

West Coast Conference Golf

MEN'S HISTORY

The West Coast Conference has sponsored a men's golf championship since 1969. Pepperdine has claimed 15 WCC championships since 1990 (and 17 in all dating back to 1987) and took home the NCAA championship title in 1997. During their amazing run, the Waves were led by a pair of Byron Nelson Award winners in Jason Allred, the inaugural winner in 2002, and Michael Putnam, who took home the award in 2005.

In 2012, Saint Mary's captured its first ever WCC men's golf championship. Led by individual champion Ben Geyer, the Gaels shot a -20 over 54 holes to win the men's title by 9 strokes over second place San Francisco.

In 2011, San Francisco won its second title in three years and 10th overall. Three USF golfers finished in the top six: junior Taylor Travis (T-1st), freshman James Back (3rd) and sophomore Ji Hwan Park (6th). Travis also brought home the 2011 individual championship to USF by defeating San Diego's Alex Ching in a playoff.

In 2010, the Waves took home their 17th WCC Men's Golf Championship. Pepperdine finished with a total score of 887 (290-294-303), just five shots ahead of San Diego, which finished with a score of 892 (298-298-296). The men's individual award went to San Diego's Gunner Wiebe, who finished at an even 216 (73-71-72). Wiebe became the first Torero to win the award outright since Patrick Hawkins did it in 1998. Rounding out the top five were Pepperdine's Carl Smith IV (218), San Francisco's Ji Hwan Park (219), Pepperdine's Josh Anderson (220), and Santa Clara's Cory Mehl (221).

In 2009, San Francisco captured its first men's title since 1990 and was led by Domingo Jojola, who finished in second place with a score of 210, just one stroke behind the leader, and Kurt Nino, who had the lowest single round of the tournament at 64 on day one. LMU's Greg Moss was the individual champion with a final score of 209, while Pepperdine's Andrew Putnam won Player of the Year.

2008 marked a first for the University of San Diego as they captured the men's title for the first time in school history. The Toreros were led by juniors Jake Yount, who tied for the individual championship and Darrin Hall.

Loyola Marymount, led by then-freshman Brian Locke, captured the school's first-ever WCC Men's Golf Championship in 2006. Locke, who earned WCC Player of the Year and Freshman of the Year honors, led the Lions with a final round and course record 64 in the WCC Championships to win the WCC individual title. In 2006, three WCC teams earned their first-ever NCAA Tournament appearance as LMU, the conference automatic qualifier, San Diego and Santa Clara earned NCAA West Regional bids. The Lions, along with Pepperdine, advanced out of the West Regional to compete at the NCAA Championships for the first time in school history.

Pepperdine won six titles in seven years from 1991 through 1997, including a record-low 275 strokes in the third round of the 1992 championship at the Torrey Pines North course in La Jolla, California. The 1992 Waves' three-round total of 855 is a record score which stands to date, aided by Steve Van Alstyne's record-setting 6-under-par score. That same year, the Waves' Todd Andrews struck a championship record 66 in the third round to finish runner-up to his teammate. Portland was the squad which dented Pepperdine's streak, pulling away with the 1993 WCC title. That Pilot squad was led by Paul Hanson, whose 6-over-par score was not enough as he lost the individual title to Saint Mary's Eric Meichtry in the first hole of a sudden-death playoff.

The 1980's were dominated by San Francisco, with the Dons winning six titles in the decade. Mike Fabian was one of the most dominant Dons on the links, placing in the top 10 in 1986 and 1987, and winning the individual title outright in 1988 with a 2-over-par 216.

Seattle and Nevada-Reno, two schools no longer members of the West Coast Conference, were the most successful schools on the course in the seventies, with Seattle bringing home 5 consecutive titles, while Nevada won three.

WOMEN'S HISTORY

With the tremendous golf success in the West Coast Conference over the years, the conference added a women's golf championship beginning in 1997. The title has been the property of Pepperdine and San Francisco during its 15-year history, with the Dons winning twice and the Waves taking home thirteen titles. Both schools have finished either first or second in all 14 tournaments.

