as the team’s leading scorer with six goals and three assists on the year. The Memphis native led the team with three game winning goals and finished with four goals in conference play.

Reynolds, a defender, was one of three Commodores to start in all 19 games on the year and the only freshman to do so. She scored her first career goal against Mississippi State on Oct. 28, and played an important part in a young defense that helped record six shutouts on the year.

BAUMANN EARNs COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD

Senior Amy Baumann was named to the Southeastern Conference’s Soccer Community Service Team.

The SEC sponsors Community Service Teams for all 20 league sponsored sports. The Community Service Team looks to highlight an athlete from each school who gives back to their community in superior service efforts.

Baumann mentored at the Magness Potter Community Center in East Nashville. Every Monday, she helped out in the Teen Center where they do different activities, helps with homework, and spends time with a group of teens who live in a high poverty area of Nashville. The Highlands Ranch, Colo., native also volunteered at Vanderbilt’s Children’s Hospital and two summers ago she worked at the Martha O’Bryan Center, an organization that helps with a lot of different aspects of poverty in Nashville.

She completed her athletic career at Vanderbilt, having started in 57 of 81 games played, including every contest the last two seasons. Baumann came on strong last year, earning second team All-SEC honors after scoring a career best eight goals and three assists to lead the Commodores.

YOUNG TEAM LEARNS ON THE GO

The 2007 team had six underclassmen starters (five freshmen) for most of the year and finished with a 6-10-3 mark. Six of those losses were by a goal, including three in overtime.

Vanderbilt’s Stratton Foster Academic Center offers student athletes a quiet environment to study, either through one-on-one tutor sessions, group sessions, or privately. Conveniently located in the McGugin Athletics Center, athletes can access the academic facilities during the day time and evening hours.

The multi-level area is equipped with state of the art computers, as well as sofas, tables, and chairs to provide students with a comfortable studying environment. The center has received more than $1 million since 1986 for renovations and upkeep.

The Commodore soccer squad consistently takes advantage of the Stratton Foster facilities, boasting one of the highest Vanderbilt varsity GPAs.
Community involvement has long been a hallmark of the Vanderbilt women’s soccer program, a tradition that has continued under Head Coach Ronnie Coveleskie.

Emblematic of the team’s commitment to community service, the program was awarded the 2005 Tolbert Cup, given annually to the Vanderbilt varsity team that has the best combination of winning percentage, community service and cumulative grade point average.

Both Coveleskie and Assistant Coach Cristin Czubik pride themselves in their involvement with Nashville-area youth. Czubik currently coaches a girls’ under-16 soccer team in the Nashville suburb of Brentwood and helped pilot in 2005 what is known as the Vanderbilt University Women’s Soccer Little Sisters Program. The team adopted 23 youth soccer players from an under-9 girls club, which Czubik coached at the time. The players were each paired with a Vanderbilt soccer player to create a Big Sister/Little Sister tandem.

Additionally, the soccer program runs four different summer soccer camps for youth ages five through 18 and which are open to players of varying skill levels. Both the Little Sisters program and the annual Vanderbilt summer soccer camps are aimed at both cultivating relationships with youth in the Nashville area and allowing current Vanderbilt players to give back to the community.

“Some of the most important parts of our jobs is contributing to the community, getting to know the players in the community and allowing our players at Vanderbilt the opportunity to become role models for young girls,” Coveleskie said. “Putting our players in front of the youth of the community allows them to get to know each other and allows our Vanderbilt soccer players to become real people and people that the youth of the community can identify with.”