In 2012, Pepperdine won its 11th consecutive WCC title (911, +47) by topping second-place San Francisco. (917, +53). Individually, Gonzaga's Victoria Fallgren and Seattle's Caitlin McCleary tied for first with a +8 (224). On a one-hole playoff on nine, Fallgren's birdie gave her Gonzaga's first-ever individual champion. Pepperdine's Lee and BYU's Maggie Yuan each finished one shot off the top spot, posting a +9 for the championship.

In 2011, the Waves captured their 13th WCC Women's Golf Championship in the 15-year history of the event with a 16-over par 880. The 36-shot margin victory was the largest in the event since Pepperdine won the 2008 event by 37 shots. Pepperdine freshman Grace Na rallied to win the women's individual title with a 54-hole score of one-over par 217 (72-68-75). Na's victory was the 10th individual conference title in a row for the Waves, and her 54-hole total of one-over par was the lowest in the event since the Waves' Carolina Llano in 2003 (-8, 211, Riverbend GC).

In 2010, the Waves collected another WCC golf championship. The Waves won by a total of 32 strokes with a three-round score of 906 (307-293-306). Their second round score of 293 was the low for the tournament. Finishing in second place for ninth straight year was San Francisco, which finished with a total score of 938. Rounding out the last three teams were Santa Clara (972), Gonzaga (981), and Portland (995). Pepperdine's Lisa McCloskey took home the individual award with a three-round total of 225 (77-74-74) as the Waves took up the top three spots. She was followed closely by teammates Danielle Kang (227) and Jessica Wallace (228). 2009 WCC Player of the Year, Danielle Cvitanov of San Francisco, finished fourth (229), while Pepperdine's Kaitlin Drolson (231) rounded out the top five. McCloskey became the ninth straight Pepperdine player to win the individual title.

Pepperdine also took home the 2009 title, while the Dons finished as runners up. Pepperdine's Jayvie Agojo took home her second career individual title with a three-round score of 221. San Francisco's Danielle Cvitanov took home Player of the Year honors.

The Waves again dominated the field at the 2008 WCC Championships, taking home their seventh consecutive league title. Pepperdine would advance to the NCAA Central Regionals, finishing twelfth. The previous year, Pepperdine would advance to the NCAA Championships finishing seventh. The seventh-place showing marked the seventh Top 10 finish in eight appearances, and fifth straight for the Waves. Included among the those Top 10 showings, are four Top 5 finishes.

For guiding the Waves to a fourth place finish at the national championship in 2005, Head Coach Laurie Gibbs was honored with National Coach of the Year honors by Golfweek.

In 2003, Pepperdine's Katherine Hull completed a record-breaking season for Pepperdine, as she was named the Division I "Player of the Year" by the National Golf Coaches Association (NGCA). Hull made history when she shot a record low round of 63, breaking her previous mark of 64 set in 2002. She was also named first team All-American along with teammate Lindsey Wright. It marked the second straight year that Hull was tabbed a first team All-American and first time that Wright earned first team honors. Pepperdine's Wright and Hull, along with USF's Laing earned all-WCC first team honors for the fourth straight year, joining Pepperdine's Jenny Glasgow ('97-'00) as the only women's golfers to accomplish the feat.

Pepperdine Claims Men's and Women's Golf Championship Titles

The Saint Mary's men's golf team won its first ever WCC Championship last year, while Pepperdine won its 11th consecutive WCC crown.

Saint Mary's junior Ben Geyer shot a birdie on 18 to finish -9 (207) to win the individual title. The Gaels shot a five-under par 283 in Wednesday's final round, finishing with an 844 (-20) for the tournament. The Gaels finished nine shots better than San Francisco (853, -11) and 22 in front of third place BYU (866).

On the women's side, Pepperdine proved too much for San Francisco, as the Waves won the WCC title for the 11th consecutive year. Pepperdine (911, +47) topped USF (917, +53) to win its 14th WCC team title in the last 16 years.

Individually, Gonzaga's Victoria Fallgren and Seattle's Caitlin McCleary tied for first with a +8 (224). On a one-hole playoff on nine, Fallgren's birdie gave her Gonzaga's first-ever individual champion. Pepperdine's Lee and BYU's Maggie Yuan each finished one shot off the top spot,
